High Up in the Air.
If Pullman Could See.
We Shall All Fly Soon.
Bad News Comes Out.

—By ARTHUR BRISBANE—

WINSLOW, Ariz., Jan. 29.

THIS IS written 7,000 to 8,000 feet up in the air, going along the northern strip of Arizona, through Williams and Flagstaff, on the way east across the continent. Five minutes' stop at the Williams railroad station you breathe enough good air to start every red and white cell attending to business.

Only the Power that made it could describe this country, the level stretches, covered with green trees, flooded with warm winter sunshine, mountains in every direction covered with snow and those mountains start at an elevation of seven to eight thousand feet.

THE SKY is as blue as the waters of the Mediterranean, and not a cloud as big as a man's little finger. What looks like a little cloud off to the northeast is a three-quarter moon, faint as a transparent skull in the blue sky.

Beyond question this country and great stretches of New Mexico, and Colorado adjoining it seem made by divine wisdom for a superior race worthy of it.

If in the meanwhile you can send your children out to spend the winter in this country, they would be almost super-children on their return.

HOW IT WOULD delight the late George M. Pullman, father of all sleeping cars, if he could see the wonderful trains that carry his name back and forth across the continent today, trains of solid steel, cars eighty feet long, beautifully made and inexpressibly comfortable. They are different from one with which he started business, selling tickets himself on the platforms in Chicago, the passenger paying 50 cents for the right to one-half of a berth.

He told how he sold one-half a berth to a tall, lanky individual, and how the man who bought the other half complained that there was no room for him, because the first man into the berth had such long legs. The first man was Abraham Lincoln, who obligingly doubled up his legs as much as he could to let the other man have his half of the space.

AMAZED AS HE would be at the sight of a train of modern Pullman cars, George M. Pullman would be more amazed to hear that soon, beyond a doubt, Pullman and all other cars will vanish from long distance service to make way for travel in the air. For several years already the Pullman Company, progressively managed, has been experimenting with "Pullman flying cars," its engineers working out plans for the lightest possible construction.

TWO DAYS ago in San Francisco, Paul Shoup, president of the Southern Pacific Railroad System, told a gathering of contractors that the railroads inevitably would be compelled, in view of present conditions, to include in their work transportation of passengers and freight by air, by highway with motors, and by water. To the credit of the railroad men it must be said that they have done more to encourage air traffic, by establishing their numerous air lines, than any other agency, except the United States postoffice.

WISE MEN that invest in American values, foolish people that gamble in those values, will probably be deceived as to real conditions during the next few months.

The bad news of 1930 will come out now, in the corporation reports showing what happened, profits down, gloomy change in earnings. And this will frighten those that do not realize conditions. You read now that the Jones & Laughlin Steel Corporation made $8.64 a share in 1930 against $29.04 in 1929.

In the same column you see that De Voe & Reynolds, who make paints, earned only $132,229 in 1930 against $1,085,615 the year before.

DOZENS OF THESE sad statements will come out and the foolish will say:

"Everything is going to the dogs. I shall sell what I have."

The fact is that things are coming back, having "gone to the dogs" last year.

If you are wise you will hold what you have.

THE HEALTHY man has his little illnesses. Uncle Sam has just had his. The situation is described by Otto H. Kahn, accurately, thus:

"In a few years we shall look back and find it hard to believe that the best American properties once sold at today's ridiculous prices."

IN THIS WESTERN part of the world they do not make heroes of racketeers or criminals. They lock them up.

NEW YORK in the East and Los Angeles in the West might both learn something from Colorado's attitude toward these modern prohibition products, the organized racketeers.

Capt. Clark, of the Denver

GOV. PINCHOT SEEKS RATE FACTS

Asks Institute for Data In Move to Back Up Claim Of Excessive Charges

By E. W. PRENDERGAST,
Staff Correspondent.

HARRISBURG, Jan. 29.—Gov. Gifford Pinchot prepared today for the opening battle in his war on "unfair" public utilities.

While rumblings were being heard of the reopening of the senatorial investigation of Pinchot's charges that the utilities were attempting to control the state and even national governments, the tall Forester rushed an urgent request for ammunition to support his charges that the cost of electricity to consumers is too high.

REQUEST TO INSTITUTE

He sent the request to the American Institute of Electrical Engineers for information on distribution of electric current, data so far withheld from the public, he charged, and which he believes accounts for increased domestic rates.

The Governor has repeatedly asserted that he can see no reason why electric current should cost the consumer more than five cents a kilowatt hour, pointing out that there is an abundance of figures on generation and transmission costs, with none on the vital factor of distribution.

His request for information was forwarded today to William S. Lee, president of the society, which is now holding sessions in New York.

GOVERNOR'S LETTER

In a lengthy letter in which the Governor explains that while consumer groups use more than one-quarter of the electricity generated, they supply approximately 60 per cent of the industry's revenue," he warned of the failure of commissions to adequately control rates, and that state commission regulation was threatened.

He said:

"One of the principal difficulties in regulating domestic, commercial and rural electric service is the entire absence of any literature on distribution engineering, a phase of expense peculiar to the service to small consumers and alleged to account for our high domestic, commercial and rural rates.

"Our public service commissions have at their disposal a wealth of information about the generation of electricity and about its transmission. But about distribution, which covers

NUMBER BOOKS MAY GAMBLE ON WEATHER

Racketeers Propose Plan To Total Temperatures In 51 Cities as New Base

Pittsburgh and national "numbers" operations were paralyzed today as leaders marked time, weighing the virtues of various bases for their racket. Some of the larger books suspended operations, others rolled dice or spun a wheel for the number yesterday after the New York Stock Exchange disrupted their play by withholding the complete total of stock sales.

The delay in finding a new "number" source was decided upon at a conference in Oakland last night, leaders choosing to "sleep" on several suggestions before setting a course. A final decision was expected this week in time to go into effect Monday.

The temperature reports of 51 American cities issued by the United States Weather Bureau seemed to receive most favor with the group meeting last night.

EXPLAINS SYSTEM

The report lists two columns of temperatures from the cities—the 8 a. m. temperatures in each and the lowest temperature between 8 p. m. the previous day and 8 a. m. Combining the two columns into one, the operators would make a total of the four-figure numbers and use the figures in the thousands, hundreds and tens columns as the day's number.

One man explained:

"In Wednesday's temperature bulletin, by combining the two temperature columns, the 8 a. m. and the 12-hour low, and adding, you strike a total of 203,146. The number would be 314. There's plenty of change

AIMEE HOAXED BY BOGUS BARON

Hiring of 'Dashing Nobleman' In Budapest Revealed by Demand for $20,000 Pay

By A. M. ROCHLEN,
Universal Service.

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 29.—Romantic details of how Aimee Semple McPherson was bunkoed out of $900 by a fake Hungarian baron during her last pilgrimage to the Holy Land were uncovered by Universal Service last night.

The facts came to light following the arrival in Los Angeles of "Sister" McPherson's long-missing ermine coat, valued at several thousand dollars, after its hectic career in gay Budapest.

From far-away shores of the Blue Danube, cradle of old-world romance, they came—the coat and the story, but the end is not yet in sight.

Right on the heels of the little ermine came a demand for $20,000, asked of Mrs. McPherson in a letter supposedly written by the "baron's wife," a new character in the strange comedy-drama.

"BACK PAY" FOR "BARON"

This money, the letter indicated, was for "back pay" due the "baron" for services he was to have performed in Los Angeles had he not remained in Hungary.

"Sister" McPherson is said to have met the dashing baron and to have parted company with her comfortable coat while a guest in a fashionable island resort nestling on the Danube.

The letter has been turned over by Mrs. McPherson to her attorney, F. Joseph Ford, who is investigating the "baron," the fu

Court Martial!

GEN. SMEDLEY D. BUTLER

Gen. Butler, U. S. Marine Corps, whose remarks about Mussolini have brought orders for a court martial from Navy Secretary Adams. Gen. Fuller has ordered him under arrest.

TALK BRINGS MARINE TO TRIAL

Hoover Greatly Exercised Over Protests Made by Italy; General Replaced

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 29.—The United States apologized to Italy today for the speech of Maj. Gen. Smedley D. Butler, United States Marine Corps, in which he cast reflections upon the Italian premier, Benito Mussolini.

The apology was contained in a note which Secretary of State Stimson handed to the Italian ambassador, Nobile De Martino, this morning soon after the Navy Department had ordered a general court martial for Gen. Butler and relieved him of his command at Quantico, Va., where the fiery Marine was told to hold himself under military arrest.

State Department officials, while admitting they could not recall any similar apology recently, pointed out that the American government has apologized to other governments occasionally where loss of life has resulted and recalled that this government formally apologized in 1925 when the Washington police seized and later released a diplomatically-immune shipment of liquor to the Siamese legation.

STIMSON STATEMENT

Announcement that the apology had been sent was made by Stimson as follows:

"Having learned from the Navy Department that Maj. Gen. Smedley D. Butler, U. S. Marine Corps, had admitted that the quotation of his remarks in the press was substantially correct, I have this morning handed a note to the Italian ambassador expressing to Signor Mussolini and to the Italian people the deep regret of this government at this unauthor-

2 REDS REFUSE TO PAY FINES

Refusing to pay $10 fines imposed at a hearing before Magistrate Leo Rothenberg in Central Police Court, Nell Amter, 21, of 845 Grand avenue, and Ernest Carauthers, a Negro, of Jacobin way, alleged Communists, began 30-day jail sentences today.

The pair was arrested yesterday during an attempted demonstration in the City Council chambers as Council met to act upon unemployment relief. Several other alleged Reds were evicted from the chamber by special police but were not arrested.

As Carauthers and the Amter woman were led to jail, Jacob Margolis, their counsel, asked Rothenberg's clerk for transcripts of the hearing. Both defendants had refused to testify.

The woman's arrest occurred after John Herron, president of Council, had made several efforts to subdue her outbursts protesting unemployment in Pittsburgh during a Council meeting.

Pupils Mourn Policeman Killed by Automobile

Mr. Beran

Pupils of St. Mary's Parochial School, Forty-sixth street, today missed the pleasant greeting of Patrolman Joseph Beran, friendly policeman, who protected them as they crossed Butler street at Forty-sixth street going to and from school.

Beran, 43, for eight years a traffic officer at the intersection, was injured fatally last night at Butler and Forty-seventh streets when struck by an automobile.

Only five days ago a brother, George Beran, 19, was killed in an automobile accident in Weirton, W. Va.

Beran, who lived at 1807 Rialto street, North Side, died in St. Margaret's Hospital 10 minutes after the accident. Police arrested James McElfish, 40, of 1102 DeVictor place, as driver of the machine.

Two weeks ago Patrolman Peter Waters, who directed traffic at the Woolslair School in the same police district, was fatally injured by an automobile at Penn avenue and Forty-fourth street. Beran, a member of the force 12 years, leaves his widow, Anna; a son, Joseph, Jr., 12, and two daughters, Anna, 10, and Bessie, 4.

MINE GIVES UP 29 DEAD

LINTON, Ind., Jan. 29.—(INS.)—An official death toll of 29 was announced today as the last of the charred bodies were taken from the Little Betty mine near here, scene of Indiana's third major mining disaster since 1925.

As the twenty-ninth body was brought to the surface officials announced that they had accounted for all men who were in the mine when a deafening blast shook the entire countryside yesterday afternoon. The number of those rescued alive was announced as nine, three of whom suffered severe injuries.

The rescued men had managed to barricade themselves in a distant part of the mine after the explosion and kept away the deadly after-damp.

Pittsburgher Says Butler Quoted Vanderbilt

Maj. Gen. Butler's description of Premier Mussolini as a speeding hit-and-run driver is that supplied by Cornelius Vanderbilt, Jr., last November, according to P. MacInnes Neilson of the Neilson Bureau here.

Mr. Neilson said today that he was among the audience of 20 or more, including Gen. Butler, attending a meeting of the Affiliated Bureaus of America at New York, who heard young Vanderbilt, one-time newspaperman and author, tell of the incident, Neilson added.

"Butler's speech was just as Vanderbilt told it—to the last detail. Vanderbilt told how they were speeding along the road when the auto struck the child."

The machine ran over her, Vanderbilt said, but Mussolini continued on. Vanderbilt said he protested and suggested they stop, but Mussolini, according to Vanderbilt, passed it off with a gesture and remarked that they "did not have time."

Other persons said to have been present when Vanderbilt told the story included Louis J. Alberts, Cleveland; O. B. Stephenson, Chicago; M. C. Turney, Dallas, Tex.; F. A. Wicks, Boston, and Clarence H. White of Portland, Ore.

ized action on the part of an officer on active duty."

The text of the note follows:

"I have the honor to express the deep regret which this government feels at the reflections against the prime minister of Italy in the recent statements of Maj. Gen. Smedley D. Butler, U. S. Marine Corps, at Philadelphia on January 19. The sincere regrets of this government are extended to Mr. Mussolini and to the Italian people for this discourteous and unwarranted action by a commissioned officer of this government on active duty.

"Believe me, etc.,

"Henry L. Stimson."

Maj. Gen. Benjamin H. Fuller, commandant of the Marine Corps, telephoned the news of the court martial to Gen. Butler at the Quantico marine base, 40 miles from Washington, this morning. He instructed the Quantico commander to [illegible] himself under military arrest, which means he is confined to the post.

Butler also was ordered to turn over his command at Quantico to Brig. Gen. Randolph C. Berkeley.

HOOVER EXERCISED

President Hoover is said to have taken a personal as well as official interest in the case. At any rate the Butler-Mussolini episode was [illegible] discussed at Tuesday's cabinet meeting and Mr. Hoover was said to have been considerably exercised over it.

Presumably Gen. Butler will be tried by a court of general officers made up of the Navy and Marine Corps under the ninety-sixth article of war. This is the [illegible] statute that is popularly known in the service as "Old Mother Hubbard" because it covers everything. The specific charge is understood to be conduct unbecoming an officer.

In his speech Gen. Butler is reported to have pictured Mussolini as a [illegible] who [illegible] a child along an Italian road and then [illegible]

"What is one life in the affairs of state?"

There were other reflections on [illegible] the Italian [illegible] Butler's speech.

ITALY PROTESTS

A protest against Gen. Butler's remarks was promptly made at the State Department by Ambassador Di Martino upon orders from the Italian foreign office. The State Department asked the Navy Department to investigate the incident and Secretary of the Navy Adams called upon Gen. Butler for an explanation.

In a letter Gen. Butler placed in Secretary Adams' hands today he admitted making substantially the remarks attributed to him and the order for the court martial followed.

Speculation was rife as to whether Butler will continue in the United States Marine Corps, for friends of the stormy Marine asserted today that Butler would resign his commission rather than apologize personally to the Italian embassy.

Butler considers that he had "good authority" for his reference to Mussolini. This authority was reported today to have been Cornelius Vanderbilt, Jr., globe-trotter and occasional journalist. It was Vanderbilt, according to reports, who told Butler of the alleged incident of Mussolini.

In any event, Butler related the tale in an address before the Contemporary Club in Philadelphia 10 days ago, and things immediately began to happen. Mussolini instructed his ambassador here to lodge an immediate and vigorous protest against any American general making such a remark and Ambassador Di Martino made tracks for the State Department immediately.

Then the red tape began to unwind. The State Department called upon the Navy Department for investigation, and the Navy Department called on Butler for explanation, but not before the cabinet had discussed the incident.

MAY RESIGN

Butler has been contemplating resigning from the Marine Corps, his friends say, ever since the command of the corps was not tendered him several months ago upon the death of Maj. Gen. Neville. Maj. Gen. Fuller was chosen commandant instead of Butler, and the fact is said to have rankled.

Butler has long been a spectacular and to some extent a stormy figure in Marine Corps circles. Although possessed of a fine service record, which includes the Congressional Medal of Honor, he has nevertheless managed to figure in a number of spectacular episodes which have brought him publicity and limelight.

During the Coolidge administration he was loaned to the City of Philadelphia as its "clean up crusader." He was given charge of the police force and supposedly a free hand to rid the city of bootlegging, vice and racketeering.

After a period of tempestuous service in which there was much publicity, he returned to the Marine Corps and Philadelphia returned to its normal ways.

One of Butler's first assignments after his Philadelphia experience was to command the Marine base at San Diego. During this assignment he again came in for much publicity by preferring charges against a distinguished Marine Corps colonel whom he observed taking a drink at a private dance. Gen. Butler incurred resentment in the service over this affair.

The 29, it is understood, already wish that they had never heard of Denver. They will seek, when released, some one of the nice places outside of Colorado where gangsters and racketeers, some police and one judge are in partnership.

VANDERBILT HAS NO COMMENT ON BUTLER

Declines to Shed Light On Report He Told Butler Story About Mussolini

International News Service

PHOENIX, Ariz., Jan. 29.—"I am sorry, but I have no statement to make right now."

So declared Cornelius Vanderbilt, Jr., publicist and former newspaper owner, today when he was questioned about a report he had originated the "hit-and-run" story about Premier Mussolini of Italy, for the telling of which Gen. Smedley D. Butler, Marine Corps, is to be court martialed.

Vanderbilt said he [illegible] a written [illegible] to [illegible]

Vanderbilt, asked if he would make a more complete declaration, [illegible]

"I cannot elaborate on that statement."

DECLINES TO ANSWER

Vanderbilt was informed by International News Service that in consequence of uttering the hit-and-run story in a Philadelphia speech Gen. Butler had been ordered court martialed and that the incident had provoked exchanges between the government of Italy and the United States.

Vanderbilt was asked:

"If needed, would you testify for Gen. Butler at the court-martial?"

He replied:

"I believe my first statement that I will not comment now, answers that question."

SILENT ON WHITE

"I know about the statement of Clarence H. White at Portland, Ore., that he heard me tell the story to a group, including Gen. Butler.

"And as for that, I am not going to say anything at present."

Vanderbilt said that he had been busy answering telephone and telegraphic inquiries from all parts of the world. These inquiries, he said, failed to budge Vanderbilt from his determination not to discuss the Butler-Mussolini incident. He said:

"I came to Phoenix this morning merely to do a little shopping."

"The temperature is so necessary to commerce and industry that the government couldn't censor it. I think that's the way we'll decide to book, although we're still going to look for a better number.

SUBJECT TO PROOF

"A number reached in this way couldn't be 'fixed,' and varies greatly. If the public didn't think the operators were paying off on the right number each day, it could add up the temperatures itself and see."

Forecaster W. S. Brotzman, questioned concerning possible efforts by the weather bureau to forestall use of its figures, said:

"The weather bureau could hardly change its present system, in effect for 58 years. All our reports come by telegraph, and in code to lessen telegraphic costs. The reports come from Chicago and New York, distributing centers of weather data for the West and East respectively."

Other suggestions included a number chosen from the average of quotations on industrial, railroad and public utility stocks on the New York Stock Exchange, a number based on total sales on the London, England, stock exchange and the clearings of the Kansas City Clearing House.

coat transaction, the "nobleman's" wife, and the surprising letter.

According to the information obtained from a source close to the evangelist, the demand for the $20,000 is based on an alleged promise of employment for the baron in evangelistical work. Just how and why the baron decided to leave his old-world domain to labor at evangelism at $2,000 a month remains a mystery to those who have heard the strange story.

AIMEE NOT LOCATED

There is none who could tell it so well as Mrs. McPherson, but she is away somewhere on a long trip.

Mrs. McPherson left Los Angeles, oddly enough, the day after the fur coat arrived from its wanderings through Europe and efforts to reach her for her own version of the whole affair were unsuccessful.

The evangelist left the city on orders of her physician, Dr. Edward H. Williams, noted nerve specialist, who said he urged her to go away for a complete rest and removal from all nerve strain and details incidental to her work at Angelus Temple.

Scientists Stirred By Whale Skeleton

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 29.—(INS)—Paleontologists today expressed great interest in the discovery in a hillside near here of the perfect remains of a beaked whale which is said to be more than 3,000,000 years old. The skeleton of the whale was found imbedded in rock, clay and sand eight feet below the surface of the earth. It is said to be the first one ever discovered with its skull intact.

BONUS DELAY CHARGED TO 'ERROR'

Billion Dollar 'Mistake' by Treasury Prevented Cash Payment, Pattman Says

International News Service

WASHINGTON, Jan. 29.—A mistake of $1,000,000,000 by the Treasury in estimating the amount of the government's deficit in 1925 prevented the World War veterans from being paid their bonus in cash instead of insurance, Representative Patman (Dem.), of Texas, told the Senate Finance Committee today at the hearings on bill providing cash redemption now.

He said the Treasury had estimated a deficit of nearly $400,000,000, when as a matter of fact a surplus of $600,000,000 existed.

FAVORS PAYMENT

He appeared before the committee in behalf of full payment of the bonus "as a fair adjustment of wages the veteran failed to receive during the war." He said many soldiers went to the "pay table" at the end of the month and came away without drawing a cent. He continued:

"I've seen whole companies fall out empty-handed with all the deductions made from their pay for dependents, insurance, laundry, mess, barber and even for mending their clothes.

"Despite the fact that they were in uniform serving their country, the government demanded they buy Liberty bonds and the deductions were made for these."

Patman charged that Secretary Mellon was opposed to the veteran getting the bonus and "this fact must be taken into account by the committee in connection with his objections raised here." He said:

"Secretary Mellon's feeling toward the veteran is such that the mistakes he makes in his estimates are always against the veterans. I do not mean to say they were dishonest mistakes or that there was any corruption, but a man's feelings will cause him to make estimates in accordance with his views."

COUZENS RAISES HOPE

Meanwhile, despite Secretary Mellon's opposition to cashing veterans' bonus certificates, advocates of the plan were openly declaring today the Senate Finance Committee would approve such a proposal.

Their claims were strengthened by the announcement of Senator Couzens (Rep.), Michigan, one of the two members of the committee who hold the "balance of power" that he favors paying the veterans the full face value of their certificates.

The House Ways and Means Committee, in which the legislation must originate, was ready to begin hearings today on a number of cash-payment bills, costing from $855,000,000 to $3,400,000,000.

PROPONENTS CONFIDENT

Friends of the legislation were confident the committee would approve one of the measures. Officials of government departments were called for testimony today.

Mellon's statement before the Senate committee yesterday strengthened the belief of congressional leaders that President Hoover will veto any bill calling for cash payment of the face value of the certificates. They believe, too, he would be likely to disapprove one of the less-expensive measures calling for cashing the certificates at their current value.

Ohio Senate Backs Vets' Cash Bonus

COLUMBUS, O., Jan. 29.—(AP)—With only one dissenting vote, the Ohio Senate decided today to memorialize Congress to adopt legislation for immediate cash retirement of World War veterans' adjusted service certificates. The resolution now awaits a vote of the House.

Coolidge Sees Cash Bonus As Delay to Prosperity

NORTHAMPTON, Mass., Jan. 29.

To the Editor of the Sun-Telegraph:

ONE TROUBLE with the argument proposing to revive business by distributing a cash bonus among the veterans of the World War is that it proves too much. If only that were necessary to make good times, probably we now should have our greatest peace-time prosperity, for the amount of money being paid out by all our governments is the greatest on record. If prosperity is the goal a distribution of public money would evidently be more effective if given to everybody.

Calvin Coolidge

Another difficulty is the necessity of borrowing this fund. At a time when capital has been exhausted and needs to be recreated by earnings, the dissipation of a large sum of borrowed money could only delay prosperity. We cannot lift ourselves by our financial boot straps. Any one familiar with governmental finance knows that borrowing increases the burden on production and is a wasteful process. The future is already over-mortgaged. We need to conserve, retrench and reduce expenses to income.

What the veterans gave cannot be measured in money. It was priceless. Both paying a cash bonus and borrowing money to revive business are part of the same delusion that the people can rely on the government alone to furnish salvation.

CALVIN COOLIDGE.

FARM HAND CONFESSED CRIME

Masked Band Breaks Into Cell, Hangs Victim to Bridge; Father Unmolested

SCHAFER, N. D., Jan. 29.—(AP.)—Charles Bannon, 22, confessed slayer of six members of the A. E. Haven family, was lynched by a mob here early today.

Overpowering a deputy sheriff, the mob broke into the Schafer jail, took Bannon to a bridge two miles east of here and hanged him. James F. Bannon, father of Charles, also held in connection with the Haven slayings, was not molested.

The mob arrived at the jail about 1 a. m., surrounded Deputy Sheriff Peter S. Hallan and tied him to a chair. Members of the crowd took the younger Bannon from his cell after breaking down its door and rushed him away in an automobile.

SHERIFF BOUND

Sheriff F. A. Thompson, aroused by the commotion, was seized and also tied.

Charles Bannon pleaded that his father be not harmed, urging:

"Save my dad."

He was told the elder Bannon would be given a chance with the courts and would not be harmed by the mob. He was not taken from the jail.

HANGED FROM RAIL

When the bridge was reached a one-inch rope was produced from a car and fastened to the railing and a slipknot placed around Bannon's neck. He was pushed off the rail and dropped about 20 feet.

The mob dispersed. No shots were fired.

Sheriff Thompson, who lives two blocks from the jail, was seized when he came to investigate the noise of the timbers breaking down the doors.

Young Bannon was brought to the McKenzie County jail here several days ago from the Williams County jail at Williston, N. D., where he had been held for safe keeping since his arrest. He and his father were to have been arraigned here tomorrow on first degree murder charges.

LYNCHERS WEAR MASKS

Officials estimated 80 men were in the mob. All wore masks and some were armed. They gathered quietly at the jail and then, using huge timbers, battered down the front door.

Leaders of the attackers urged Deputy Hallan to yield the keys for the cells. He refused to say where they were and the leaders left. They returned soon and using the timbers again smashed down a steel door to reach young Bannon.

Confession by Charles Bannon early in December that he had slain Mr. and Mrs. Haven and their four children climaxed one of the most sensational crimes in North Dakota's history.

SHOOTS, BURIES VICTIMS

Bannon had been employed on the Haven farm near Schafer, which is in Northwestern North Dakota. Last February, he told authorities that after a quarrel he shot and killed first one, and then another of the Havens and buried their remains in a barn on the place.

He told friends and neighbors the Havens had left the farm and had gone to live in Oregon. Late in November, Bannon was arrested on a charge of selling property that did not belong to him—hogs from the Haven farm.

At his trial he was questioned repeatedly about the whereabouts of the Havens. Checking in Oregon failed to locate them. Finally he told authorities he had helped bury a baby which he said Mrs. Haven had killed during a fit of insanity.

DETERMINE NECESSITY OF SHOTS

Quiz Into Fatal Shelling Wants To Find If Gunboat Could Take Foe Without Firing

NEW YORK, Jan. 29—(AP) The Josephine K, Canadian rum-runner captured off Ambrose Light Saturday night after her master had been mortally wounded by a Coast Guard shell, sailed down the bay today to race with the C. G. 145, the ship which shelled and seized her.

The purpose of the race, arranged by the Coast Guard board of inquiry investigating the shelling, was to determine whether the cutter had speed enough to overhaul the rum ship without resorting to direct fire.

The question was injected into the investigation by Gerald Campbell, British consul general in New York, who is participating at the request of the Canadian government.

RACE ON PURSUIT COURSE

Commander J. J. Bryan, presiding officer at the inquiry, announced the race at the opening of today's session.

The two vessels—one known as the fleetest craft in the rum service, the other designed to cope with just such speedsters—were to cover the same five-mile course over which they raced Saturday night.

The Josephine K, the board of inquiry was informed, had been conditioned for today's race. Her steering gear was damaged by a shell shot by Boatswain Karl Schmidt in Saturday's chase.

QUIZ GUARD EXECUTIVE

The board heard testimony before the race from C. G. Birkett, executive officer of the Coast Guard cutter Sebago, who drew up alongside the Josephine K a few hours after the shelling. He had been summoned by a radio message from the 145.

Birkett testified he checked the position of the rum ship by gyro compass and by radio compass, and determined that she was 11.7 miles offshore.

E. Gerald Shepherd, representing the British consul, questioned Birkett in an effort to establish that the Josephine K had been towed back within the 12-mile limit before he reached the scene. The Coast Guard officer said he did not believe she had.

Birkett told investigators that shortly after he boarded the rum ship he talked with Alfred Cluett, whose brother, Capt. Cluett, was killed. The officer said he inspected Alfred Cluett's bankbook and was surprised to see a balance of only $50, Birkett testified.

"I told him he must be a newcomer to this business, and he said, 'this is my first—and last—trip'."

EX-GOV. WALTON INDICTED

OKLAHOMA CITY, Jan. 29.—(AP)—A pamphlet, "Why Investors Lose in Oil," has led to the indictment of an ex-governor, a former New York police commissioner, an editor and a stock promoter on charges of using the mails to defraud.

J. G. (Jack) Walton, impeached as chief executive of Oklahoma; Richard E. Enright, the ex-commissioner of police; Henry Knight Miller, editor of Psychology, and S. E. J. Cox, of Oklahoma City, were among 19 persons formally accused yesterday by a federal grand jury.

They face charges in the operation of the defunct Universal Oil and Gas Company, which went into receivership last year.

Roy S. Lewis, district attorney, asserted the pamphlet, written by Walton, assisted in building up confidence through which the public was defrauded of $750,000.

PRIEST SCORES TAX LENIENCY

A reduction of four mills in city taxes could be made if certain public utility corporations, schools, hospitals and charitable institutions were compelled to pay taxes, according to the Rev. Father James R. Cox, rector of Old St. Patrick's Church, Liberty avenue.

Father Cox, after being asked for an opinion on tax exemptions, investigated city records. In a statement issued today he said:

"There are exemptions amounting to more than $225,000,000 in the city of Pittsburgh on taxable property. The exact total is $225,594,711.

"City, county, state and federal building and land exemptions total $89,583,787. Other figures are:

"Schools, universities and colleges, all denominations, $47,762,670; religious and charitable associations, asylums and homes, $8,495,818; churches, all denominations, $30,090,320; hospitals, $10,550,898; cemeteries, $8,030,358."

According to Father Cox, the Bell Telephone Company and many other public utilities pay no taxes to the city, county or state. Exemptions in this group total $31,080,860.

Paymasters Guarded After Holdup Tip

On a tip from an out-of-town police department that a payroll holdup was planned here, two squads of county detectives today guarded the paymaster of the Pittsburgh Coal Company in carrying a $3,000 payroll today from a Castle Shannon bank to mines at Mollenauer and Bruceton. They also guarded a payroll of several hundred dollars sent to Castle Shannon by the Pittsburgh Railways Company, without incident.

Woman Awarded $800 Heart Balm

BEAVER, Pa., Jan. 29.—Mrs. Johanna Remler, Sewickley, was given $800 balm by a jury in her action against Reuben Teaford, Beaver Falls painter, for breach of promise. Mrs. Remler had sued for $5,000, alleging Teaford had asked to marry her, broke off the engagement and married Mrs. May Magaw.

Irene, Dague Capture Awards Postponed

NEW CASTLE, Pa., Jan. 29.—The County Commissioners announced that they are so busy with tax revision plans that they are unable to take up the matter of distributing the reward money offered for the recapture of Irene Schroeder and W. Glenn Dague, slayers of Corp. Brady Paul. They expect to resume their investigation to the claims as soon as the work is over.

Gigli Sings in Kitchen; 'Shut Up,' Orders Chef

WASHINGTON, Jan. 29.—(AP)—Beniamino Gigli found a hotel chef less responsive to his arias than are the Metropolitan Opera audiences.

In fact, the chef told the tenor to "shut up that noise."

Gigli, after a brief rehearsal in the garden of the Mayflower Hotel, was led by an assistant manager on a short cut through the kitchen to the ball room for a concert.

The tenor walked through the kitchen still singing the aria he shortly was to sing in public, all unaware of Chef Jacques Haeringer's ban forbidding his cooks to sing while working.

Haeringer had been troubled recently by one dissenting tenor among his culinary experts and Gigli's swelling notes rising from among the ovens brought the irate chef on the scene with the curt command to "shut up that noise."

Mrs. Herbert Hoover was one of those who heard the tenor after the kitchen rehearsal.

LOCAL AIR MAIL PLANE WRECKS

An air mail plane piloted by Crow Sebree, en route from Pittsburgh to Cleveland, turned over in making a forced landing in a heavy snowstorm near North Lima, O., early today, according to a report received by the local offices of the Pennsylvania Air Lines, Inc.

The pilot was unhurt. The plane damaged $50, Cliff Ball, manager and vice president of the air lines, was informed.

Sebree left Bettis Field at 12:30 a. m. An hour later, lost in the storm, he landed in a field, the soft ground causing his plane to turn a somersault. The mail cargo was taken by auto to Youngstown and from there sent on to Cleveland.

Several months ago Pilot Sebree escaped unscathed in making a forced landing on the Pennsylvania Railroad road bed at Sewickley, because of bad weather.

SHOUTS HER DENIALS

EDWINA BOOTH . . . DENIES SHE MADE LOVE TO RENALDO

Miss Booth, sued in Los Angeles by Mrs. Susette Renaldo for $50,000 for alienation, emphatically denied to the prosecuting attorney that she made love to Renaldo, also a film figure, or urged him to divorce his wife so that they could be married very soon.

CONRAD WINS EDISON MEDAL

NEW YORK, Jan. 29.—(INS)—The World War made early development of the radio possible, according to Dr. Frank Conrad, of Pittsburgh, who received the 1930 Edison Medal, awarded annually by the American Institute of Electrical Engineers for outstanding achievement in the field of electricity, here last night.

In accepting the medal, Dr. Conrad said the military necessities of war time furnished the incentive and financial support for development of radio.

Dr. Conrad is assistant chief engineer of the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Company. Of the 20 scientists who have received the Edison medal he is the only one who did not attend an institution of higher learning. When he left school at 16 he got a job as a drill press operator and worked his way to the top of the electrical engineering profession.

Curtis Asks About Carrie Nation, Wickersham

WASHINGTON, Jan. 29.—(AP)—Vice President Curtis put a question to members of the Kansas State Society last night which he himself chose not to answer. It was:

"What would Carrie Nation have done about the Wickersham report?"

He injected the question into a summary of events in the history of Kansas in which the famous crusader figured.

PRINCES SAIL FOR HAVANA

HAMILTON, Bermuda, Jan. 29.—(INS)—The Earl of Chester and Lieut. George Windsor, otherwise known as the Prince of Wales and Prince George, were on the high seas again today aboard the liner Oropesa, following an eight-hour stopover here yesterday.

Their next stop will be at Havana on Sunday or Monday. It is unlikely, however, that the princes will debark at the Cuban capital. From Havana they will proceed to Jamaica, thence through the Panama Canal and down the west coast of South America on their mission as ambassadors of British trade.

The heir to the British throne looked fatigued as he left here yesterday evening after a busy day.

Following an official welcome on shipboard he had played a round of golf at the Mid-Ocean Club, been the guest of honor at a reception to 600 Bermudans and American winter residents at government house and reviewed a party of war veterans.

So keen was the prince to play the full 18-hole round of golf that he passed up a regular luncheon, taking only a sandwich and a glass of beer instead.

Fall from Bridge Fatal to Man, 63

UNIONTOWN, Pa., Jan. 29.—(AP.)—Harry McMillian, 63, Fredericktown, Washington County, died in Brownsville General Hospital last night from injuries received when he lost his balance and fell over a bridge railing, striking the pavement 25 feet below.

DAISY AND CLARA SUED BY BANK

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Jan. 29.—(INS)—While Clara Bow, film actress, was recovering from a cold and her former secretary, Miss Daisy De Voe, was waiting to file an appeal from her recent conviction of having embezzled $825 from her former employer, both today had been named as co-defendants in a civil action brought by the Beverly Hills National Bank.

The bank sued in an effort to collect $400 on a check which Miss De Voe wrote on Miss Bow's special account and upon which payment was later stopped by the actress. The bank also levied an attachment of $140 in cash and $2,800 in jewelry which had been presented against Miss De Voe at her trial.

GANDHI MEETS INDIA WORKERS

BOMBAY, Jan. 29.—(INS)—The attention of all persons interested in the cessation of civil strife in India were centered on Allahabad, India's "City of God," today as Mahatma Gandhi, instigator of the civil disobedience movement, met other members of the All-India Congress working committee.

India's holy man arrived in Allahabad yesterday evening following his release from jail on Monday. He avoided huge crowds waiting to welcome him with enthusiasm similar to that of Bombay throngs on Tuesday by leaving his train a few miles out of the city and motoring to the city.

In interviews since his release Gandhi has declared that the civil disobedience movement will not be called off until the political prisoners arrested in India since January, 1930 have been released.

Dancer's Husband Slain in New York

NEW YORK, Jan. 29.—(INS)—With three bullets through his body, Joseph Anastasi, 25, a metal turner, was found dead on a street today. His wife, a dancer in a public dance hall, told police her husband had no enemies and she knew no reason for the murder.

30 PUPILS HURT IN BUS UPSET

YOUNGSTOWN, O., Jan. 29.—(AP)—Thirty children were bruised or cut when a school bus overturned in a ditch today, 18 miles east of this city. Two of the children were so seriously hurt they were taken to a hospital at New Castle, Pa.

Thirty-five children were riding in the bus; all but five were cut or bruised.

The bus upset when, according to R. W. Barris, the driver, it was forced off the road by a truck.

Gold Spike to Mark Completed Rail Line

CONNELLSVILLE, Pa., Jan. 29.—A gold spike ceremony formally marking completion of the Pittsburgh and West Virginia Railway's extension from Cochrans Mill to this city will be held February 10, H. H. Temple, chief engineer, announced. The exercises will be held after a trip of 39.87 miles of the route by officials on a special train.

The driving of the gold spike will be followed by a testimonial dinner at the Pleasant Valley Country Club, sponsored by the board of trade.

Jungle Love Theft Denied By Edwina Booth

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 29.—(AP)—The spell of the African jungle and the tropical moon was written off at naught in a deposition by Edwina Booth, blonde film actress, on file today with a $50,000 alienation of affections suit filed against her by Mrs. Suzette Renaldo.

The actress made the deposition yesterday, angrily denying Mrs. Renaldo's charges of stealing the love of Duncan Renaldo, actor, while they were filming "Trader Horn" in Africa last year. Asked if she spent her leisure with Renaldo in Africa, Miss Booth replied vehemently:

"No, I did not. I wandered about alone at night."

She denied she visited Renaldo's cabin while on shipboard, and that the actor lived at her home upon their return.

Miss Booth's marriage to Anthony G. Schuck was annulled and the Renaldos were divorced after the film party returned to Hollywood.

In the hearing she was asked:

"Did you not boast to your former husband that Renaldo was so under your spell he would commit suicid if you did not marry him?"

"No, certainly not."

"Did you not ask Renaldo to divorce his wife so he could marry you?"

"Absolutely not."

Miss Booth said she did not learn Renaldo was married until they were sailing through the Red Sea, when another member of the cast told her he had a wife and a 4-year-old son.

Miss Booth, asked whether her landlady had threatened to evict her after finding Renaldo in her room, refused to answer.

"The existence of a large municipal payroll holding its jobs largely in return for political activity tends to destroy the freedom of elections and perpetuate a municipal administration in office against the wishes of the disinterested voters.

"The spirit of the law has for years been almost completely disregarded by the mayor in appointing to the civil service commission men notoriously active in politics when the law requires such appointees to be in full sympathy with the purposes of the law and in selecting his campaign manager the president of the civil service commission who resigned temporarily to perform this service and who is recognized as a ward leader when the law forbids the civil service commissioner to serve on political committees or to be active in party politics."

The resolution [illegible] of public office [illegible] party committees [illegible] ize political power and increases the danger of bosses with all its implications. Appended to the resolution and report of the committee was a list of the Republican city committee showing 32 ward chairmen, only three of whom were not on the city or county payroll in some capacity.

MANAGER PLAN UPHELD

Through another resolution the allied boards reiterated their approval of the city manager plan of government for Pittsburgh and urged representatives in the State Legislature to support an enabling act to permit the city and other cities to petition for and vote on that plan and also for a plan of proportional representation in City Council.

Use of excessive sums in elections was deplored in the formal report of the citizenship and government committee. The report suggests campaign expenses be paid out of the public treasury with the city printing pamphlets containing statements of all candidates and holding meetings at which each candidate would be invited to speak. Additional campaign activity by candidates would be closely regulated. It is further suggested primary elections be abolished and all nominations made by petition of an adequate number of voters.

SEVENTH SENATOR URGED

The report points out that Allegheny County has only six state senators although the constitutional requirement is seven and a suggestion is made that reminders be sent the county's representatives at Harrisburg of sentiment here for a more suitable distribution of seats. A plan of redistribution is suggested.

Concerning politics the report said in general:

"There are rumors of mayors and senators and others holding public office whose chief interest seems to be control of patronage and service to those individuals or corporations which treat the office-holder generously. If there is a basis for these rumors it behooves all of us and our neighbors to exercise this sovereignty by putting into public office only high grade men whose only loyalty is to the entire public."

Thirty-six organizations were represented at the meeting. The Brookline Board of Trade was admitted to membership.

Divorce Court Hears Political Row Plaint

CHICAGO, Jan. 29.—(AP)—Chicago's political campaign got into the divorce court yesterday. In her bill, Mrs. [illegible] Bode complained that her husband, a supporter of Mayor William Hale Thompson, [illegible] when she attempted to boost for Judge John H. Lyle. Mayor Thompson and Judge Lyle are two of the five candidates for the Republican nomination for mayor at the February primary.

TAX PAYMENTS TO U. S. FROM PENNA. GROW

Report Shows State Felt Slump Less Than Others; Emphasized in Pittsburgh

By GLADSTONE WILLIAMS
Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Jan. 29.—Contrasting with the general tendency shown for the country, Pennsylvania was one of the few states which paid the Federal Government more taxes last year than the year previous, a report made public today by the Treasury [illegible]

[illegible]

The report of the department [illegible] that Pennsylvania was less hard hit than the vast majority of the states of the country, [illegible] which showed a tremendous decline in Federal tax payments.

Pennsylvania's federal corporation taxes increased from [illegible] in 1929 to $128,44[illegible] in 1930. [illegible] tax payments for the period [illegible] $96,586,450 for 1930.

In the Twenty-third Pennsylvania district which embraces Pittsburgh, the tax payments last year were $78,49[illegible] compared with $77,394,297 in 1929, showing that [illegible] of the state as a whole was [illegible] the Western Pennsylvania industrial district [illegible] both corporation and individual income tax payments was noted for the [illegible]

PINCHOT POLICE PLAN ATTACKED BY MUSMANNO

Will Be Greater Menace Than Abolished Coal and Iron System, He Declares

Gov. Pinchot's action on the coal and iron police has only partially solved the problem and the new police system outlined by the Governor in his inaugural address represents a worse menace than the old force, according to Representative M. A. Musmanno.

[illegible]

The police system proposed by Pinchot [illegible] a force [illegible] paid by the private [illegible] The officers would have [illegible] powers and more [illegible] than they have [illegible] Musmanno said, adding [illegible] persons seeking [illegible] no redress against state officers.

OPPOSED BY UNION

Leaders of the Civil Liberties Union here have announced opposition to Pinchot's plan and favor in principle the Musmanno bill. Attorney Henry Ellenbogen, counsel for the Civil Liberties Union in Pittsburgh, says he favors [illegible] for whose actions the industrial companies will be responsible.

Musmanno has written to the Governor congratulating him on [illegible] of the coal and iron police as of June 30, and seeking to persuade him to [illegible] what he will [illegible] to replace the system. He says he is thoroughly convinced of Pinchot's sincerity but believes the wrong method has been chosen.

[illegible]

FEAR OF "COSSACKS"

Under the Pinchot plan Musmanno says that the police [illegible] Cossacks [illegible] in industrial communities. The plan would mean the [illegible] power by the state and the officers paid by the corporations would naturally owe their first allegiance to their paymasters [illegible]

The bill sponsored by Musmanno provides property guards paid by the private interests and with limited authority. [illegible] warrants for [illegible] on the property [illegible] their absence. [illegible] to the courts.

Chicago Students Go Back to Three R's

CHICAGO, Jan. 29.—(AP)—University of Chicago students are going back to one of the three R's—reading.

It was announced that a course in reading will be started next fall and that a large percentage of the freshmen would be invited to attend. Tests revealed that too many of them missed important points or read too slowly.

PINCHOT SEEKS RATE FACTS

the ultimate disposition of transmitted current to our homes, stores and farms there is not a word. The subject has never been discussed before any engineering society, local or national. The secretary of your institute is authority for the statement that the proceedings of your own organization does not mention distribution.

VAST REVENUE

"Over 20,000,000,000 kilowatt hours of electricity were sold to these three classes of small consumers, homes, stores and farms in 1929 at an average rate of over 6½ cents per k. w. h. Subtracting an ample allowance for the generation and transmission of the current it will be seen that revenues from this distribution amount to upwards of $900,000,000 annually out of the industry's total receipts of about $2,000,000,000.

"It is most unfortunate that this vast field of engineering and social outlay remains uncovered by an appropriate literature. It would be of material assistance to those of us who are charged by the people with the responsibility for effective and confidence-inspiring regulation to have the co-operation of your organization in providing us with the results of technical discussion of distribution engineering, including distribution costs. With the importance and social significance of the matter brought to your attention, I shall hope to see a start made on a literature of distribution comparable to those of generation and transmission."

ACTORS TO AID BENEFIT SHOW

Entertainers from many theaters and night clubs will take part in two special performances in the Schenley Theater at 2 and 8 p. m. Sunday. Proceeds will go toward relief of unemployed. At each performance a new moving picture will be shown.

The performances will be under auspices of the Fourth Ward Relief Fund, which during the Christmas holidays distributed more than $5,000 among needy families in Pittsburgh. The Oakland Board of Trade has donated $1,000 to the committee, which hopes to be able to distribute another $5,000 after the benefit shows. The committee in charge is composed of State Senator James J. Coyne, Councilman Michael J. Muldowney, Edward I. Flaherty, Thomas Coyne and J. J. Jacobs.

2 BOYS, NURSE DIE IN FIRE

WOONSOCKET, R. I., Jan. 29.—(AP)—The bodies of Paul Gendron, 3, and his nursemaid, Isabel Arsenault, 40, were discovered in the ruins of a $100,000 fire here.

Paul's 11-months-old brother, William, was killed when his mother, Mrs. Blanche Gendron, jumped from a second floor window with the child in her arms.

The mother is in the hospital suffering from burns and other injuries.

Mrs. Germaine Goyette, seriously burned before she could leave the building, also was taken to the hospital.

EXCHANGE HEAD CLEARS BEARS IN CRASH

Business Slump, Liquidation Of Real Stock Blamed For Decline in Prices

BOSTON, Jan. 29 (AP).—Richard Whitney, president of the New York Stock Exchange, disclosed that investigations of alleged bear raiding had resulted in the exoneration of the bears and the indictment of economics.

REAL LIQUIDATION

[illegible]

"The investigations have shown that a number of events which had all the appearance of bear raids were in effect the liquidation of long securities. For example last fall the action of certain railroad stocks seemed to indicate they were the object of bear attacks. Later blocks began to appear for sale and the pressure was continuous.

SALES TRACED

"When these sales were traced to their source it was found a large institution had determined to liquidate certain railroad stocks which it held as trustee. In order that all its trusts might be treated alike the stocks were pooled and offered for sale in blocks. Although this may have had an unfortunate effect on the market there is no doubt it was done in this manner only in order to preserve equality among the number of trusts for which the institution was acting."

[illegible]

"The primary lessons of the last two years are that the United States is and will continue to be a great industrial country."

Lone Woman Robs Gas Station Attendants

WRECK BLOCKS PENNSY LINE

HARRISBURG, Jan. 29 (AP).—Fourteen loaded coal cars of a Pennsylvania Railroad freight train were derailed at Mifflin about 30 miles west of here. No one was injured.

The wreck blocked all four main line tracks but one of them was restored to service within two hours. Railroad officials said they were unable to estimate when the others would be cleared.

Several passenger trains were detoured around the wreck by the way of Lock Haven and Williamsport.

Robbers Return $400 in Milk Bottle

CONSHOHOCKEN, Pa., Jan. 29 (AP).—Mrs. Peter Detino noticed a cold draft in her cellar. Investigating she found a window had been pushed open.

Robbers again, she thought, recalling that her house had been plundered and $400 in $20 notes stolen Saturday. But on the ledge of the window she found a milk bottle. Inside the bottle was $400 in $20 notes.

Joffre's Aide Dies Soon After Chief

PARIS, Jan. 29 (INS).—Following his chief to the grave by less than a month Gen. Henri Berthelot, chief aide to the late Marshal Joffre during the battle of the Marne died here.

PLAN WELCOME FOR DEASY

John F. Deasy, newly elected vice president of the Pennsylvania Railroad, in charge of the Central Region, will be officially welcomed to Pittsburgh by the business interests of the city at a luncheon tomorrow noon in the Pittsburgh Chamber of Commerce.

James Rae, president of the Pittsburgh Chamber, who will be chairman of the luncheon, will give the greeting to the Pennsylvania official who succeeded F. W. Smith, retired on January 1 this year. L. I. MacQueen is chairman of the entertainment committee of the chamber which is in charge of the arrangements.

NEW 'FRIENDS' HOLD UP MAN

Frank Gallet[illegible], manager of the Shannopin Country Club, Ben Avon Heights, was held up by two newly made acquaintances and robbed of $15 cash, a watch and chain valued at $65 and a check for $30 at [illegible] and Lacock streets today, he reported to police.

Gallet told police he had attended a meeting of the managers of country clubs in the Union Club last night. After the meeting he went to the North Side, he said, and remained there until 7 o'clock. When he went to his automobile, two men with whom he had been talking followed him and held him up.

BROWN FAVORS BISHOP'S POST

Dr. Wyatt Brown, formerly of Pittsburgh, now dean of St. Paul's Cathedral, Buffalo, elected bishop of the Harrisburg Diocese of the Protestant Episcopal Church, was expected to formally accept the office today. Dr. Brown was elected on the eighth ballot, his name having been presented by the Rev. Squire Schofield of Muncy, Pa.

The diocese has been without a head since the death of Bishop James Henry Darlington last August. At a special convention last November Bishop W. Blair Roberts of South Dakota was elected but declined the office. Dr. Brown previously served at Mobile and Montgomery, Ala., and Asheville, N. C.

Car Splits Switch, Traffic Tied Up

Traffic was tied up for half an hour early this morning when a Knoxville trolley car, city bound, split a switch at Twelfth street and Liberty avenue.

3 GUNMEN ROB NEWS AGENCY

Three gunmen [illegible] obtained more than $350 in a holdup at the Central News Agency at 407 Strawberry way [illegible] Morad, 45, [illegible] night manager, and Daniel Sanford, 24, [illegible] were the [illegible] at the time of the holdup.

One of the bandits [illegible] the manager and [illegible] guard. The other two [illegible] Morad and Sanford. They took from beneath the counter the sacks containing about $350 [illegible].

Sanford and Morad were ordered into a back room and searched. Morad had $1.56 in his pockets which was taken.

The agency is conducted by Daniel Coffey and is a [illegible] center for daily papers.

A Negro gunman held up the Kroger [illegible] store at [illegible] street today [illegible] Samuel Renfield [illegible] and escaped with $60 from the cash drawer.

WOMAN SEEKS ESTATE SHARE

Appeal has been taken to the Orphans Court from a decision of Deputy Register of Wills Henry J. Frisman, who sustained the claim of Miss May Sall of Warren, Pa., that she was the common law widow of Mack Olbum, former North Side furniture dealer, who was drowned when his motorboat capsized in the Allegheny River near Warren last April. He left an estate of $40,000. His brother, Aaron Olbum, present administrator of the estate, filed the appeal which stays all proceedings until the court passes on the claim.

Frisman, after hearing the woman's claim, made a decision in her favor on the ground that evidence showed a common law wedding ceremony had been performed uniting the couple. Under this decision Miss Sall was to be made a co-administrator and was entitled to a widow's share in the estate.

MOTOR CRASH COSTS MOUNT

Motor vehicle accidents in Pennsylvania during 1930 caused property damages of $6,244,900, approximately one-half million dollars more than the 1929 [illegible], according to an estimate prepared here by the Pittsburgh Motor Club. The largest number of accidents in the year involved damages of $50 to $150 and 16,953 cases of this type were reported. There were 5,691 accidents with damages up to $50 and 6,646 between $150 and $250, 4,211 between $250 and $500 and 1,854 above $500. Of the total cost of accidents 95.9 per cent involved [illegible] motor vehicles. Approximately 90 per cent of the [illegible] concerned passenger vehicles.

Bellevue Schools Hold Commencement

Mid-year commencement exercises will be held by Bellevue High School tonight in the school auditorium. Dr. [illegible] Baker, president of Washington and Jefferson College, will deliver the commencement address on "Our Changing Standards." [illegible] Schenkel, high school principal, will announce honors and J. N. Meals, superintendent, will present the diplomas to the 50 graduates.

Redistricting Body To Name Officers

The Redistricting Commission of Allegheny County is sending letters to political leaders in various parts of the county asking for suggestions on the officers in the new districts. This includes judges of election, inspectors and registry assessors. Selections will be made from those now in office wherever possible. Only a few more hearings on the redistricting plan will be necessary to complete the work.

Could Not Sleep or Rest on Account of Eczema. Cuticura Heals.

"My grandson had eczema on his head and face. It broke out in blisters and caused him to lose all his hair. The eczema bothered him for six months and he could not sleep or rest on account of it. We tried different remedies but they all failed. We began using Cuticura Soap and Ointment and they helped him and in four weeks he was completely healed." (Signed) Mrs. Catherine Stiffler, R. 1, Box 78, Mineral Point, Pa.

Soap 25c. Ointment 25 and 50c. Talcum 25c. Sold everywhere. Sample each free. Address: "Cuticura Laboratories, Dept. H, Malden, Mass."

Real Estate

A dwelling in Frederick street, Twenty-seventh Ward, has been sold by John Stein to Max [illegible]. The broker was [illegible] Frank. According to Frank the purchaser has taken possession of the property. Frank has also sold an eight-room house in California avenue, Twenty-seventh Ward, for [illegible] to Mrs. Margaret Keefe. The California avenue house is arranged to house two families.

Complete plans for the nineteenth annual banquet of the Pittsburgh Real Estate Board to be held February 14 in the Schenley Hotel have been announced today by John T. [illegible], chairman of the committee in charge of the affair. The speakers will include Frank R. Phillips, vice president of the Philadelphia Company; W. S. Van Dyke, vice president of the Peoples Pittsburgh Trust Company, and William J. Lewis, former mayor of Beaver Falls. C. C. [illegible], secretary of the [illegible] Company, will be the toastmaster. Mayor Charles H. Kline has been invited to give the address of welcome for members of Council and County Commissioners.

Register of Wills Joseph N. Mackrell will be the speaker at the weekly luncheon meeting of the Pittsburgh Real Estate Board to be held next Tuesday in the Blue Room of the William Penn Hotel. His subject will be "Wills and Inheritance Tax."

Anna Hoechstetter has purchased from Bertha E. Wannamaker a dwelling on lot 53x160 feet in Frankstown road for $11,000. The purchaser will use the property for a home.

An improved property 43x80 feet in Hillview avenue, Duquesne, has been sold by George Buchleitner to Claire Brumbaugh for $8,000.

Applications for building permits follow:

Eleventh Ward—Highland Presbyterian Church, extension to church, Highland and Wellesley avenues, $90,000.

Nineteenth Ward—K. Meisenburg, brick dwelling and garage, 510 Clemesha avenue, $8,000.

TO BREAK UP A COLD IN A JIFFY

Feel Like a New Person In Just a Little While

People have found out that new-fangled ideas and notions don't break up colds. So millions have turned back to first principles and use what they know breaks one up in a jiffy. Even a little cold is too dangerous to trifle with.

The thing to do is to get Hill's Cascara Quinine at any drug store. Take two tablets now. Then follow directions on box. Drink lots of water—that's all.

Soon you'll start to feel like a new person. Things will look up, your head will clear, aching go—you'll be back on the job with a wallop.

Get Hill's now. It is a scientific formula made to do one thing well—to knock a cold—not to cure a thousand ailments. Get your money back if it doesn't work with twice the speed of anything else you've ever tried.

PA. PHYSICIAN ADVISES FLAXOLYN FOR STOMACH AND BOWELS

Dr. William Benecke (M. D.), Braddock, Pa., retained to give his expert opinion of Flaxolyn, calls it "a preparation of rare merit."

Says Flaxolyn Is Rich in Natural Health Properties

Dr. William F. Benecke, M. D., of Braddock, Pa., states: "Twenty-five years of practicing here has convinced me that Flaxolyn is a most remarkable health preparation. It is rich in natural qualities that make it particularly forceful in conditions of the stomach, liver and bowels. Herbal Flaxolyn is positively harmless."

"Flaxolyn Is a Godsend," Says Collingsdale Man

Mr. Victor Lochhart, of Collingsdale, Pa., writes: "Flaxolyn is even better than you claim it to be. I tried all kinds of 'so-called' health builders but they never helped me any.

"I have been taking Flaxolyn and I now feel like a new man. I sleep good, have a fine appetite and the misery of my stomach has disappeared. Flaxolyn is just a godsend, and as I work for the P. R. T. with about 100 men to look after, I am forever boosting Flaxolyn."

Sensational Trial Offer

It is absolutely guaranteed that Flaxolyn helps cases of general depression, tiredness, biliousness, sleeplessness, sick headaches, gas, backaches, dizzy spells or poor complexion, due to constipation or druggists refund your deposit. Every reader who would like to feel better, eat better, sleep better, and look better, can obtain a bottle of Flaxolyn on this liberal offer. Unless Flaxolyn brings results by 6th spoonful, return partly used bottle and get your money back.

Mace to Speak On 'Faith Healer'

"A Faith Healer" will be the subject of James C. Mace at the weekly meeting of the [illegible] Noon Bible Class at the Downtown Y. M. C. A.

CENSUS AIDED BY JOBLESS

While many people apparently were afraid to answer the door at the unemployment enumerator's knock, others fear they will not be counted and hasten to inform the local census office that they are out of work, according to James E. Boutley, local supervisor.

Many of the latter group call by telephone to tell of their plight while others make the trip to the office in the American State Bank Building. Boutley has issued a request that persons who make inquiry in the neighborhood and find they have been missed in the count will notify the census office. An enumerator will be sent out immediately.

MUSIC

PROGRAM

[illegible]

Gaylord Yost gave a violin recital in Schenley Ballroom last night, the first solo appearance he has made here for some time. He is well known as pedagogue and leader of the Yost Quartet whose programs bring us so much unusual music.

J. Fred Lissfelt.

The same character persisted throughout Yost's program last night, and it was the first violin recital in a long while that omitted all the trite standbys. It was most agreeable music. Deserving special attention were Albert Spalding's "Etchings," heard for the first time completely and showing originality with good taste, excellent talent for writing and a nice feeling for the limitations of the violin. Karol Szymanowski is a young Polish impressionist whose works are beloved in England but are seldom played here. If they suffer from longwindedness they also contain many beautiful effects for both the solo and accompanying instrument. Eddy Brown's Hebrew music lies close to the soul of Israel and is full of humor. Yost's own Concertino should be a good addition to the violinist's repertory, for it offers much for the virtuoso. It is crowded with good rhythmic figures and tunes that are American to the core. It is well-knit, somewhat reminiscent of Dvorak.

Yost's playing during the entire program was characterized by a cozy singing cantilena, firmer intonation and a finely spun pianissimo. Fred Lotz played exceedingly fluent accompaniments. As encore came a pretty melody of Selmar Jansen.

J. FRED LISSFELT.

Free PIANO LESSONS

Learn to Play the PIANO

BE A MUSICIAN

STARTING SUNDAY, February 1st, the Sun-Telegraph will publish the first lesson of the W. Scott Grove Course in Piano Playing. This course is so simple that any child can, by its aid, be started on the way to proficiency on the piano or organ. The fundamental principles in music must first be mastered . . . that is essential. The Music Simplifier Course in Piano Playing teaches the fundamental principles in the easiest and simplest manner possible. It makes the learning a pleasure study by making it fascinating. You know at all times what you are doing, why you are doing it, and what progress you are making.

Be Sure to get these lessons from the start. Each lesson will be printed one time only. Remember there are 24 of them. Lesson 1 Sunday, Feb. 1st.

The author of the plan believes that any person will reach the point where he can play simple popular music, and if he wants to get beyond that, and in all probability he will, Pittsburgh instruction offers the best possible training.

CONGREGATION LAUDS PASTOR

Members of the Point Breeze Presbyterian Church at a congregational meeting last night united with the Rev. D. Percival H. Barker, pastor, for dissolution of the pastorial rights. Dr. Barker has accepted a call from the Lafayette Avenue Presbyterian Church, Buffalo, where he will assume charge the first Sunday in March.

The results of last night's meeting will be acted on by the Pittsburgh Presbytery the second Tuesday in February.

A resolution was adopted lauding Dr. Barker on his work at the Point Breeze church during his stay of 10 years.

ORDAIN PASTOR IN CHURCH HERE

H. J. Ockenga

For the first time in many years a minister has been ordained in the First Presbyterian Church, Sixth avenue. The ordination of Harold John Ockenga, West View, taking place at the church last evening, was performed before over 1000 members of the congregation.

The Rev. Edward A. Culley, moderator of the Pittsburgh Presbytery, presided and propounded the constitutional questions. The Rev. Dr. Clarence Edward Macartney, pastor of the church, gave the prayer of ordination and the sermon was preached by the Rev. Dr. J. Gresham Machen, chairman of the faculty of Westminster Theological Seminary. Dr. Machen was also a classmate at Princeton of Dr. Macartney.

DIGESTION FINE NOW; SALESMAN GAINS 15 POUNDS

"I got so I couldn't eat anything without having trouble afterwards," says Mr. Roland M. Morris, popular salesman, of 222 South 57th Street, Philadelphia, Penn. "I would have heartburn, gas, and sick headaches.

"Nothing seemed to help me. I tried everything I could hear of but my indigestion hung on two years.

"Then my doctor advised Pape's Diapepsin and I had almost immediate relief with the first two tablets. Now that I have been taking them for some time, I find I can eat pork or most anything and have no trouble. I sleep well; my nerves are O.K. and I have gained 15 pounds."

Thousands like Mr. Morris are finding quick, certain relief for indigestion or so-called "acid-dyspepsia" by using Pape's Diapepsin. You chew a tasty tablet and that feeling of weight and discomfort after eating just disappears. So do the other symptoms, such as nausea, headache, gas, belching, nervousness, etc.

Pape's Diapepsin contains no narcotics; can be taken often as needed without harm. All druggists sell it. Or if you prefer to try it before buying, just write "Pape's Diapepsin," Wheeling, W. Va., for a FREE sample box.

QUESTION A DAY

[illegible] WMAQ [illegible] Three Bakers [illegible] network [illegible]

Answer—Well yes. The boys had always done extemporaneous humor and CBS insisted they follow a manuscript. Pratt, Sherman and Rudolph refused to have their stuff censored.

[illegible]

As nervous as a fox cornered in the chase, Edna St. Vincent Millay had some trouble getting up steam in her radio debut last night but once started she rode the radio rails like a veteran. There was a choo-choo and a whistle in her poetry that just made everyone sit up and take notice.

KDKA has asked the Radio Commission for permission to continue their synchronization experiments between East Pittsburgh and Saxonburg until April 30.

Persons desiring auditions at KDKA hereafter must make a date with Margaret [illegible], Frederick C. Rodgers' secretary. Tests are to be by appointment only on Wednesday afternoon from two till four.

Will Rogers is a good scout. He is to reciprocate the Reveler Quartet's good will in the Red Cross tour by entertaining on the Family Party through WCAE February 23.

What an Irishman means by Machree is a John McCormack number on KDKA next Thursday night. It is a composition by Ernest Torrence, motion picture actor and director.

CHARLES H. JOSEPH, LOCAL HUMORIST, TO GIVE SERIES OF RADIO TALKS

The first of a series of humorous radio talks, sponsored by Frank & Seder over Station KDKA, will be broadcast tonight at 10 o'clock, featuring Charles H. Joseph, local humorist.

Tonight's broadcast will inaugurate a series of like addresses to be given preceding each of the firm's major selling events throughout the coming year, featuring Mr. Joseph as the principal speaker.

Mr. Joseph is widely known as the author of Random Thoughts and the new "Letter Out" feature appearing in newspapers throughout the country.

As the subject of his first broadcast Mr. Joseph has chosen to tell the life story of the apple as an economic symbol, and tonight's talk at 10 o'clock will be under the title of "Apples and Applesauce." The broadcast will precede the Frank & Seder Department Basement Sale, which begins next Saturday. The titles and dates of other talks will be announced later.

The LOUDSPEAKER

By LOUIS REID

NEW YORK, Jan. 29.—While we ponder on the era of television in the old front parlor, of the American jazz opera that has been promised for so many years, of that era of radio when commercial announcements will be limited to the beginning and end of programs, of microphones in the Senate Chamber, of the return of Wilhelm Hohenzollern to the loud speaker, we shall reach today into the old mail bag for columnar sustenance.

Good old mail bag! Always reliable, always a friend. Well, let's see. Here is something from Arthur Dean, whose note paper carries the sub-heading "The Parent Counselor."

"I think Amos is real cute and clever, and his stuttering and stammering doesn't bother me. But I wonder whether young people who have a speech defect are not held back by Amos' stammering?

"One of my readers has already written me, saying 'Amos ought to talk straight because he is starting, of course unwittingly, a stammering habit in my four-year-old son.'"

Dean then levels a rifle at commercial attention-callers. He write:

"I am dumfounded that a commercial organization that is willing to pay out big money for an advertising program should be so foolish in engaging announcers who, by the tone of their voice and the method of handling their subject matter, do all that is humanly possible to turn possible customers away.

"If some of these announcers were out on the road ringing doorbells and carried with them the bad manners and poor speech which they use over the radio, every door would be shut in their face by the housewives. I am not so sure but what people are turning off the radio—in fact, I know they do. The noise is not as great as if the door were slammed, but the results are as effective, only the poor announcers don't know it—neither do the advertising concerns."

From Pittsburgh comes a bit of reminiscence, signed by "A Radio Fan."

"You recently stated that were you to open a song publishing house your first task would be a search for a good river song. Why not a good ocean song? In my seven years of listening I have never heard any music from '1492,' which was a big hit in the nineties."

Come to think of it, good sea songs are rare. On the radio they seem to be limited to "Rocked in the Cradle of the Deep." Even Tin Pan Alley, despite its proximity to the sea, pays little heed to it. No zippy sea melody has been written since Harry Carroll turned out "By the Beautiful Sea."

Isn't it nearly time again for Sir Harry Lauder to lift his voice for the ear-cuppers, for Mammy Jolson to salute mammy, for a new ballad to issue from the moonstruck megaphone of Rudy Vallee, for a new idea in jazz from Gershwin and Grofe, for a new note of anger from Capitol Hill, for a greeting from the author of "The Face on the Barroom Floor"?

Grandfather at 32 Found in Florida

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Jan. 29 (AP).—Florida today entered the claim of having within its borders the country's youngest grandfather. James L. Irwin, director of the city's unemployment clearing house, encountered the youthful grandpa yesterday, but declined to reveal his name. He gave his age as 32 and listed one grandson among his dependents. Irwin looked a bit incredulous, but grandpa explained:

"I was married when I was 15."

FATHER HEHIR GIVEN HONOR

The Very Rev. Martin A. Hehir, retired president of Duquesne University, has been named president emeritus by the Rt. Rev. Louis LeHunsec, of Paris, France, head of the Congregation of the Holy Ghost throughout the world. The honor for Father Hehir has brought congratulatory letters to the university from the Rt. Rev. Hugh C. Boyle, bishop of the Catholic Diocese of Pittsburgh, and from the Very Rev. Eugene Phelan, provincial of the order in the United States.

The Rev. David Shanahan, pastor of St. Mary Magdalene's Church, Homestead, and the council of deans of Duquesne University also sent letters to Father Hehir, who is soon to leave Pittsburgh to take up new duties at the Holy Ghost College, Cornwells Heights, Pa. Nine department heads signed the deans' letter.

COATS TRIMMED WITH TWO KINDS OF FUR ARE POPULAR

Paris Bureau, Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph

PARIS, Jan. 29.—There are now frequently two furs where none grew before. A few seasons back we were wearing coats untrimmed with fur and now comes the coat trimmed with two different pelts. And it is astonishing to find that this somewhat strange fashion is one that looks exceedingly well and gives a most original and interesting aspect to a coat or suit. Of course the coat must be extremely well done, otherwise the effect would seem rather absurd. And so it is a novelty that should not be copied on any but a really good coat. Most of us are generally content with coats trimmed with one good fur. The fur coat of youthful mien is becoming increasingly popular. We are gradually shedding the opulent fur coat and concentrating on a coat that is not so decorative, as it is nonchalant and slim appearing. The younger generation is particularly addicted to these coats and the more mature woman is also quite interested in them; which means that this style is destined for a successful run.

WE SHOW TODAY a sketch of Chanel's new and very youthfully smart trotteur coat made entirely of black astrakan. It has a youthful round flat collar and flat pocket flaps. The cuffs are fairly deep and flaring. The coat is belted at the natural waistline.

AND NOW WE SHOW a sketch of the coat trimmed with two kinds of fur. This is a Jenny fashion and so of course this is a Jenny model. The coat is of fine black broadcloth with black astrakan making the narrow scarf collar and natural lynx being utilized for the huge and imposing melon cuffs. Very new and interesting is the diagonal piecing topped with a tailored bow of material which crosses the coat in back and gives it a most becoming line. This type of coat is most popular here.

COLD
carried and spread by handkerchiefs

Ordinary handkerchief carries millions of disease germs during colds . . self-infects user . . . infects others.

Use Kleenex
then destroy

IMPORTANT to the health of every man, woman and child in the United States is the latest scientific information about the importance of Kleenex during colds.

This information comes as a result of tests performed on ordinary handkerchiefs used during colds. These handkerchiefs, without exception, were found literally teeming with disease germs. Used even once, a handkerchief may contain over 200,000 germs! These germs are carried back to the face by the ordinary handkerchief . . . but are destroyed when you use Kleenex.

What Kleenex is

Kleenex is a soft, super-absorbent tissue. So inexpensive that you use each tissue only once, then discard. So gentle that irritation is impossible.

You buy Kleenex in Cellophane-sealed packages. Each tissue is as completely sanitary as it looks—and its snowy whiteness is a joy to see.

Kleenex will materially reduce your laundry bill. It is perfect for children.

Ask for Kleenex at any drug, dry goods or department store; 25 cents, 50 cents and $1.

A former professor of bacteriology at Northwestern University performed the tests which resulted in these conclusions.

Bacteriological tests show:

1. That handkerchiefs used by persons having colds may contain as many as 4,170,000 germs per handkerchief. The organisms included are those associated with colds.

2. That organisms associated with colds, when impregnated upon linen and rinsed in boiling water and soap water, were not killed nor appreciably inhibited from growing.

1 HURT IN FIRE DOWNTOWN

One fireman was injured today in fighting a fire which damaged the three-story building at 126 North [illegible] street. The injured man, William [illegible], 28, of [illegible] street, a member of Engine Company No. 1, was removed to Mercy Hospital suffering an injury to the right foot. Battalion Chief William Grease estimated the damage at $1,000.

Although firemen battled the blaze with gas masks due to the smoke, they were endangered by ammonia fumes from the damaged refrigeration plant of the Pittsburgh Wholesale Grower Association, floral dealer, who occupy the first and second floors. The third floor is used as a radio repair shop by the Superior Engineering Company. Most of the damage was suffered by the engineering concern.

According to firemen, the blaze originated in the basement. Flames shot up an elevator shaft in the rear to the third floor and damaged the quarters of the engineering company. The heavy smoke and the ammonia fumes filled the entire building.

Shoup to Address West End Board

C. V. Shoup will address the West End Board of Trade tonight on "Installing Safety on City Streets and Highways." The meeting will be held in Odd Fellows Hall, Wabash avenue. W. D. Flannigan will be in charge. This meeting is one of a series arranged by the Pittsburgh Motor Club and devoted to a discussion of highway safety problems.

Cartridge Explodes At Fire in Home

A shotgun cartridge exploded in a clothes closet of the home of Mrs. Mattie Cole, Negro, at 8102 [illegible] street, East End, today while firemen were playing water on flames in the closet. Firemen extinguished the fire before it reached a half dozen other cartridges. Damage was estimated at less than $100.

$141,057 GIVEN TO RED CROSS

Returns in the Pittsburgh Red Cross appeal for drouth relief fund have amounted to $141,057 according to reports today. Pittsburgh's quota in the national appeal is $300,000. Gen. John J. Pershing will make a radio appeal tonight at 8 [illegible] over a Columbia System hookup.

While Pittsburgh has raised only half its quota, it is hoped by the committee that the full quota will be subscribed. Many cities in other parts of the country have subscribed their full amount.

Best Remedy for Cough Is Easily Mixed at Home

You'll never know how quickly a stubborn cough or chest cold can be conquered, until you try this famous recipe. It is used in millions of homes, because it gives more prompt, positive relief than anything else. It's no trouble at all to mix and costs but a trifle.

Into a pint bottle, pour 2½ ounces of Pinex; then add plain granulated sugar syrup or strained honey to make a full pint. This saves two-thirds of the money usually spent for cough medicine, and gives you a purer, better remedy. It never spoils, and tastes good—children like it.

You can actually feel its penetrating, soothing action on the inflamed throat membranes. It is also absorbed into the blood, where it acts directly on the bronchial tubes. At the same time it promptly loosens the germ-laden phlegm. This three-fold action explains why it brings such quick relief even in severe bronchial coughs which follow cold epidemics.

Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway Pine, containing the active agent of creosote, in a refined, palatable form, and known as one of the greatest healing agents for severe coughs, chest colds and bronchial troubles.

Do not accept a substitute for Pinex. It is guaranteed to give prompt relief or money refunded.

What Is Gum-Dipping?

Gum-Dipping

is the Firestone trade name for that patented, basic process which makes Firestone Tires fundamentally different from all other tires. It is one of the reasons why Firestone, through many years, has easily been able to make good the statement: "Most miles per dollar." It is not something done to a tire after it is made. It is something very vital done before the tire is made.

To grasp the full significance of Gum-Dipping, it is necessary to know something about how a tire is made and what goes on within a tire on the road. The body of the tire bears the principal strains in service. To it is attached the tread which provides traction and takes the wear of the road.

The usual tire body is built up of layers or plies of cotton cords between which rubber has been forced. Rubber is incompressible. Hence the tire body practically does not expand or contract to meet road shocks. It flexes—that is, it changes form.

The strain of the flexing tends to pull the plies apart and also to pull the cords themselves apart. A tire flexes about seven hundred times in a mile—which gives some idea of the strains and the friction which a tire must endure.

The great enemy to tire life is internal friction. Years ago the fabric was square-woven—and the cotton cords sawed, one across another.

If cotton rubs against cotton, the tire soon heats up and collapses. That is why the square-woven fabric tires were so short-lived. Then came the tires with parallel cords that could not saw each other. The best square-woven fabric tire would go scarcely four thousand miles. A poor cord tire will give at least twice that mileage. Making the cords parallel was a great advance—but it was only part of the battle against internal friction.

The Mark of Quality

It was realized

that if the fibers of cotton in a cord could be insulated one from another, then a step-up in tire life could be had comparable to that made by shifting from square-woven fabric to parallel cords. That is what all tire makers have been striving for. That is what Firestone has achieved.

Every cord

used in Firestone Tires has been treated with a rubber solution which penetrates every cord and coats every fiber; and thus not only the cords, but also the very fibers within them are insulated.

Eight pounds of fine, pure rubber are, by the patented Gum-Dipping process, integrated into every one hundred pounds of cotton cords. This means three extra pounds of pure rubber added to an average set of tires—and added where it means most to the strength and the life of the tire. This extra rubber all goes into the cords of the tire—where you never see it.

Why

does Firestone put in this extra value? And what does it mean to you? It means just this. The performance—the extra value—has been shown for years on the road and in the laboratory. It has been proved that Gum-Dipping:

—increases the flexing life of a cotton cord by 58%.

—increases tire life by from 25% to over 40%, according to the severity of the service—the more severe the service, the higher the percentage.

Firestone

Gum-Dipped Tires are not just tires. They are thirty years of organized experience. They are sold only through Firestone Service Dealers and Service Stores and only as Firestone Gum-Dipped Tires—bearing the Firestone name and bearing the Firestone emblem that appears on this page.

Wherever you live—

city or country—a fresh and complete stock of Firestone products is near-by.

Well Pleased With Self Is the Normal State Of Theater Folk

By GEORGE SEIBEL

Theatrical managers always wonder why their business isn't better. A letter from Brock Pemberton furnishes a clue, not to the [illegible], but an important one.

Pemberton's letter is not one of complaint; on the contrary, it is jubilant.

He is the man that produced "Strictly Dishonorable." There are three companies now on the road, playing the Preston Sturges comedy.

Pemberton proudly proclaims that these three companies, playing Newark, Boston and Philadelphia, took in the gross sum of $8,[illegible] for six performances in a single day. It was a Wednesday and three performances were matinees.

But the point is not in that. The point is in the fact that $1.50 was the top price for the evening [illegible] cents the top price for the matinee. And one of the companies was the original New York cast with Tullio Carminati [illegible]

You claim that you're a trifle bored with me,
My mannerisms get into your hair;
It's quite a simple matter to foresee

But now you criticize each thing I do
And find me very trying to endure.

Well, time is up, and I'll be on my way;
I'll take some poignant memories along
And doubtless find another girl to play
Love's little game among the teeming throng;

I hope your newest love won't prove a curse—
And as for me—I can't do any worse!

Mabel Kroman will play the role Mrs. Fiske created in the New York recently.

NEW FILMS TOMORROW

Edmund Lowe and Leila Hyams have the leading roles in "Part Time Wife," which comes to the Stanley screen tomorrow. Ed Lowry's stage revue will be "Fountains of Melody."

Ruth Chatterton in "The Right to Love," a film adaptation of [illegible] Susan Glaspell's popular book, will be the screen attraction at the Penn beginning tomorrow. Ted Claire will make his farewell appearance in "Keep Moving." Robert Conche, 16-year-old musician, will make his bow as conductor of the Penn Orchestra.

Nan Halperin, who has come to Pittsburgh in vaudeville for many years, will again be one of the headline attractions in the Davis next week in a coterie of new songs. Larry Rich and his six [illegible] share equal honors with Miss Halperin.

WESTERN DRAMA

Helen Twelvetrees, who by her work as "Frankie" in Pathe's melodrama "Her Man," lifted herself to a stellar position in the talking screen world, has the leading role opposite Bill Boyd in "The Painted Desert," coming to the Fulton and Sheridan Square tomorrow.

A fight aboard a speeding locomotive is one of the features in "Other Men's Women," featuring Grant Withers and Mary Astor, which opens in the Enright tomorrow.

Fall and winter fashions in women's attire are presented in profusion by Kay Francis in "Passion Flower," coming to the Aldine tomorrow. The gowns were designed by Adrian, noted studio fashion expert.

"Viennese Nights" opens in the Warner with a midnight show this Sunday prior to the regular opening the following day.

Five acts of vaudeville are again on the Harris program opening Saturday. "Fair Warning," a drama of rough men in a rough country and featuring George O'Brien, will be the screen attraction.

Chicagoan Conducts Berlin Orchestra

BERLIN, Jan. 29.—(AP)—Richard Czerwonky, noted Chicago musician, conducted the Berlin Symphony Orchestra in Bach Saal with conspicuous success, drawing warm applause from the crowded house.

The program included the first performance of his "Episode," a symphonic tone poem for grand orchestra, which the audience heartily applauded.

MARION DAVIES' FILM HIGHLY PRAISED BY CRITIC

Marion Davies' new all-talking picture, "The Bachelor Father," is declared to be the greatest of Miss Davies' long list of [illegible] triumphs [illegible] is scheduled for early [illegible] here.

When the picture was completed it was shown in the projection room in Hollywood for the first time, it was seen by a reporter of The Hollywood Reporter, a publication devoted exclusively to the motion picture industry, who wrote the first review of the picture. The reviewer's [illegible] in part, follows:

"'The Bachelor Father' is far and away the most entertaining picture in which Miss Davies has ever reached the screen. It presents an entirely new and rather daring theme. It is hilarious comedy, thoroughly charming and amusing from start to finish. In it Miss Davies displays heretofore unguessed at ability and talent and establishes herself as the screen's foremost light comedienne. 'The Bachelor Father' is a treat for any audience. It is sophistication for the masses. It will undoubtedly put the S. R. O. sign in the exhibitors' lobbies."

"The Bachelor Father" is based on the play by Edward Childs Carpenter and produced by David Belasco. It ran for more than a year at his theater in New York. The picture was directed by Robert Z. Leonard, who also directed other of Miss Davies' most successful pictures. An unusual cast supports Miss Davies. C. Aubrey Smith, famous English comedian, came to America especially to play the title role in which he appeared in the original Belasco production. Included in the cast are Ralph Forbes, Halliwell Hobbs, Raymond Milland and other well-known players.

BEWARE THE COUGH FROM COLDS THAT HANG ON

Coughs from colds may lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for coughs from colds and bronchial irritations. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of coughs from colds, bronchitis and minor forms of bronchial irritations, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist.

Barthelmess May Star In New Air Picture, 'The Single Lady'

By HARRISON CARROLL

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 29.

Unless [illegible] Warner says no, Richard Barthelmess' proposed air picture will be "The Single Lady," by John Monk Saunders.

The story has been running in a national weekly magazine and now it is to be had in book form. Barthelmess has read it and is enthusiastic. Final okay awaits the return of Warner, who has been kept away from the studio by a minor illness.

Mr. Barthelmess

Saunders was the author of "The Dawn Patrol," Dick's best film in some time. He also wrote the first of the air pictures, "Wings."

Currently Dick is at work on a newspaper story, "The Mob." Later, this title will be changed.

ONLY COINCIDENCE

It is significant, perhaps, that the news of Ruth Chatterton's defection from Paramount broke when she was making a picture called "Unfaithful." Furthermore, a song used in the film is titled "Mama's in the Doghouse Now."

LATEST GOSSIP

Blanche Sweet

The Sam Coslows (composer of "Sing You Sinners") have an eight-pound baby boy. Only three months ago a hit-and-run driver fatally injured their other baby son in front of the family residence . . . Fifi Dorsay's impromptu voyage assumes a certain air of mystery. She went down to have tea on a boat at 5 p. m. in the afternoon and the next day the studio got a radio-gram announcing she had sailed. Fox says she thought she could get off at San Diego, only to discover that the vessel's first stop was Cristobal. Earlier reports had her headed for Europe. Everyone agrees she'll disembark on February 4. In the meanwhile, the gay Fifi becomes a Canadian subject with a French accent on a Dutch boat in Mexican waters, headed for Panama . . . One Hollywood studio has a new regulation that scenario writers are not allowed to make outside calls from their offices and that they cannot bring magazines or books to work. Periodicals addressed to them at the studio will be rerouted . . . Blanche Sweet left here Monday night to start her 40-week vaudeville tour. She was accompanied by her grandmother . . . Tom Douglas, who stole honors from Elsie Ferguson in a recent coast revival of "Fata Morgana," lost his voice and is being replaced in John Barrymore's "Svengali" by Bramwell Fletcher . . . The change will necessitate two days of retakes.

ANOTHER FOR MARJORIE

Having scored in each of her recent performances, Marjorie Rambeau now finds the road to talkie fame a comparatively easy one.

She'll be seen in William Haines' new picture, now under way but as yet untitled. Another player added to this cast is Hale Hamilton. As hitherto reported, Dorothy Jordan will play opposite the star. Sam Wood directs.

ARLISS PICKS NEXT

The next George Arliss picture will be "The Devil," which, it is interesting to note, was his first individual starring vehicle on the stage.

To get the Ferenc Molnar play into shape for a picture, Warners have engaged J. Grubb Alexander. His task will be to modernize as well as to adapt the story.

Arliss has to complete "The Ruling Passion" before he will be available for "The Devil."

Boy Gets $50,000 Damage Award For Leg

STEUBENVILLE, O., Jan. 29.—The largest award for loss of a leg ever granted in Ohio was that given by a jury to Robert Parish II. The finding was for $50,000 against the Steubenville, East Liverpool and Beaver Valley Traction Company. A trolley severed the boy's leg when he coasted under it nearly two years ago.

Do You Feel Worn Out At Five o'Clock?

Even if you eat three big meals every day you may be starving for vitamins! The food you eat doesn't supply enough of them. That's why you get worn out. That's why you feel tired and lifeless so much of the time.

For years doctors have been meeting this condition by prescribing cod liver oil. But many people can't take it. The nasty oily taste upsets them. For these people there is a remarkable new way to take cod liver oil, easily, pleasantly and tastelessly.

McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Tablets are made from the vitamins of the finest Norway cod liver oil. In them you get everything that cod liver oil can give you. That's why the Good Housekeeping Institute has given these tablets its seal of approval.

So if you would build your body up the way doctors recommend . . . if you would enjoy radiant health, go to your druggist and ask for a box of McCoy's, 60 tablets, 60 cents.

—then I saw my Teeth Whiten

3 shades in 3 days

"Years ago I started seeking a way to remove the ugly yellow from my teeth and keep them sound.

"Nothing I used could lift the veil of ugliness. Stain and tartar shamed me. Decay caused pain and dentist's bills. I decided to try Kolynos with its Dry-Brush Technique. A revelation!

"After the first brushing my teeth were whiter. Then I saw them whiten—3 shades in 3 days!"

If you want whiter, sounder teeth, switch to Kolynos. This double-strength dental cream does what no ordinary dentifrice can do . . . It removes the cause of stain, discoloration, tartar and decay—Bacterial-Mouth. That is why it whitens teeth so quickly.

Everyone who breathes has Bacterial-Mouth. Germs swarm into the mouth and attack teeth and gums. Kolynos gently removes this condition by killing the germs that cause it.

As it enters the mouth, Kolynos multiplies 25 times and becomes a surging, antiseptic foam that permits the famous Dry-Brush Technique.

You can feel this foam work. It gets into every pit, fissure and crevice. It kills germs . . . neutralizes acids and dissolves tartar . . . purifies the entire oral cavity and quickly restores teeth to their natural whiteness, without injury. For 3 hours after each brushing this foam continues to clean teeth and combat germs that cause Bacterial-Mouth.

Make This Convincing Test

Try Kolynos. A half-inch on a dry brush, morning and night. Within a few days teeth will look whiter. Gums will look pinker and firmer. Your mouth will tingle with delightful freshness. Get a tube from any druggist.

LAWYER FLAYS JUDICIAL DELAYS HERE

SIDEWALKS —of— PITTSBURGH

By William Pfarr

G. Herbert Lash, of the Canadian Pacific Railways, was in town recently visiting his colleague W. L. Burr and told him a story.

Mr. Pfarr

During the war a captain in the Princess Pat regiment, was commanding a company which had been ordered to capture a town in northern France held by the Germans. Because the town housed famous lace factories Capt. Lash was ordered to use little shellfire. When he reached the town's borders he learned that the Germans were effectively in possession and that capture without heavy firing was impossible.

Just then a young captain arrived, saluted Lash and said, "Can I help you?"

"Yes," Lash barked, "go back to the barrage outfit and tell them to blow this town to hell. And to hell with the King, to hell with Haig and to hell with everybody."

The young captain saluted respectfully and carried out the assignment. An hour later the town had been captured. Lash was enjoying a short rest when a panting lieutenant arrived from the barrage outfit and informed him that the young captain who had carried the message was none other than His Royal Highness, the Prince of Wales.

Attorney John D. Meyer may have sighted the first robin of the season but Ralph A. Liphart, the state game protector for Allegheny County, has already seen three. What's more, the three that Mr. Liphart saw were all together (a trio) and not lone hands, as Mr. Meyer's robin was. It is no secret that we resent Attorney Meyer's annual foresight, but what, we ask, is seeing one robin as compared with seeing three? Anybody can sight one robin, or almost anybody, but how many of us can sight three robins in January? Summed up, as the editorial writers say, in a sentence, the whole thing is (in a nutshell) that Mr. Meyer, a former United States attorney and a prominent lawyer, was able to sight but one robin while Mr. Liphart, who has never been a United States attorney, doesn't practice law, and is virtually without influence, was able to sight three. It just goes to show something or other.

WILL ROGERS SAYS

DALLAS, Tex., Jan. 29.
To the Editor, Sun-Telegraph:

Well, I see where they are still arguing over who is going to relieve who, and which is the way to relieve anybody, but I want to tell you that from my experience down here, when you really show folks that there is need, they sure will respond. It's too bad the conflicts as to the method of relief come up. I got a lot of sympathy with both sides, for I can see where they both think they are right. But I certainly can't see why the ones that are able are waiting to see what the government is doing before doing anything themselves.

CITY SCANS RELIEF PLANS

Officials Debating Private Help; Most of $100,000 Due to Go on Old Bills

City Council and officials of the Department of Public Welfare were considering today how $100,000 appropriated yesterday to aid the needy and unemployed will be spent—whether with the co-operation of welfare organizations or as a strictly city project.

It is understood that around $75,000 set aside for the work will be spent to pay off bills for food, clothing, fuel and rents which overstepped the second $100,000 appropriation made by Council several weeks ago. Amount of the deficit has not yet been divulged, as the bills for purchases have not yet been totaled.

The money was provided at a special meeting of Council after several conferences had been held with Mayor Charles H. Kline. The last was held Tuesday, when Council as a whole met with the executive.

ACTION EXPEDITED

When the special meeting convened yesterday President John S. Herron announced to a packed chamber that the Finance Committee would meet immediately afterward to take action on any matters that might be brought up as emergencies.

A few minutes later the committee considered the relief measure and Chairman W. Y. English reported favorable action. Rules were suspended and the matter given final consideration.

IMPROVEMENT BOND PLAN

A $300,000 public improvement bond issue was introduced at the meeting and will be acted upon finally next Monday, according to present arrangements. This legislation is construed as a measure to aid relief of unemployment in that scores of men will be given work as soon as the improvements are started.

Improvements included are:

Purchase of property and widening of Seventh avenue at the Gulf Refining Building, $70,000; improvement of Murdock street entrance to Schenley Park, $40,000; new garage at the city's East End asphalt plant, $30,000; improvement of Forward avenue, $10,000; pipe line improvements, extensions and repairs, $50,000; building and furnishing new home for superintendent of the City Tuberculosis Farm, $15,000; new building for shade tree commission, $5,000; repairing and renovating of No. 7 police station, $42,000; topographic maps, $12,000, and acquisition and improvement of property for playground in Soho district, Fifth avenue.

Contemplated improvements to the Diamond market, totaling $50,000, expected to be included in the bond issue, were not presented.

PROWLER SHOT, MAN FREED

Herbert Schohn, 38, of 736 Becks Run road, who police say was shot while prowling in the rear of a house at 2912 Carson street, was in South Side Hospital today suffering a bullet wound in the right leg. Bishop Price, 27, of 2912 Carson street, Negro, arrested following the shooting, was discharged at a hearing before Magistrate J. J. Sweeney in South Side Police Court today testifying that he was awakened by a noise in the rear of his home and in firing through the door struck Schohn.

Pershing Reveals Allies Broken by Italian Disaster

MY EXPERIENCES IN THE WORLD WAR

By JOHN J. PERSHING,
Commander-in-Chief, American Expeditionary Forces.

CHAPTER XVIII.

Succeeding chapters of "My Experiences in the World War" will appear daily and Sunday exclusively in the Sun-Telegraph.

Upon the invitation of Gen. Foch I went to the French front to be present at their second offensive since Gen. Nivelle's failure in April, arriving by motor at the headquarters of Gen. d'Esperey, commander of the Group of Armies of the North, on the evening of October 22.

Gen. Pershing

The plans for the attack were explained to us, and from the extreme care taken in working out the details and from their accurate knowledge of the enemy's forces and his position there seemed to be little doubt of success.

Soon after their victory near Verdun in August the French had begun to prepare for this offensive, in which they could not well afford to fail. The advance was made by eight divisions of the 6th Army on a front of only seven and a half miles extending along the Aisne, with the object of gaining a more advantageous position for the winter and also still further building up French morale.

Gen. Maistre, the army commander, gave the operation his personal attention, prescribing an artillery preparation covering six days, during which the expenditure of ammunition was even greater than in the offensive of August 20. The long period of artillery fire was considered necessary, as the Germans were strongly fortified along the chalky bluffs of the Aisne, where numerous caverns afforded cover for large garrisons held near the front.

Advance Satisfactory

The assaulting lines of infantry, accompanied by numerous tanks, succeeded without difficulty in reaching the limited objectives. Fort Malmaison, the key point, was reduced to a head of rubbish by the heavy artillery fire concentrated upon it. The capture of this dominant position by the French caused the immediate withdrawal of the Germans on the right and left, and during the succeeding fortnight they retired behind the Ailette.

As we drove toward the front in the forenoon we met German prisoners being taken to the rear and received reports that progress was very satisfactory. The day was foggy, with rain at intervals, so that aviators were unable to be of much service, and the advance, except at the start, was quite hidden from our view, even from old Fort Conde, a commanding position that had been selected as our observation point.

When the luncheon hour came Gen. d'Esperey asked us into a chamber of the fort, where we sat down and enjoyed a menu that would have done credit to any restaurant in Paris. During the meal the general told us that several years before he had crossed America returning from service in the Orient, and his journey across Iowa happened during one of those periods when prohibition was in force in that state. If there is any one thing that a Frenchman can not understand it is that any people should deliberately deprive themselves of the privilege of taking a glass of wine. To have heard him describe how he suffered while passing through Iowa one would have thought he was telling of a trip across the Sahara Desert.

French General Popular

During the afternoon he took us to visit the headquarters of one of the attacking divisions, the 27th, and after its infantry had penetrated the main German defenses we went by automobile to what had been No Man's Land and thence on foot to the enemy's second position. The artillery and machine gun fire was still frequent over that part of the field which was strewn with the bodies of many gallant Frenchmen whose courage had made the victory possible.

From the respect shown Gen. d'Esperey as he passed along, speaking cheerfully to the men, frequently addressing them affectionately as "Mes Enfants," there could be no doubt of his popularity. This was my second contact with one of the most picturesque and delightful personalities in the French army.

This achievement of the French in capturing positions against which the April offensive by Nivelle dashed itself to pieces had a very stimulating effect upon the morale, but it would have been more lasting had it not been followed so soon by the serious defeat of the Italians at Caporetto October 24.

After extending thanks to our

Helping Hand Gets Job For Four Painters

Four painters recruited from the jobless men of Pittsburgh by the Helping Hand Association are painting the exterior of a large East End mansion, the home of Mrs. George Bissell, at 6825 Penn avenue.

The painters were skilled workmen who have applied for jobs at the employment bureau of the Helping Hand Association established in the Benedum Trees Building. They will receive $5 a day each. They rented ladders and equipment. The home is a brick and frame structure in the exclusive residential district.

E. R. Stoll, executive secretary of the new bureau of the Helping Hand, says that skilled workers in almost every line are applying for employment. Persons having odd jobs of any kind about the home or the office are asked to get in touch with the Helping Hand organization.

HOLDS COURT VACATIONS HARMFUL

Canuti Cites Summers Spent In Jail by Suspects; Asks Civil Tribunals Speeded

Need for more economical and efficient operation of Criminal and Common Pleas Courts was stressed in a communication from Attorney Frank F. Canuti to members of the Allegheny County Bar Association, which was announced today. Letters were sent to 1,800 members of the bar, Canuti said.

Four problems face the members of the bar, the letter declared, chief among them the need of speeding work of civil courts and to take action concerning the vacation period of Criminal Court, which forces defendants to wait from June to September for trial.

The other problems cited deal with the practice of trust companies in advertising for business concerning wills, trusts and administrations of estates and with the needs of the juvenile, nonsupport and home-finding departments of the County Court.

URGES MORE ARBITRATION

Canuti said Criminal Court vacations which keep people from prompt trial should be discontinued. Now, he said, a person arrested late in June, if unable to furnish bail or if charged with an unbailable offense, must remain in jail during July, August and part of September before he is brought to trial.

Speaking of Common Pleas Court, Canuti urged that the law of settling cases by arbitration be more freely practiced; the law giving divorce cases to masters be restored, the daily sessions of Common Pleas and County Courts be an hour longer, and when many cases are far behind schedule, the judges take less vacation.

NOT ENOUGH JUDGES

Canuti said further:

"Moreover there is too much work and not enough judges to do it, and the Legislature should provide for at least two more judges. I say nothing about visiting judges, but the demand for so many of them, and so often, the continued increase of judicial work because of increasing population show the pressing need for more judicial help in our courts.

"We can all see that it is very unfair to the citizens of Allegheny County to be obliged to present their cases to judges whom they did not elect, who cannot be in touch with our problems."

CARNEGIE HERO AWARDS MADE

The Carnegie Hero Fund Commission has announced recognition of 21 deeds of heroism with bronze medals and pensions to dependents. The awards were made at the twenty-seventh annual meeting of the commission yesterday at which new officers were elected. With yesterday's awards, the total for the 27 years is 2,487.

Six heroes lost their lives. To the dependent of one pensions aggregating $960 a year were granted. To the parent of another went $500 to be applied as the commission sanctions. In addition, cash awards totaling about $8,000 were appropriated for educational purposes in five cases and in eight other cases $6,500 was awarded for other purposes.

W. J. Holland was elected president of the commission and Thomas S. Arbuthnot, vice president. V. I. P. Shriver was named treasurer and Taylor Allderdice, secretary and manager. C. B. Eberson was elected assistant to the secretary and manager and N. D. Loomis, assistant treasurer.

McKeesport Eagles Indicted for Liquor

Lodge No. 285, Fraternal Order of Eagles, Seventh and Market streets, McKeesport, and William H. Woy were indicted today by the federal grand jury on charges of violating the prohibition laws. The indictments charge the sale of nine drinks of illegal beer October 30 and November 5. The possession of five vats of beer is also charged.

PITTSBURGH ENTERTAINS TWO FAMOUS OCEAN FLIERS

LANDING FIELDS DISCUSSED BY GOEBEL

Dole Flight Winner and Clarence D. Chamberlin Visit Bettis Airport

Pittsburgh played host to two of the leading figures in aviation when Clarence Chamberlin, trans-Atlantic flier, and Art Goebel, winner of the Dole flight across the Pacific, landed at Bettis Field yesterday. Today Goebel was again on his way [illegible] after spending the night [illegible] Chamberlin left [illegible] for New York by train.

Goebel [illegible] expected [illegible] a return flight to Los Angeles in a tour [illegible] aviation conditions. He landed at Bettis Field [illegible] with two passengers, flying from New York in three hours and 20 minutes. The plane was chartered to the coast by Joseph [illegible] of New York [illegible] a 150-year-old Chinese tapestry that was once owned by the Emperor Chien Lung of China for motion picture use.

Chamberlin stopped here during a trip from Cleveland to New York. He planned to continue later with the New York plane but [illegible] eastward trip was cancelled due to bad weather.

Goebel, [illegible] conditions at the Fort Pitt Hotel, declared an important [illegible] needed in the industry was the elimination of inefficient flying fields. He said:

"A flier going into unfamiliar country is guided by his map in choosing flying fields. It is a common thing especially around the larger cities for several ports to be marked. Yet only one or two will really have full facilities, and the others will be nothing but fields. Too, in many small places, ports are marked where only pastures exist. I don't mean the industry hasn't progressed in flying facilities. It surely has. Since 1926, facilities have increased until now a flier can find service at ports in all parts of the country. But the matter of too many useless fields should be adjusted."

PRISON-BOUND WOMAN FLEES

Hazel Johnson, 26, Negro, who was reported to have escaped from a group of workhouse-bound prisoners at the Union Station yesterday, was being sought by police today.

The [illegible] the only woman in the group of 14, fled while Patrolman Bernard Mangan, who daily escorts those sentenced, was removing handcuffs from a prisoner who had fainted. Mangan continued to the place with the men and upon his return spread an alarm for the woman, who was fined $50 or 60 days in the Center Avenue Police Court on a suspicious person charge, police said.

School Bans Girls After 50-Year Trial

SCHENECTADY, N. Y., Jan. 29.—(AP)—Co-education was abandoned by the Hartwick Academy, Cooperstown, N. Y., a private school owned and supported by the United Lutheran Synod of New York, which embraces about 500 congregations in the [illegible].

The board of trustees, meeting here, decided that beginning next September girls no longer will be admitted. The action was taken "to make the institution an A grade private academy."

Hartwick was established in 1797. Girls were first admitted about 50 years ago.

MARKET REPAIR SURVEY BEGUN

Complaints of merchants housed in the South Side Market that the building is in need of repair and is an eyesore were being considered today by a council finance committee headed by George Kambach.

Harry Zoeller, a market tenant, appeared before Council at a hearing yesterday and protested in behalf of the stall renters.

He cited instances of plaster falling off and told of a generally dilapidated condition.

Kambach was designated to head a committee to investigate and make recommendations to Council.

JURY CHARGES 43 WITH DRY VIOLATION

Homestead Eagles, Tacoma Club Named Defendants In Federal Indictments

Two organizations and 43 men and women were named defendants in 32 indictments returned by the Federal Grand Jury, charging violations of the prohibition law.

The Fraternal Order of Eagles, No. 769, was charged with selling and possesing intoxicating liquor in October and with maintaining a common nuisance at 325 East Ninth street, Homestead. The Tacoma Club and James Haywood were accused of maintaining a common nuisance at 239 Seventh avenue, Homestead, because of alleged sale and possession of contraband liquor.

Others indicted for alleged violations of the liquor law and for maintaining common nuisances at the following addresses: Fred C. Weidenkof, 298 Baldwin street, Hays; Albert Knoll and Hamilton Yount, 434 Island avenue, McKees Rocks; Walter J. Seddon, 123 Fifth avenue, McKeesport; Jerry Sullivan, 2600 Fifth avenue; Martin Simon, 522 Braddock avenue, Braddock; Walter Warner, 981 Fifth avenue, New Kensington; Howard Schweger, 1 Braddock avenue, Braddock; Edward Ceteco and William Horn, 500 Island avenue, McKees Rocks; Dave Jones, 4913 and 4915 Second avenue; Thomas Brennen, 124 Merchant street, Ambridge; Moss Maseroff and Francis H. CLIMALENE
The Water-Softening Cleanser

A NEW, no-fade way in washing fine things has been found.

A way where you use even ordinary laundry soaps and yet hold the most delicate color fast; the most filmy of material safe from wash tub or washing machine wear.

Laboratory Proved

To prove these points, we wash fine things all day long. French lingerie, for instance, we wash 40 to 50 times with this preparation and strong soap or washing flakes. Even the most delicate colors do not fade.

We pay $5 for fine stockings of light tint color. Then TRY to fade them with repeated washings. And only after we've failed in fading them does this amazing preparation go to you.

What It Is

It is a preparation called Climalene. A scientific discovery that acts in two ways.

It takes the harshness out of so-called "hard" water; the hardness that makes extra rubbing and the superfluous use of strong soap necessary to get things white and clean.

It turns that harsh "hard" water INSTANTLY into water so soft that it does the work with ONE-FOURTH the amount of soap you now use.

Then, due to bland cleansing qualities in itself, Climalene DISSOLVES all dirt and grime. And thus again cuts the amount of soap you use. And cuts washing time—either on board or in washing machine—50% or more. Consider what that means in saving wear and spoil.

You just add two tablespoons to a tub of water. That is all. Use any kind of soap or soap flakes—the same soap you ordinarily do. Then see for yourself the amazing results.

Remember the name—Climalene. Your grocer has it in 10c and 25c packages.

Florists Name Johnstown Man

T. Malbranc, of Johnstown, was elected president today of the American Carnation Society in convention at the William Penn Hotel with more than 50 varieties of its flowers in a public exhibit and entered by national growers.

The convention, which closes tonight with the annual banquet under auspices of the Pittsburgh Florists and Gardeners' Club, selected Kansas City for the next annual meeting. Fred Kupfer, of that city, was named vice president. Secretary O. E. Steinkamp, of Indianapolis, and Treasurer S. J. Goddard, Framingham, Mass., were re-elected.

The highest honor for entries in the show exhibits was awarded to George P. Baur, of South Natick, Mass., a gold medal being given for a display of the Laddie variety. The Baur-Steinkamp florists, of Indianapolis, captured first and second honors in the general awards. Their new Patrician variety was given a gold medal and a Pink Wonder display received the silver medal. The bronze medal was awarded the Denver Wholesale Florist Company, of Denver. The Civic Club of Allegheny County award was given to The McCallum Company, of Pittsburgh.

Four new varieties are on display, besides the Patrician. The Rapture, by John Steidle, Clayton, Mo.; Wildfire, by F. Dorner, Lafayette, Ind., and Brilliant, by C. B. Johnson, Woburn, Mass., are the other three, cuttings of which will not be available to the trade for another year.

Prisoner Quotes Bible, Gets 10 Days

CLEARWATER, Fla., Jan. 29. (AP.)—Theodore Cerallo, haled to court here on charges of bootlegging, quoted the Biblical admonition against letting one hand know what the other is doing and admitted he concurred in the thought.

Testimony disclosed he had rented the front part of a building he owned to a Baptist congregation for religious worship and at the same time had sold liquor in the rear part of the house.

The judge sentenced him to serve 10 days in prison.

THE UGLY DUCKLING

Drawn by Nell Brinkley

Once there was a grey duckling who felt very much alone among all the snowy white and gold ducks of the fashionable farmyard. Her legs were too long, freckles powdered her nose, her light hair was straight, her eyes too big for her face, her mouth too wide.

Among all the darling dolls, curled and dimpled, round in the right place, dainty-footed, the gangling grey duckling stood out, ALL WRONG somehow. The whole story was in this sentence . . . she was different from the rest. But let me tell you, it has been discovered that sometimes that is something to strut about—if only the odd-number young girl could only believe it while she was still very young. It would save her tears and a heart sometimes as heavy as a stone.

The way the faery-tale turned out is not always a faery-tale. It is the truth that the ugly duckling turns out a swan—graceful beyond the doll-daintiness of her farm-yard companions of earlier days. The odd-number girl can count some of her very oddities the earmarks of beauty.

The great woman who is a great beauty at the same time, was seldom a "darling" when she was an adolescent. The too-big eyes, the too-wide mouth, the long legs, the straight hair, can later on take on a strange and different beauty. What was amusingly plain at 15 can turn glamorous at 25. The duckling face turned swan is beautiful chiefly for its DIFFERENCE from every other standardized pretty face.

There is a very funny picture of that beautiful-beyond-prettiness, and greatly talented young woman, Greta Garbo, beautiful to men and women alike, different, lovely, siren like; a picture when she was 14 or 15. Beyond all doubt, her friends thought her then as plain as that famed ugly duckling of the faery-tale! Those bangs, that long neck, that big round forehead!

And look at young Miss Garbo now.

—NELL BRINKLEY.

How to Keep Well

By DR. COPELAND

Take Your Medicine as the Doctor Ordered

Dr. Copeland.

Most of us have heard of the man who was told by his physician to take a teaspoonful of medicine three times a day, a dose after each meal. The patient decided the doctor was in no hurry to [illegible]. Surely, he thought, if one teaspoonful would help, the entire bottle would be much better. What happened is common knowledge. He contributed to the welfare of the undertaker.

There are plenty of persons who make the same mistake. Of course not many of them die, but they stray from the directions given them by the doctor and do not prosper as they should.

The prescription given to you by your physician has been written with care and after much study. The directions are definite and it is important for you to do as instructed. If you are told to take your medicine before meals, that does not mean that three hours later will do as well.

The chemicals contained in your prescription are carefully compounded by the pharmacist. He carefully follows the direction in making up the medicine. It is only fair and sensible that you do as much in taking it.

Certain medicines do not act on a full stomach. Others act best if taken with the food. It is for this reason that you are instructed to take the medicine either before or after meals.

Some medicines take hours to work. They may remain in the system for more than 24 hours. An additional dose may convert a curative remedy into a harmful poison. It is wise never to take your medicine more frequently than directed.

The careless handling of medicines has led to unpleasant and serious results. Bottles labeled "Poison" should be treated with respect. They should be kept far from the reach of children and careless adults.

Never take medicine in a dark room. Always carefully read the label before taking a dose of medicine. Secure as you feel, you may get the wrong bottle.

Never offer your medicine to someone else whom you think is suffering from the same ailment. The drugs contained in your medicine may not be suited for another. They may do him more harm than good.

Medicines are usually prescribed in teaspoon doses. Teaspoons vary in size and shape. It is advisable that every family medicine chest be furnished with a graduated glass. With this glass you can accurately measure doses as prescribed. These glasses are inexpensive and can be obtained at any drug store.

Don't make a plaything of your medicine. It can help you only when you take it as prescribed.

"I did not know it was a question," I equivocated. "You said 'I wonder.'"

"I'll drop the prefix immediately," he told me smiling. "How much would it mean to you if I changed—"

"You mean," I parried, "if you withdraw your ban from Noel and Mary, if you give Noel his patrimony so that he can be absolutely independent of you, if you keep your promise to make the Mary the most famous Veritzen star and if you permit their betrothal and ultimate marriage?"

Tomorrow's Horoscope

Friday, January 30

The astral influences ruling on this day are interpreted as adverse and inharmonious in both business and private affairs. The latter especially may give concern in either social, domestic or affectional relationships. Outside of this there may also be minor discord or friction. Employment is also under a hazardous influence and should be properly safeguarded against loss or disagreements.

Those whose birthday it is may encounter a year calling for all their equanimity and calm judgment to prevent both private and business friction and inharmonies. Employment is in jeopardy and domestic, social and affectional affiliations may develop situations calling for discreet and clever adjustment.

A child born on this day may be disposed to be querulous and temperamental, thereby inviting difficult situations to be composed, with employers as well as in its private life.

Correct Manners

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

Attire for the Sorority Banquet

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

The sorority of which I am a member is having a banquet to celebrate one evening of the annual convention, and as the affair is to be held at a very fashionable place the girls want to be sure they are dressing correctly, or at least in good taste.

1. The meeting time is 6 o'clock, and from that time until about 8 o'clock a regular business meeting will be held, during which all will wear the official robes. After this the dinner will be served, and in view of this arrangement the girls think that formal clothes will be proper. One of the girls thinks that as there are to be no men present this style of apparel would be in bad taste. Will you help us to solve this question, as we are all anxious to know and do what is right?

2. Would long gloves be the correct thing to wear at a banquet table?

E. K.

1. If the dinner is to be held in a fashionable place, as you say, then such a place would require, or at least suggest, formal clothes. The fact that there are to be no men present does not make any difference. The thing to keep in mind is to dress appropriately for the place in which you are dining, and, if this place is a formal place, I urge you to plan to wear formal clothes. Or at least what is known, for lack of a better name, as "dinner dresses," semi-formal dresses.

2. You may wear these if you wish, and this year they are correct, though not absolutely necessary. Wear them to the table and then take them off. Do not turn back the hand part of the glove.

A Sensitive Person

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

When introducing my mother, my mother-in-law and my father, and all three are in a group, whom should I introduce first? My mother is one who "feels" every little thing out of the way, and I certainly wouldn't want to hurt her feelings, nor would I hurt my mother-in-law's feelings, as I have grown to love her, too. Would it be quite all right to introduce my mother first, my husband's mother next and then my father?

Your column is splendid . . . and you have been so helpful to me, although your answers have been to some other inquirer.

BABS.

(Thank you most heartily for your thoroughly kind and helpful message of appreciation . . . what a sweet person you are to send such an appealing thought to me! I love it.)

I think that your plan of sequence for these introductions is a perfect one, and quite a natural one as well as a correct one. Naturally, your mother would wish to be introduced first, and natural, too, would be the introduction of your mother-in-law next. Then, of course, the "gentleman last."

Household Hints

Buy pillowcases and bolster cases plenty large if you want good service. They are also more comfortable, as a tightly stuffed case means discomfort for the head of the sleeper.

It is nearly always the waist of the house dress that wears out first, leaving a perfectly good skirt. Why not utilize these skirts by cutting them into good-sized aprons for kitchen wear?

So often when we are visiting we say, "It is a shame to spoil your pretty guest towels; I'll just use this one." Then we take one that belongs to some member of the family when our hostess would greatly prefer that we used the towel provided for us. Usually guest towels are laundered not because they are mussed and soiled, but because they have become so dusty from just hanging.

DR. CALDWELL'S way helps Constipated Children

OFTEN, this simple prescription brings the first natural, complete bowel action a child has had in weeks. And the entire system benefits from its gentle aid.

Feverishness, biliousness, headaches quickly disappear when Syrup Pepsin is used. The bowels become regular and remain that way. Appetite returns, heartily; the digestion becomes more complete; energy and strength are restored.

Nothing you can give a bilious, half-sick, constipated child—or take yourself when your bowels need help—will do as much for you.

Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is a prescription for the bowels written by a famous physician—one whose record of over 3,000 birth cases without loss of one mother or baby is a record unique in American medical history.

No wonder Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is ideal for women and children. But it is equally effective for the bowels of robust men. Whether you're only occasionally constipated or chronically that way, it will cleanse, regulate your bowels harmlessly and in a hurry. All drug stores have the big bottles.

"LIVE BETTER FOR LESS"

GERMANS PURSUED TACTICS FORECAST BY PERSHING

Italy's Disastrous Rout Weakened Morale Of Allied Armies

host we left for Compiegne, literally covered with mud, stopping there to congratulate Gen. Petain on the success of the day. While at Compiegne we dropped in at the dispensary, where some American women under Miss Elsie de Wolfe (who afterward became Lady Mendl) maintained a clinic for badly burned gas cases. We also made a brief call at the hospital nearby to see Col. Bunau-Varila, of Panama Canal fame, who had lost a leg in the recent French offensive near Verdun. From his cheerful mood he seemed to be rather proud of his wound.

Lady Mendl

Germans Use New System

In 1927 I took part in the dedication of the Ossuary near Verdun, at which Col. Bunau-Varila was present. On the rounds to inspect this fine monument we passed the many bays which contain the bones of men who lost their lives in the great battle. When we came to the bay corresponding to the sector in which he fought, he jovially remarked that he thought his leg must be in there.

Following closely on the heels of this limited French success came a tremendous counterstroke by the Austrians and Germans against the Italians. During preceding months, beginning in May, the Italian armies had made a series of attacks which at first met with considerable success. The Italians made progress in the Julian Alps, causing Austrian losses of some 30,000 prisoners, but the timely arrival of Austrian reinforcements enabled them to prevent serious dislodgment.

Meanwhile, the situation on the Russian front permitted the withdrawal of troops of the Central Powers to an extent that enabled them to assume the offensive against the Italians. Rather vague rumors came to the ears of the Allies that an attack was impending, but they received little credence, especially from the Italian commander-in-chief, who professed every confidence in the strength of his armies.

The Germans had come to realize that operations with limited objectives involving days of violent preliminary artillery fire were far too costly when measured by results. They had adopted a new system based on a few hours of heavy bombardment, principally with gas shells, followed by a violent assault on the forward positions by picked battalions supported by an unusually heavy concentration of machine guns and other portable weapons.

Italians Routed

The defence once broken, fresh troops held close in the rear poured through the lines of the leading troops and, increasing the momentum of the attack, rapidly carried the fight beyond the entrenched positions. This plan had already been tested in the battle of Riga, where a complete rupture of opposing fortified lines was accomplished and the fighting successfully carried on in the open.

The demonstration at Riga by Gen. von Hutier's army was convincing proof of the soundness of the plan and of the correctness of the doctrine of training for open warfare that we were so persistently following in France and so continuously trying to impress upon the War Department at home. It simply proved that nothing in the great war had changed this age-old principle of the art of war. Thenceforth this method was to characterize German attacks, and the capture of Riga was the precursor of Caporetto and the series of strokes by the Central Powers later on, which were more or less uniformly successful.

The most delicate phase of the system was the secret concentration close to the front of the large force necessary. This was usually accomplished by a series of marches, the troops being concealed by day in villages and woods. Under German control and reinforced by seven picked German divisions, the Austrian forces, following out this plan, completely surprised the Italian army on a 30 kilometer front near Caporetto October 24, during a heavy fog, and succeeded in breaking entirely through their lines on the first morning, rapidly forcing the Italians into the open. The advance crossed the Isonzo River and German troops were over the frontier by the 25th.

Great German Victory

The feeble resistance of the Italian Second Army, which stood the brunt of the attack, has been attributed to well-organized propaganda on the part of the Austrians, who were said to have fraternized with the Italians on the theory that they were brothers, and that if they declined to fight each other the war would end. But the inherent weakness of the Italian position was not overlooked by the Germans.

It appears, entirely from Italian sources, that there was an actual gap in the Italian lines between their second and Third armies at Tolmin, where the Austrian outposts held a commanding position on the high ground in the interval.

The Italian reserves were insufficient, few defensive positions had been prepared in the rear, the bridges across the Isonzo were inadequate and the supply depots, which were in front of the Tagliamento, were too far forward. At any rate, the Third Army was left in a critically exposed position from which it barely escaped by a rapid retreat.

Before the operation ended November 10 the enemy had advanced some sixty-odd miles and was confronting Gen. Cadorna's men on the Piave. More than 300,000 prisoners, 3,000 pieces of artillery and immense quantities of supplies were captured by the enemy. All the Italian gains in the war were wiped out during the first 36 hours of this battle. Seemingly in an instant the cause of the Allies had been dealt a master blow and five British and six French divisions were rushed to Italy to save the situation. This victory tremendously strengthened the hands of the German government.

Co-operation Necessary

One gleam of light was revealed in this dilemma and that was that the magnitude of the disaster and its immediate effect on all the Allies forced a realization of the necessity of understanding and co-operation. They soon after made a really determined effort to secure unity of command through the Rapallo Agreement, though a later disaster still more serious was necessary before this ideal could be finally accomplished, all of which will be discussed later on.

Toward the end of October accompanied by Generals Richard N. Blatchford and Mason M. Patrick, and Cols. Charles R. Krauthoff and David S. Stanley, I visited Bordeaux, one of the ports chosen for the use of American troops. As facilities were only sufficient to accommodate a limited amount of additional medium draft shipping, we had started the construction of new docks at Bassens, 12 miles below, where deep water would permit vessels to come alongside. Although considerable quantities of material had been sent over, this new construction was delayed principally because of the lack of pilings which the engineers had planned to have brought from the Pacific Coast.

Gen. Patrick

An incident happened in connection with the shipments of piling from home that would have been amusing if it had not been so serious.

Russians Cause Trouble

One ship that reached Bordeaux was supposed to be loaded with especially long piling, but upon inspection the engineers found it much shorter than prescribed. Upon inquiry, it was learned that to get the piles in between bulkheads the supercargo had sawed the ends off. While speaking of forest products, another example of inefficiency that occurred a little later might be mentioned.

One of the vessels from home was loaded by the Quartermaster's Department with shavings for the cold storage plant instead of steel billets for the manufacture of guns, when tons of sawdust and shavings could have been obtained from the logging districts in France.

Continuing the inspection, we went on Sunday to Courneau, about 40 miles from Bordeaux, thinking it might possibly be available for use later on. It was then occupied by a brigade of disaffected Russians who, like most of their fellows, had defied their officers and refused to participate further in the war. After being withdrawn from the line they had given the French so much trouble, even to committing depredations on the people, that they had to be sent out of the Zone of the Armies to this rather remote camp, where they were held practically as prisoners.

There was no transportation to carry them back to Russia, and as they had been allowed to keep their arms it was difficult to enforce discipline among them. I spoke to two colonels and criticized the lack of sanitation, but it was evident that they were unable to compel the men to work even to the extent of cleaning out stables, latrines or drains and the conditions may better be imagined than described. The men were a [illegible] stupid looking lot who, in their new estate, apparently did not care how bad things were so long as the French continued to feed and clothe them.

Gievres, which lies 100 miles directly south of Paris, became the site of our principal supply depot in France. Under Col. C. J. Symmonds' able and energetic direction construction to cover an area of 12 square miles was going forward with all possible speed. Col. Symmonds was gradually putting order and system into the place.

Independent Bureaus

Regardless of the adverse conditions under which the line of communications was laboring there was everywhere a fine and enthusiastic spirit among the officers and men who without exception were cheerful and optimistic.

After all, considering the lack of men and material, we were making progress on the physical side of the organization that would feed, clothe and furnish munitions for the great army we hoped to have.

One obstacle, however, was to be found in the number of independent bureaus represented at the ports and larger centers of activity, not only in our own system but especially in that of the French, and the consequent difficulty of securing teamwork among them. As a remedy I sent to each base section a competent general officer with an organized staff to co-ordinate and systematize the management of affairs, and in a brief time considerable improvement was noticeable in methods of handling troop arrivals and cargo and in the increased progress of the situation.

Another American Oil Co. Service Station at Chartiers and Island Aves.-McKees Rocks

WHETHER you want a tankful of Amoco-Gas, a complete oiling and greasing job, or merely air for your tires and water for your radiator, stop at this new American Oil Company Service Station in McKees Rocks.

It's the newest addition to the chain providing American Oil Company service, Amoco-Gas, Orange American Gas and Amoco Motor Oil, in all sections of Greater Pittsburgh. Motorists have been asking for a station in this section—and here it is.

Get in the receiving line and be introduced. First is Amoco-Gas, a powerful, economical motor fuel. Next, Orange American Gas, a regular gasoline that makes you wonder how we can sell it at no increase in price. Amoco Motor Oil, pure paraffine base. Penn-Amo oils, 100% Pure Pennsylvania.

And the last word in service. Up-to-the-minute greasing facilities. Greasing by experts. An Amoco Motor Cleaning Machine. Excellent lighting facilities that make a greasing job as thorough at night as in the daytime.

Extra service, too, that costs you nothing. Touring helps and maps. Distilled water for your battery, air for your tires, a clean wipe for your windshield. Modern rest rooms lined with white tile.

This new service station deserves a place on your regular calling list. Remember the address—

ANOTHER BASEBALL VETERAN PASSES

ANOTHER NOTABLE ADDITION to the long list of veteran baseball players passing out of the major leagues this winter is disclosed by a little booklet just issued by the Philadelphia National League club. The name of Cy Williams is missing from the roster, confirming rumors that the venerable outfielder is done as a big leaguer and that if he does not become manager of a minor league club will give up the game altogether and remain on his farm.

Cy Williams

One of baseball's oldest and most picturesque figures goes out of the big show in the departure of Williams. He spent 19 seasons in the main tent and played in more than 2,000 games. He never served a minute in professional company outside the majors, having been one of the few to go straight to the fast set from college fields and make good immediately. Going to the Cubs in 1912 from Notre Dame, where he was a student at the same time as Knute Rockne, Williams spent six years in a Chicago uniform. After the season of 1917 he was traded to the Phillies for Dode Paskert and remained with the Quakers through 13 consecutive seasons.

EVEN AFTER HE slowed up in the field Cy, by reason of his batting ability, was regarded as being still too valuable to be let go and for the last couple of campaigns the Phils have succeeded in getting a lot of good service out of him as a pinch hitter. That was one thing that Williams always could do.

The veteran's success as a swatter was all the more remarkable for the reason that he was the most pronounced one-field hitter in the majors. Cy couldn't even throw a ball into left field, and he was always considered so certain to hit to right that the defensive team lined up against him as against no other player. The shortstop moved over to second base or even to the other side of it, and the third sacker played in the shortstop's spot.

WILLIAMS RARELY WAS able to cross them up by hitting to left, [illegible] the fence [illegible] the ball so far they couldn't get it. He has [illegible] home-run clouters of the National League [illegible] 24 in 1924.

Cy's [illegible] included the making of three round-trippers in one game in 1923, the making of a homer as a pinch-hitter with the bases full in 1926, and the making of three homers as a pinch-hitter in 1928. Ham Hyatt with the Pirates in 1913 and Pat Crawford with the Giants in 1929 were the only other major league players ever to make three home runs in one season as pinch-hitters.

WITH THE EXCEPTION of Eddie Collins, 44 in May but no longer active, Williams, who was 42 on December 21, was the oldest player in the majors outside the battery department. The only older pastimer in the big show since the departure of Jack Quinn is Pitcher Urban Faber, of the White Sox, and he is Cy's senior by only three and a half months. Wally Schang, Detroit catcher, is next. He will be 41 on August 22. Clarence Mitchell, Eppa Rixey and Adolfo Luque will reach the 40 mark during the year. Sam Rice, 39 next month, is the oldest outfielder and Rabbit Maranville, who turned 38 last November, is the oldest infielder.

THE OPINION OF Pittsburgh fans that such a capable baseball man as Chic Fraser, for 18 years a Pirate scout, would not be allowed to [illegible] out of the game is borne out by the announcement that Fraser has been signed to manage the Peoria club in the Three-I League.

Chic Fraser

In all of his long experience in the diamond sport, covering a period of more than 35 years, this is the first time that Chic has ever undertaken to fill a managerial role. But he has everything needed to make a success of it and looks good to produce a winner in a reasonable length of time.

ANOTHER FORMER PIRATE whose continued presence in baseball is assured by a new contract is Bud Flagstead, signed as an outfielder by the Portland club of the Pacific Coast League.

It is reported that Flagstead eventually will be made manager of that club, a position for which he is well qualified in experience, temperament and mental equipment.

IN A SEARCH for information as to what formerly prominent fighters are doing, Edward Cochrane learned that Gunboat Smith is a guard in a New York bank. Louisiana is a soap salesman; Matty Matthews is a scene pusher in the New York Hippodrome. Peter Maher is a trainer, and Jack Blackburne a boxing instructor in Philadelphia. Carl Morris owns an olive grove in California. Jim Flynn is driving a taxi in Phoenix. Tom Sharkey is connected with the race course at Agua Caliente. Jimmy Britt and Willie Meehan are in vaudeville. Kid McCoy is in prison. Ad Wolgast and Joe Tiplitz are in asylums. Willie Lewis owns a cafe in New York. Joe Choynski is a boxing instructor and referee in Chicago. Harry Lewis works at the Elks Club in Philadelphia. Jimmy Clabby is in business in Sydney. Steve O'Donnell is boxing instructor at Harvard. Kid Broad is in the movies. Joe Grimm is selling books of his life. Mike O'Dowd is doing odd jobs in St. Paul. Jim Jeffries has a ranch and is managing some boxers. Pete Herman, blind, runs a night club in New Orleans, and Monte Attell, also blind, has a news stand in San Francisco.

THE OLD DAYS of wrestling were recalled at a dinner to Jim Londos, present champion, or claimant, by the appearance at the speakers' table of Ernest Roeber, known to few of the modern fans but in his day Graeco-Roman champion of the world and once a principal in [illegible]. The style differed from catch-as-catch-can in that catching hold of the legs was barred and tripping [illegible] a foul.

Roeber was a product of the era that saw the most famous of the old-time grapplers in action, a period in which the topliners of the mat game included William Muldoon, Joe Acton, Evan Lewis, the original Strangler, Edwin Bibby, Tom Connor, Farmer Burns, Mataski Soraski, the Jap, Duncan Ross, Jack Carkeek, Capt. Daley, Anton Pierre and others.

THOUGH YOU NEVER hear anything about [illegible] basketball, [illegible] Western [illegible] make even more of it than of football.

The outstanding players [illegible] school crowds of 10,000 at games [illegible] and [illegible] more frequent than in the gridiron sport.

Joie Ray

IN AN AGE of rapid sport changes, when they're here today and gone tomorrow, Joie Ray is one widely-known figure that just can't be kept out of the picture. No sooner do they crowd him out of one sport than he bobs up in another and in view of his shifting activities some of the critics are suggesting that he be given a medal for variety of endeavor, if for nothing else. In his colorful career that has had many ups and downs since he reached the peak as one of the greatest of modern athletes, Ray has been an amateur runner, a professional [illegible], a taxi driver, a boxer, an ice skater, a roller skater, and now he has entered the international snowshoe marathon from Quebec to Montreal, scheduled for next Sunday.

By CARL W. SHATTO

The Buffalo Bisons, International Hockey League pace-setters and leading dispensers of Pittsburgh woe, will pit their clever stubborn defense against the Mellon Jackets' daring, determined offense in an important ice battle at Duquesne Garden tonight.

The locals' defense is regarded as very strong, and so it is when Beckett and Fraser are in front of Cox, but almost twice as many goals have been rammed into the Pittsburgh cage as have been rung up against Bill Taugher, the visitors' star goalie. The records indicate that the Bisons' defense is the best in the league and the margin of superiority is so great as to make argument almost absurd.

JACKET OFFENSE BEST

A comparison of the offenses, however, is a different proposition, so different that one doesn't have to be very brave to give the Pittsburgh attack the nod. The Bisons were blanked by London about two weeks ago, but the Jackets have not been whitewashed in their last 25 games. The locals were blanked in their first two games, but the scoring door hasn't been shut in their faces since that time.

Since the signing of Eddie Rodden and Mickey McGuire's recovery from an attack of the flu the locals' offense has been functioning in a very smooth and efficient manner. The Schooley skaters have not engaged in league competition since last Saturday, and Coach Charles Reid has his charges groomed to put on a sustained drive and lay siege to the enemy citadel from gong to gong.

Despite the strength of the Bisons' defense, the Jackets are not likely to be held to less than two goals, and if the local backfield performs as it has in recent engagements the invaders are going to experience plenty of trouble in matching this figure.

Victory in tonight's fray will mean much more to Pittsburgh than it will to Buffalo. The Bisons are well out in front in the scramble for play-off positions, but the Jackets still are one stride away from the select circle. Although fourth place is the Schooley clan's immediate objective, third and second places are so close that it is difficult to single out the target from the background.

AIM AT RECORD

The Jackets, furthermore, are within easy striking distance of a season record for uninterrupted successes. They haven't tasted of defeat in their last five jousts, and if they can escape the bitter pill in three more frays they will boast a mark that probably will be fracture-proof.

Buffalo gained four wins and a tie in five previous meetings with Pittsburgh. The Bisons and Cleveland Indians, who are to appear here Saturday, are the only lads whose armor has been too thick for the Jackets' stingers. Nobody is paying off on past performances this week, fortunately, and both the Bisons and Indians are likely to find many a rut in the road that once was so smooth.

The Jackets have attained such popularity that capacity crowds at games here have come to be regarded as a matter of course. The heavy advance ticket sale promises well-bulging throngs at the battle Saturday as well as the "revenge" duel tonight. The probable line-up:

ANNUAL TRACK CARNIVAL IS DISCONTINUED

GAMES TONIGHT.

Slippery Rock at St. Francis.
Grove City at St. Thomas.

By JESS CARVER.

Carnegie Tech's annual interscholastic track and field meet, which has been one of the blue-blood features of the tri-state district's cinder campaign for the past 14 years, is no more. The Tartan athletic council has decided to discontinue putting on the show and co-operate with the W. P. I. A. L. in making the latter organization's championship meet a bigger and better affair as track meets go.

Joe Bach

The withdrawal of the Tartans from the field leaves the W. P. I. A. L., Pitt and Geneva College meets as the only schoolboy events on the program.

The league last year proposed that Tech and Pitt abandon their interscholastic meets, and co-operate with the school body in improving its meet. With plans so far progressed toward the staging of the Plaid meet, and many entries already in for the event, it was impossible to do so in 1930.

However, Budd Overend and C. E. Glass, chairman of the W. P. I. A. L. track and field committee, have conferred recently upon the proposition, and upon learning that Glass still felt that the interests of the schools in this district could be best served by cutting down on some of the larger competitions, the abandonment of Tech's old classic was immediately brought up before the council.

PITT MEET O. K.

Unless plans are changed between now and whenever it is the Pitt meet is booked, the Panther institution will continue to put on its schoolboy show. Yesterday Don Harrison allowed as how Pitt would go right ahead holding its carnival, at least, as far as this year is concerned.

The Tartans are to be complimented on their efforts to assist the W. P. I. A. L. It is likely, according to Maxie Hannum (batting for B. Overend) that the Skibos will offer a trophy of some sort, and, perhaps, an individual prize of some sort.

How about Pitt and the Dukes falling in line, with Pitt offering a special trophy for the winner of the 100-yard dash, calling the event the "Pitt Century;" the Dukes putting up a cup for the winner of the mile and calling the race the "Duquesne Mile" and Tech offering a trophy for the quarter mile, or the half mile, or the broad jump, suit yourself, and naming the event the "Carnegie Quarter" or what it happens to be?

BACH MAY GO

Joe (Joseph to you) Bach, Duquesne University's line coach, who succeeded Bob Reagen as assistant chief mentor on the Bluff, has been getting some highly remunerative offers from other schools in his fan mail of late.

A well-known institution of the West and another in the South have lines out, baited with a goodly portion of the coin of the realm, for Joe's services. Maybe he'll take 'em and maybe he won't, and maybe, just maybe, Joe is seeking to get the ante raised here.

Prior to taking the line job here, Joe was a member of the coaching staff at Syracuse University. He played a tackle and played it well, while at Notre Dame.

Four more meets have been arranged for Carnegie Tech's young boxing team. The Tartan leather slingers will make their first home appearance on February 21 when they are scheduled to fight Syracuse's team in the gymnasium at 8:30 p. m. Following this, the West Virginia Mountaineers will come to Pittsburgh for a return match with the Plaid. W. & J.'s newly formed team will be Carnegie's guests on March 14, also in the gymnasium. The only road appearance now carded is at Lewisburg, Pa., against Bucknell on March 21.

ROBB RETIRES AT CHARTIERS

By VERN SWARTSFAGER.

After holding office as president of the Chartiers Heights Country Club for nine long years, hard years, too, because the going was toughest following the building of the beautiful new clubhouse and golf course, A. Dorr Robb has stepped down and in his place today is F. A. Ogden, vice president last year.

Robb, after having faithfully served for so many years, thought it well that another should go ahead with the work, and declined renomination. Ogden, the new president, is highly respected both as an officer and as a golfer at Chartiers Heights.

J. H. Kramer was elevated to the vice presidency, and E. Crowther re-elected secretary-treasurer.

The board of directors for the ensuing year includes Walter Hutchison, Mennake, chairman of the house committee; W. Eckert, chairman of the field club committee; A. J. Tehrutz, Harry Hachmeister, F. Eaton and R. M. Hamilton.

The club will tender a testimonial dinner to Robb, the retiring president, on Monday, February 9, in the club.

The boys were whooping it up around the old Sports Desk when in rushed none other than Carl Shatto, an inmate, with a flock of clippings attached to a note reading, "For your Vignettes column on a rainy day." . . . Now, there is no way of telling ahead when there will be a rainy day, so the material is prepared immediately and the blame placed where it belongs.

A bright wit in the crowd pulled one at Motor Square Garden Monday night when Announcer Harry Klaas informed the victims-to-be of the Johnny Datto-Harry Fierro what-was-it that next Monday night they would see Cowboy Eddie Anderson and Eddie Brannon in the main bout and Indian Tiger West against Ted Ross in the semi-final . . . "What's it going to be?" piped the wit, "a Wild West show? What are all of these Indians and cowboys for?"

The Philadelphia referee who erred in counting up his rounds with the result that he first called the Tommy Loughran-Jack Gross bout the other night a draw and then reversed himself, crediting Loughran with four rounds and Gross with three, with the others even, and giving the former the decision, seemingly is not the only official connected with the affair whose mathematical faculties are off the line . . . Discussing the affair, Chairman Frank Wiener, of the commission, is quoted in the Philadelphia Evening Bulletin as saying such a mixup could not have occurred under the amended rules which he will champion before the Legislature whereby, instead of the referee's vote deciding a bout when the judges disagree, all three votes of the two judges and the referee will be considered in determining winners, with the majority prevailing . . . "Since one of the three officials voted in Loughran's favor and the others for a draw," says Wiener, "Tommy had a majority, but we have to work under the present law until the amendment is passed."

Two draws against one vote for Loughran still would have rendered the bout a draw, for no amended laws can make one a majority out of three, Mr. Wiener . . . Ask Prof. Einstein . . . he knows!

SUHR HAS O. K. OF BUG FANS

By CHARLES J. DOYLE.

The future of Gus Suhr is a question of much interest to Pirate fans, many of whom were disappointed because the new first-baseman failed to make the 300 hurdle in his first year in the majors.

Gus Suhr

If you were inclined to gather a few hundred personal opinions on the Coast leaguer, however, you probably would find most of them favorable to the big Dutchman. Gus has the O. K. of Manager Ens and other prominent baseball men, who expect him to have a bigger year at the plate this summer.

Suhr batted something like 285 in his first season in the big show, but he spanked in more than 100 runs. His defensive play was a revelation to those who expected to see a mediocre fielder.

In connection with Suhr's first season it is fitting to mention that the athlete on the other corner of the diamond, who was to blossom into one of the best hitters in Pirate history, was no standout at the plate in his first season. Pie Traynor batted .280 in 1922, his opening venture.

SAN FRANCISCO.—(AP.)—John J. McHugh, San Francisco youth, who won the California amateur golf championship in 1926, 1927 and 1928, plans to become a "business man golfer."

SANDOWN, Eng.—(AP.)—Easter Hero, favorite to win the Grand National Steeplechase on March 27, romped off with the Mole Handicap Steeplechase yesterday.

BELLAIR, Fla.—(AP.)—Mrs. Helen B. Stetson, Philadelphia, and Mrs. Norman H. Hood, Wilmington, Del., will play for the Belleair Women's January golf crown here today.

SPRINGFIELD, Mo.—Charles Schmidt, who rode to glory in two world series with the old Detroit Tigers, will attempt to "beat back" at the age of 50 as a playing manager. Schmidt is trying to get the managerial berth of the Ft. Smith Western Association club.

MIAMI BEACH, Fla.—(AP.)—Win Day, Chicago, favorite in the Miami Beach men's amateur golf championship, won his second round match from Lloyd Newman, of Buffalo, 2 and 1.

DELAWARE, O.—(AP.)—The athletic practices and policies of seven West Virginia colleges will be investigated by William H. Husband, professor of business administration of Ohio Wesleyan University, who was appointed by the North Central Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools.

CHICAGO.—(AP.)—Major Frederic McLaughlin, owner of the Chicago Blackhawks, and 17 others have been made defendants in a $750,000 suit [illegible] Edward J. Livingstone, Toronto, Canada, former owner of the Chicago Cardinals, American Association hockey team. Livingstone charged conspiracy to wreck his team.

NAVY TOPS LION FIVE; PANTHER CUBS COP

MORGANTOWN, Jan. 29.—Geneva College found the zone defense of West Virginia too difficult to fathom and the Mountaineers stopped the famous rush of the Covenanters to win 35-26 here last night.

The Mountaineers rushed into an early lead and never relinquished it. At half time West Virginia was out in front, 14-10. The lineup:

W. Virginia (35) — Geneva (26)
Doyle F Martin
Sortet F [illegible]

NAVY BEATS STATE

ANNAPOLIS, Jan. 29.—Flashes of fast, clever passing offset an otherwise ragged exhibition of basketball between Navy and Penn State College here yesterday, which was won by Navy, 41 to 38. The result was in doubt almost to the final whistle.

The Middies were somewhat off color, compared to previous performances, probably because of the fact that they are now in the throes of mid-semester tests. The lineup:

Navy (41) — Penn State (38)
Bauer F [illegible]
Loughlin F [illegible]
Borstrom C Brand
Bedell G [illegible]
Hagemeister G [illegible]
Score by halves: [illegible]
Substitutions: [illegible]

MERVIS PROVES BIG SUCCESS

By JULIUS LEVIN.

Two light first-class basketball teams will be out tonight to continue their brilliant records, the Y. M. H. A. Varsity B quintet seeking its seventeenth victory of the season at the expense of the Goose Goslins, of the South Side, while the P. A. A. passers strive for their fifteenth straight triumph against the Greenburg Y.

The Y. M. H. A. Varsity B-Goose Goslin battle will be staged on the Y. M. H. A. floor as the preliminary attraction to the Y-Jeannette Felder contest, while the P. A. A.-Greensburg game is the feature of the P. A. A. program.

Engaging in 17 games so far this season, many of their opponents playing in higher classification, the Varsity B passers have scored 16 victories, their only defeat coming at the hands of the Red McMahans by a margin of one point. The Y. M. H. A. later evened up this setback by swamping the McMahans on their home court.

Much of the credit for the excellent showing of the Varsity B passers is due Dave Mervis, former star forward of the Morrys and Coffeys, when those teams ranked as the topnotchers in local professional circles. Taking a green squad of passers in tow, Mervis lost little time in developing a consistent winner. The Bellefielders at the present time shape up as one of the fastest teams in their class hereabouts.

Quite a varied program of league games is listed for basketball fans tonight. The Mieles entertain the Charleroi Merchants in the Allegheny County League at Columbus Temple, the Ray Schneiders meet the South Side Falcons in the West Penn League, Manchester is host to B. & O. in the Greater Pittsburgh League, the Hannans meet the Hurleys in the Metropolitan League, Swissvale is at Monongahela in the Tri-County League, I. K. S. is at Homewood in the Wagner Institutional League, Westinghouse plays at Tarentum in the County Amateur League.

Ellwood City bumped Fintex, 34-28, in the County League, and Ambridge upset Manchester, 35-30, in the Greater Pittsburgh League last night.

GOV. PINCHOT TO SPEAK

HARRISBURG, Pa., Jan. 29 (AP).—Gov. Pinchot, in the role of a former candidate for Yale athletic teams, will be one of the speakers Saturday night at the Veteran Athletes' banquet of the Penn Athletic Club of Philadelphia. The governor said that he scarcely qualified for the title of veteran athlete as he merely was a substitute who was discharged from the squad at an early date.

Building Up Big Fights

By IKE DORGAN,
The Man Behind Tex Rickard's Fistic Ballyhoos.

CHAPTER XVI.

There isn't any question that when Tex Rickard walked in and took the Jeffries and Johnson fight right out of Jim Coffroth's hands he gave Sunshine Jim the shock of his life.

Coffroth didn't believe any man would dare bid over his own $80,000 offer for the fight.

Former Gov. Cox.

Coffroth knew that he could handle the bout at that figure and make money, but even he didn't realize the bout would become an attraction of such world-wide interest.

Rickard tried to hide even his identity. He fairly pussy-footed his way into New York, and had it not been for the sharp eyes of Vincent Treanor, of the New York Evening World, Tex would have gone into that old hotel in Hoboken, N. J., and dropped his bundle of $101,000 on the table with all the explosive force of a bomb out of the clear skies.

As the mighty promoters of the land were gathering around the lobby of the old Albany Hotel, later called the Continental, which was at Forty-first and Broadway, Rickard, nonchalantly enough, strolled into the lobby. Not a word of the coming of the Goldfield promoter had been printed. Standing in the lobby on the job was Treanor and his assistant, Johnny Pollock.

REVEALS SECRET

Something about the swing of the tall Westerner attracted Treanor's attention. He never had seen Rickard in person, although he had printed many pictures of the Goldfield operator in his sporting pages.

"That's Tex Rickard, Johnny," said Treanor to Pollock. Treanor walked over to Rickard and said:

"Hello, Tex. What are you doing in New York?"

"I jess came in to have a spell of fun. Seed enough of the gold country for awhile. Thought I'd drop into New York to have a look at the buildings and the shows."

"Why not confess right up? You're here to get the big fight. That's the reason, now isn't it?" said Treanor, shooting at the moon.

Treanor hit. Turning to Pollock, he told him to stall while he walked Tex around the block and got the lowdown. The two of them walked all the way to the Waldorf Astoria, where Rickard had taken rooms.

AMAZES RIVALS

He admitted that the big bidding bee was his objective.

"I wanted to surprise those fellows, but you ketched me," said Tex. "It's all right. Let's go now. I kain't keep it a secret any longer. I know what those fellers are going to bid! They've been shooting off they bazzoos. Never let the other feller know what you're goin' to do. That's my motto. When the bidding is over, I'll get that fight. I'll bid those babies dizzy."

Treanor got his story into print, but Rickard didn't tell him what he was going to bid. With Johnson, George Little, his manager; Coffroth, McCarey, Graney, Berger, Gleason, Tom O'Rourke, Billy Gibson and many others prepared to bid in attendance, Rickard knocked them for a twister when he coolly dropped $101,000 on the table.

That ended it. Tex won without a challenge. Coffroth, as plucky an individual as there is, smiled and tapped his skull. Then he pointed to Tex. He was certain that Tex would fit a straight jacket perfectly.

The place where the bids were opened was an old German hotel and beer garden. How it flowed that day. The late Raymond Hitchcock, who had come over to see the bidding and the bold bidders, happened to walk out into the barroom. He saw any number of dock workers sipping the glorious amber. They wore blue shirts and their hands were not designed to serve 5 o'clock tea.

"My people," said Hitchcock. "Boys, have a drink on Raymond Hitchcock. The house is invited."

And then began one of the best beer-drinking sessions I ever saw. In the end, when the bad news came, and it was nearly $200, Hitchcock said:

"Pardon me, boys, I'll step inside and tap one of those billionaires in the other room. There is plenty of money in there. I think that fellow from Goldfield prints it."

The tall, blonde musical comedy comedian walked in and, spotting Sam Harris, put the bee on him for the beer tab. I'll bet there is many a longshoreman in and around Hoboken who remembers that Hitchcock beer party, but has forgotten that Tex Rickard made the sports world gasp when he dumped $101,000 on the old table to capture the greatest fistic prize of the time.

Where to hold the bout? Rickard didn't go off half-cocked. He never did, in fact. There never was a fellow in the sports promotion game who laid his paths to success as carefully and thoughtfully as did Tex Rickard.

FRIEND OF HARDING

He made friendships far in advance of a project. If he planned to put on a bout in Ohio, for instance, two or three years in advance of the announcement he would begin to form connections, political and social, that meant something.

For instance, when we went into Toledo, he knew where he was going with his Dempsey and Willard fight. Gov. Jim Cox was his friend, and so was Warren Harding, later to become president of the United States.

Long before Harding ever thought of occupying the White House chair he and Rickard were warm friends.

They were giving Harding a testimonial clam bake out in his own country just after he had become nominated for the presidency. Rickard made it his business to be there. I don't know how far he traveled to be on hand, but he was hobnobbing with all of the big bugs of the country. Not that he wanted to be seen in their presence. Old Tex was looking over their heads. Harding met him and Tex was fond of repeating Harding's words when he greeted him.

"Well, Tex," said the President-elect, "what can I do for you now, let you put on a big fight or get a friend out of jail?"

All hands laughed, but Tex never forgot that promise, half in fun, but in whole earnest if it came to a pinch.

AN EASY "TOUCH"

That was the way Rickard cemented his paths along the promoting road. He played to the big guns and they liked him.

He came back from South America after one of his many trips without any too much ready cash. He needed $10,000 in a hurry. He didn't have to think about it twice. Charley Sabin, the big banker, a great admirer of Tex, had told him to drop in any time he was short.

Tex did. Sabin was all hospitality. Tex put on the bee.

"Why, certainly," was the reply. "Is that all you want? How's this fighting business? Gee, when are you going to put on another big one? What do you think of so-and-so?"

The conversation switched instantly from that $10,000 touch to the field of fisticuffs. Tex got a little nervous. Was Sabin forgetting that all-important handout? Tex made as if to go.

"Oh, the money, Tex. Just a minute. Hey, Mr. Whozthis, get me 10 $1,000 bills."

SABIN A BACKER

The assistant came back with the money. Still talking about the respective merits of Jack Dempsey and Jim Corbett, Sabin handed Tex the money.

"I'll sign a note for this," said Tex.

"Nothing doing. Don't bother. Pay me when you feel like it."

That transaction was one of the most pleasing of Rickard's whole career. He told it as one of the great kicks of his life. He paid back Sabin, of course. He was a stickler for that. Sabin became one of his backers and is one of Rickard's famous "Six Hundred Millionaires," who financed the "House That Tex Built."

NOVAK BATTLES TOUCHSTONE AT M'KEESPORT

By HARRY KECK,
Sports Editor

Frank Novak, North Side heavyweight, meets his first opponent of national reputation tonight when he goes against Benny Touchstone, of Florida, in the 10-round main bout at McKeesport. Touchstone has boxed Ernie Schaaf and a number of other good men. He now makes his headquarters in Detroit.

Novak will be gunning for his fourth successive knockout victory, and will be starting in his first windup appearance as a pro. His manager, Cy Seibert, has been grooming him carefully for tougher game and thinks he is ready now to shoot the works. A match with George Panka, of Homestead, is just around the corner for Frank if he can dispose of Touchstone.

Muscle Scholes, of the North Side, and Al Reno, of Youngstown, lightweights, box the eight-round semi-final tonight. Johnny Ruff, of Canton, O., meets Walter Ketchel, Detroit middleweight, in the second preliminary and Al Farrone and Jimmy Reilly open the show.

Between Rounds

The monthly amateur boxing show at the Pittsburgh [illegible] is scheduled for this evening. [illegible] boxers will meet leading members of other local clubs in the battles.

Gene Buffalo boxes Vincent Forgione and Nick Venote tangles with Larry Wagner in bouts at the Broadway [illegible] Philadelphia tonight. Mickey [illegible] boxes Hughey Turner, Sammy Mitchell meets Johnny Huber and Italian Joe Gans opposes Pete Horton in bouts in New York.

Sammy Paris, of the Hill, will do his boxing under the management of Mike Ray, now that James (Red) Mason, his former pilot, appears to have left Pittsburgh permanently to make his home in Chicago. Sammy is in training and will be ready to box at 120 pounds soon.

An amateur show will be held under the auspices of the Duquesne [illegible] in Croatian Hall, Duquesne, next Monday night.

Tickets are going fast for Father James R. Cox's amateur boxing show in the Moose Temple next Saturday night and indications are that the affair will be a sellout. In addition to eight amateur bouts, [illegible] will be staged, a number of former local stars will be introduced from the ring and Thomas J. May and William [illegible] entertainers [illegible] with a guitar and an accordion [illegible]. The services of all performers will be donated. Tickets are on sale at Spalding's, Wagner's and Brown's sporting goods stores.

Billy Rose, of Cincinnati, will arrive in town today for his 10-round main bout with Jimmy Kelly, of the North Side, in the Moose Temple, tomorrow night. He will be accompanied by Tiger Ray Caldwell, also of Cincinnati, who meets Angelo Vergione, of Swissvale, in the second event. Mose Butch, of Oakland, and Johnny Warner, of Clairton, are in the first 10-rounder of the double windup and Marty Gornick, of McKeesport, and Ray Ganshaw, of Newark, O., will open the show.

Eddie Brannon, Negro lightweight of the Hill, who makes his debut as a Motor Square Garden main bouter against Eddie Anderson, the Wyoming Cowboy, Monday night, has compiled a fine record in the past year. Boxing 17 times during 1930, he lost only three bouts, one by a technical knockout to Joey Goodman in 10 rounds and the other two to Chet Smallwood, one of them on a foul. He has beaten Johnny Baker, Gene [illegible], Frankie Chatterton twice and Ray Newton and knocked out Art Caeser, Barney Davis, Bobby Springer, Russell Bradford, Jimmy Reed and Jimmy Kelly. He has been boxing professionally about two years.

The Motor Square Club is trying to sign Johnny Datto and Jackie Rodgers for a return bout one week from next Monday night [illegible]. Sylvan Bass, of Baltimore, may be brought here to box Jimmy Belmont or Tiger Joe Randall in the second bout on the Anderson-Brannon card next Monday. Ted Ross, Chicago middleweight, and Indian Tiger West already having been signed for the eight-round semi-final. Bass is [illegible] in the semi-final to the Len Harvey-Vince Dundee return bout in Madison Square Garden, New York, February 13. He has been anxious to break in here for some time.

Ted Ross, a former Pittsburgher, has fared very well in Chicago. He has been knocked out by and in return knocked out Edgar Norman in seven rounds, knocked out Red Uhlan and Shuffle Callahan, won over King Levinsky and won over and drawn with Haakon Hansen. A brother, Phil Ross, will come here with him. He is a 150-pounder.

Ted Yates, of Monaca, and Mickey Fedor, of Canton, O., box the 10-round main bout of a show in the Eagles' Hall, East Liverpool, O., tomorrow night.

Bloch, Wheeling Golfer, Defeated

AUGUSTA, Jan. 29.—Ben Carroll, medalist for two consecutive years, was forced to the nineteenth hole to defeat Charles H. Jennings, New York, in the second day of match play in the twenty-sixth annual tournament of the Winter Golf League of Advertising Interests at the Bonair Vanderbilt Country Club.

George P. James, Washington, defeated H. V. H. Proskey, Port Washington, 4 and 3. Harold S. Bloch, New York, defeated Jesse L. Bloch, Wheeling, W. Va., 4 and 3.

ONE KNOCKOUT IN MITT SHOW

One knockout, and that of the technical variety, marked the five-bout amateur boxing show staged last night under the auspices of the Homewood Progressive Club. Three bouts went the regular distance of three rounds, and another went an extra session.

Mike Chomyak, Willow Club, was halted in the second round when the referee stopped Jim Carney, Homewood, from inflicting further punishment. The summary:

126-pound class—Robert [illegible], Valley A. C., defeated John Ungerman, Homewood A. C., in four rounds; Andy [illegible], Valley A. C., defeated Adam Palles, Willow A. C., in three rounds.

Moorehead, Local Netman, Advances

ORMOND BEACH, Fla., Jan. 29.—R. W. Moorehead, of Pittsburgh, and his partner, L. Wilson, of Orlando, Fla., advanced to the semi-final for the Ormond Beach doubles tennis championship by winning their first round match here yesterday. They eliminated M. F. Davis and Andy Pouch, both of New York, in straight sets by 6-4, 6-3.

cersburg Academy team one fall and made it five successive perfect seasons by playing on the unbeaten Penn freshman eleven.

His next season, 1927, he played on the Penn varsity, which was kicked around by its opponents.

Marty was not considered good enough to be a regular on this eleven, so he quit and went to Notre Dame, where he was not eligible to play the following fall.

He came back to star on the Irish teams of the last two seasons, both of which went through undefeated.—HARRY KECK.

HEAVY PLANS DEALT BLOW

NEW YORK, Jan. 29 (AP).—Chicago is all in favor of holding next summer's heavyweight championship battle between Max Schmeling and Young Bill Stribling, says George Getz, a member of the Illinois Athletic Commission, but not if the Milk Fund or any New York charity is to share in the proceeds.

Addressing his remarks to an informal gathering that included Schmeling, his manager, Joe Jacobs, and Bill Carey, president of the Madison Square Garden Corporation, Getz added this complication to the fight plans yesterday, explaining that "charity begins at home, and Chicago needs all the charity it can get." The Milk Fund has been carrying on the negotiations for the fight.

BRITISH PONIES TO MAKE BOW

Polo ponies purchased from the string of international mounts that participated in the British-United States matches at Meadowbrook last August have been purchased for use in the Pittsburgh Polo League and will be ridden by members of the Vang team, which meets Shady Side Academy in the second league match in the Hunt Armory Saturday night.

George Vang, backer of the team bearing his name, has purchased Black Prince and Jack Frost from the British. These ponies have been shipped to Pittsburgh and will see action for the first time Saturday.

Tuckahoe and Lady Bird, bred and trained by the Baltimore Polo Association, also have been added to the Vang string.

Conger Victor Over Martin, Swiss Ace

NEWARK, N. J., Jan. 29 (AP).—The band played the "Star Spangled Banner," and then Ray Conger stepped out and won the first international race of the indoor track season, a 1,000-yard struggle, defeating Dr. Paul Martin, of Switzerland. Ray's time was 2:17 9-10.

COLLEGE RING RULES ARE CHANGED

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 29 (AP).—Important changes in boxing rules governing intercollegiate competition have been effected, Dr. Francis C. Grant, secretary of the Intercollegiate Boxing Association, announced today.

In the new rules referees alone will decide the bouts, judges will not be employed as heretofore and extra rounds will not be permitted in dual meet contests. In the case of a draw in dual meet bouts each team will be awarded a point or a half-point.

Entries for the annual intercollegiate championships are to be limited to boxers considered championship possibilities and inexperienced men will not be permitted to compete in any class.

The new rules also call for only semi-final and final matches, thus eliminating the preliminary bouts that formerly forced the victor to box twice on the final day. This will mean two matches in each class the first night and a final match the second night and is one of the results of the restricted entry list.

A committee will meet on March 15 to decide on the men to be entered from each college in the championships to be held at Penn State College, March 20 and 21. Each college in the Intercollegiate Association, Penn State University of Pennsylvania, Western Maryland, Syracuse, Navy and Massachusetts Institute of Technology will be represented at the meeting.

LAYTON TIED FOR SECOND

CHICAGO, Jan. 29 (AP).—Johnny Layton, of Sedalia, Mo., dethroned as world three-cushion billiard champion Tuesday night, assured himself of a tie for second place in the tournament by defeating Otto Reiselt, of Philadelphia, 50 to 32, in 32 innings here last night.

Allen Hall and Arthur Thurnblad, both of Chicago, will meet in a 50-point match for Layton's crown tonight. The loser will tie with Layton as runner-up.

Reiselt was sent to fourth place by his defeat. Layton has turned in the best record of the tournament thus far. He defeated Jess Jacobs, of St. Louis, in 21 innings and Charles Jordan, of Los Angeles, in 36 innings, the fastest matches played.

Tiff Denton, of Kansas City, clinched a tie for fifth place by defeating Jacobs, 50 to 44, in 49 innings.

MORRISON COPS IN SOUTH

At Pinehurst, N. C.—R. G. Morrison won his match from W. D. [illegible], of Toledo, 3 and 2.

State Comish Bars Loughran, Manager

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 29 (INS).—Tommy Loughran, former light-heavyweight champion of the world, and his manager, Joe Smith, were suspended for indefinite terms yesterday by the Pennsylvania State Athletic Commission. They were charged with "conduct detrimental to the sport of boxing."

The commission also suspended indefinitely Werner Wilsh, boxer, of Rochester, N. Y., for failure to honor a contract at the Armory A. C., Wilkes-Barre, Pa., on January 22.

DISTRICT BODY TO NEGOTIATE FOR GAME

By TOM BIRKS.

Secretary Pat Donohue, of the West Penn Soccer Football Association, has received a communication from the national body regarding the appearance here of the Glasgow Celtics when the famous Scottish club begins its American tour.

The letter was read at the meeting of the West Penn Football Association and President Peel appointed a committee composed of Sam Park, Harry Fairfield, Pat Donohue, Tom Edward and the writer to look into the matter.

It is hardly possible, however, that the committee will listen to any guarantee ideas regarding the playing of a representative game in this district. The $5,000 guarantee given the Rangers two years ago [illegible] in the minds of local soccer men, and if the Celtic come to Pittsburgh they will have to gamble on the gate.

MAY CHANGE SITE

Dunlevy was at the West Penn meeting making an effort to take its semi-final game with Cecil to Hughes Field, Monessen. There is little doubt that Hughes Field would draw a large crowd and unless the committee finds a way to play the game at Bridgeville there is a chance Monessen will get the game.

The West Penn will have to put a stop to managers or players coming before that body with a kick against a league until a league has been given a chance to hear the question and rule upon it.

REPLAY CARDED

Quality, not quantity, will rule this week's soccer schedule. On Saturday the replayed semi-final West Penn cup game between Clan Douglas and Bridgeville, at Garfield Park, will hold the spotlight. It is the only game scheduled on that day.

On Sunday the Panhandle League will find all its followers concentrating on the Mollenauer-Bower Hill game. This also is a replay and will be staged at Bridgemont. One other battle will be fought in that neck of the woods, Dunlevy making the trip to Morgan.

The Keystoners have been idle in league competition and are getting far behind in the schedule. Dunlevy has three games to play.

There will be a special meeting of Mollenauer players at the Home Circle store tomorrow evening at 7:30.

CORPORATE EARNINGS

P. & W. Va. Net Reflects Reduced Traffic

By GEORGE H. SNYDER

THE REDUCED MOVEMENT of coal and the decline in general business activity have been reflected in a sharp reduction in the earnings of the Pittsburgh and West Virginia Railway Company. The preliminary statement showed that the road failed to earn dividend requirements of $6 a share on its capital stock during 1930.

Net income for the year was $1,441,064 which was equivalent to $4.76 a share on 302,351 shares of stock. This compared with $2,083,348 or $6.89 a share in 1929. Profit was the lowest of any year since 1925. In 1926 net reached $3,211,193 or $10.62 a share. In each year since net income has declined.

New Traffic Factor

WITHIN A FEW WEEKS traffic will be moving over the 38-mile extension of the line to Connellsville. This will open a connection with the Western Maryland. The extension was built as a necessary phase of the plan to form a new trunk line through consolidation of the Pittsburgh and West Virginia with the Western Maryland and the Wheeling and Lake Erie.

The muddled state of the railroad merger situation makes the completion of this plan highly problematical but the Pittsburgh and West Virginia expects to derive increased traffic from industrial organizations served by the extension. Among the large plants on the line are the works of the American Steel and Wire Company and the Pittsburgh Steel Company.

To Help Earnings

THE EXTENSION IS expected to be a helpful factor in earnings when the steel industry recovers from its present state of depression. For the past two years Pittsburgh and West Virginia has been burdened by increasing interest charges with no compensating return on its investment in the extension.

While the plans of F. E. Taplin, president, to use the road as a nucleus for a trunk line appears to have been favored by the Interstate Commerce Commission, they have been vigorously opposed by other trunk line interests.

Controlled by Penroad

WHILE THE OTHER carriers may block the inclusion of the Pittsburgh and West Virginia in a new trunk line, the management appears to have taken its capital out of the line on a highly favorable basis. Nearly two years ago 222,930 shares were sold to Pennroad Corporation at $170 a share, which was practically the peak level for the stock. The sale was made with the provision that the Taplin interests would continue in the management and that they could repurchase the stock under certain conditions.

The stock is now quoted at about 75. Pennroad has secured a rather costly investment with a doubtful merger value.

2 EXPELLED BY N. Y. EXCHANGE

NEW YORK, Jan. 29.—The New York Stock Exchange today announced the expulsion of Phillip I. Smith and Philip W. Smith, and the suspension for one year of Henry M. [illegible]. All are associated with [illegible] & Co.

Action was taken under the section of the rule forbidding a member to have an interest adverse to that of a customer.

Philip I. Smith had been a member of the exchange since April [illegible], Philip W. Smith since February [illegible], and [illegible] since March 1929.

The firm merely did a business for other brokers and had no public clientele.

The substance of the charges against the firm was that in the execution of buying orders entrusted to it by other brokers it supplied stock owned by its partners, but charged the regular commission for making purchases in the open market and neglected to show that it was supplying its own stock.

Valuation of Erie Put at $284,279,317

WASHINGTON, Jan. 29.—The Interstate Commerce Commission today placed a final valuation as of June 30, 1918, of $284,279,317 on the Erie Railroad, now controlled by the Van Sweringen interests.

At the same time the commission placed a final valuation as of June 30, 1917, of $238,753,958 on the Philadelphia and Reading. The Erie and the lines which it operates embrace 4,521 miles of all tracks, including 1,946 miles of main track. On date of valuation the Reading system comprised [illegible] miles of road and [illegible] miles of all track.

Is Your Castle Safe

MANY men who carry substantial amounts of Life Insurance for the future protection of their families fail to heed the established fact that Life Insurance money, left unguarded, in the majority of cases lasts the heirs only for a very short period of years.

In any program of family protection, second only to an adequate amount of Life Insurance is its preservation—a definite plan to make it last.

The Life Insurance Trust provides this.

By entrusting the proceeds of your Life Policies to this institution, for the use and benefit of your family, you assure not only sound and experienced judgment for the safe investment of the fund, but also a kindly, personal interest in the future welfare of those you love.

Make your "castle" safe, through the Life Insurance Trust.

Let our Trust Officers explain how it can further your plans of complete family protection.

Impending Statement of Bethlehem Puts Damper On Trading—Sales Light

NEW YORK, Jan. 29 (AP) The latest decline in share values became a mere droop in today's stock market.

Continued selling of government issues in the bond department, together with the impending Bethlehem Steel earnings report due after the close of the market, were [illegible] but the liquidation of stocks [illegible] and the list held up better than it did yesterday.

Strength of the mail order shares, together with short covering in some of the professional trading favorites by bears, [illegible] with the lack of activity, tended to rally the list at times.

The mail order stocks were helped by the earnings statement of Montgomery Ward, showing that fourth quarter earnings wiped out the deficit of the [illegible] nine months and left a small balance. In addition, [illegible] indicate that [illegible] sales of large merchandisers [illegible] are making a much better comparison with the previous year than did the latter months of 1930. The slim volume of stock operations on the decline was reflected in brokerage and bank [illegible], a evidence of the [illegible] of the [illegible] situation.

Wall street had not very seriously considered the possibility of a large government loan for redemption of veterans' certificates at this time until brought to its attention by the [illegible] statements of the Secretary of the Treasury in opposition to it. Investment banking circles [illegible] heartedly endorse the secretary's stand, pointing out that the security market has only just started to get on its feet after its last major operation and in its present convalescent state is only barely able to absorb necessary corporate financing which has been held in abeyance for some time.

[illegible] price of government [illegible] some banks to sell their holdings of acceptances to take advantage of these prices, which resulted in a ⅛ of one per cent cut in acceptance rates. Other credit rates were stationary. The estimate of an increase of $1,000,000,000 in savings deposits in 1930 provided striking evidence of the change in investment habits and a clue as to the demand for high grade bonds during the more stable periods of the past year, for almost all of savings bank deposits go into bonds and mortgages.

Lone Star Gas Displays Firm Tone; Mesta Sags After Steady Opening

Early price movements were meaningless on the Pittsburgh Stock Exchange today, with the list drifting back and forth in a narrow range and volume of business showing a moderate decline from the previous session.

ASK RECEIVER FOR I. O. G.

WILMINGTON, Jan. 29.—Minority stockholders of Independent Oil and Gas Company have filed a [illegible] in Chancery Court here asking for appointment of a receiver and dissolution for the corporation.

They disapprove of terms under which [illegible] of the corporation were sold to Phillips Petroleum Corporation and allege that the commission paid to Banc-America Blair Corporation in connection with the sale was not warranted and illegal. It is also charged [illegible] literature issued by Independent Oil and Gas to its stockholders recommending favorable action on the proposed sale was misleading.

[illegible] Market [illegible] To S[illegible] Pressure [illegible]

[illegible] circles were inclined to be apprehensive pending the final outcome of efforts now afoot in Washington to jam through legislation for the redemption of veterans' adjusted compensation certificates. Such a move would entail flotation of a huge government bond issue, which as Secretary Mellon pointed out before the Senate Finance Committee, would disrupt factors making for business recovery. He declared such a step would kill the bond market as the principal hope for recovery of business. Increased money circulation which would result from redemption of certificates would have only a temporary favorable influence on business, he declared, and in effect would prove a boomerang later.

[illegible] the [illegible] that the [illegible] was being quite adequately supported on a scale down. Traders selling the stock were moved by consideration of the outlook for operating results of the corporation in the current quarter and the first half of the year. It is only natural to expect that earnings will improve over the December quarter, [illegible] for seasonal if no other reasons. Yet Wall Street was moved to question the ability of the corporation fully to cover its dividend requirements in the first half. It was pointed out that even allowing for the recent stiffening in some products the composite average of steel prices is now roughly $5 under that prevailing in the first quarter of last year and operations equivalent to little more than half the rate for that period. While finished steel prices are seemingly stabilized, recurrent weakness in pig iron and heavy scrap are factors looked upon as not too reassuring.

At the close of last year, 95 per cent of the surplus account of National Biscuit was represented by cash or its equivalent. That is a phenomenal position for any industrial company. It explains the fact that the stock always has sold on a basis that would give a small return when compared with other issues. In every recent year, with the exception of 1921 and 1925, when payments were unchanged from the preceding year, there has been an increase in the total distributions to stockholders. For 1930, the company reported $3.40 a share, or only 10 cents over the dividend payments of $3.30. However, the management always has been conservative in its deductions, etc.

Those who have been identified with the market for General Motors recently insist that little liquidation has come into stock while the buying has been for the account of interests in the motor field. Because of the diversified activities of the company the stock usually is the most active of the motor group. Considerable is expected from the Chevrolet division this year. A good sized short interest still exists in the stock.

A tendency seems to be growing in many quarters to suggest long-pull purchases in the low-priced stocks. For the last two weeks, many lists of such issues have been sent out by various firms. Factors which have first consideration in those suggestions are the earnings record, the dividend prospects, and the extent to which many of these shares have been deflated through necessitous liquidation.

Building Volume Shows Decrease

New construction awards in 37 states east of the Rockies for the period January 1 through January 23 averaged $8,948,600 for each of the 19 business days, compared with $9,500,600 for December and $12,469,600 in January, 1930, according to F. W. Dodge Corporation.

Garson's Views of Life Make Connie Angry

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE

Connie Calvert shares her home and fortune with her half-sister, Kitty, whom she found destitute in New York's underworld. Kitty falls in love with Jim Tracy, Connie's former fiance. Believing Jim to be a fortune-hunter, Connie, to save Kitty, enlists the aid of Duke Garson, Kitty's friend and underworld intelligence man. He warns Connie that her butler is a crook and that her mother should guard her pearls. Later, Duke is about to declare his love for Connie when Jim appears. He claims he was held up and is afraid to go home. Connie invites him to stay. Duke doubts Jim's story. That night Mrs. Calvert's pearls are stolen. Duke questions the maid about them. The maid doubts Kitty's honesty. Mrs. Calvert becomes ill after the excitement. Duke accuses Jim of lying about being held up. Jim says he lied because he did not trust Duke and wanted to get back to the Calvert home. Connie tells her mother that she is not sure whether she loves Duke. Duke hints that he is not free to propose to Connie.

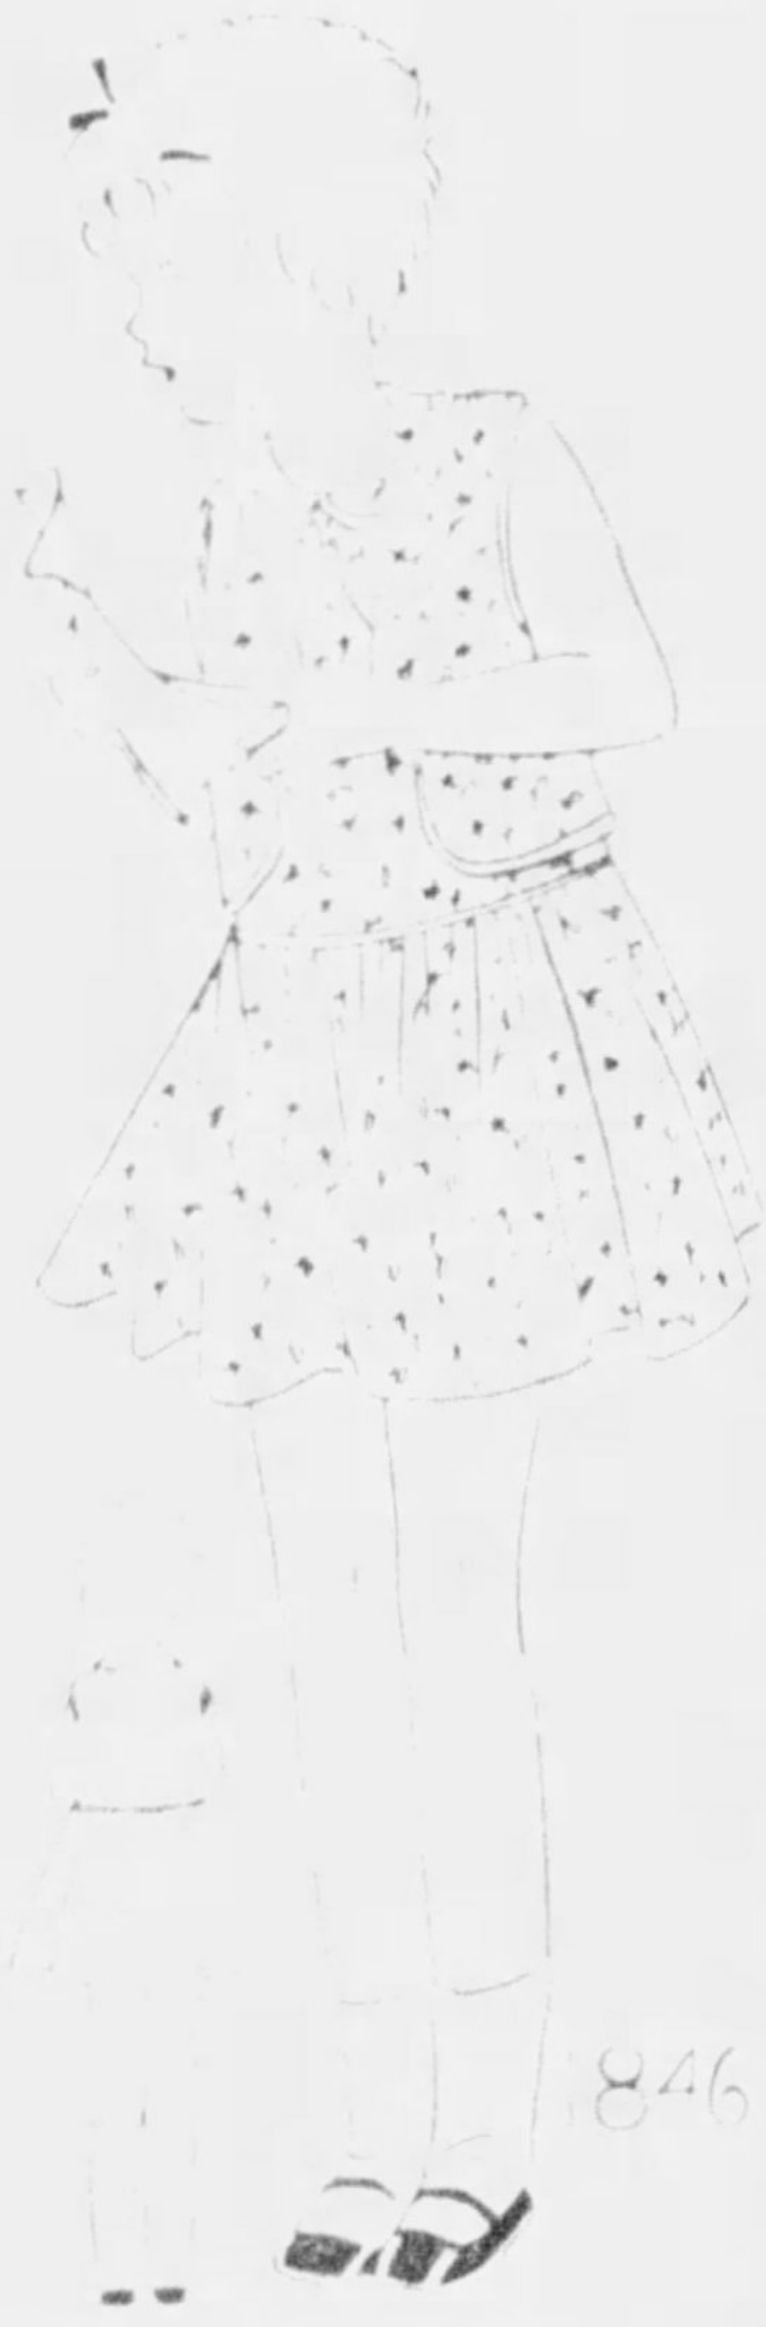
A Cunning Bolero Frock
Pattern 1816
Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph 15c Practical Pattern

By ANNE ADAMS



1846

The bolero is as smart for the youthful fashionable as for her elder sister. Isn't the little frock presented today a ravishing model? The close fitting collar and the front edges of the bolero are scalloped in delightful manner. The bodice fits snugly and joins the gathered skirt just below the normal waistline.

Pattern 1846 develops effectively in printed percale, cotton broadcloth, gingham, shantung or a sheer fabric such as dimity, swiss, etc. The bodice and bolero may be bound in contrasting braid for chic effect.

May be ordered only in sizes 4, 6, 8 and 10. Size 4 requires 1⅞ yards of 36-inch material.

No dressmaking experience is necessary to make this model with our pattern. Yardage for every size, and simple, exact instructions are given.

Send FIFTEEN CENTS (15c) in coins or stamps (coins preferred) for each pattern. Write plainly your name, address and style number. BE SURE TO STATE SIZE WANTED.

DAILY TRUE STORY Gangster Life

Luddy Schmidt may not be as erudite as Calvin Coolidge's cobbler friend of Northampton. I grant that he cannot converse on statecraft, diplomacy and international events, but he knows gangdom.

Ludovic was scarcely more than a kid when he left the cobbler's bench beside his father at their shop up in the East Side gangster belt. I met him over there and we became friendly. After the big quarrel was over, Luddy came back to his father's cobbler shop, satisfied to carry on. His father died soon after and there was a kid sister to care for.

Drifting into the writing game I was delighted to run across Luddy, for he had never told me much about himself. As soon as I learned, after a couple of visits to his shop, that he knew gangsters and gangster life from personal intermingling and observation, I used to go and see him frequently for tips on the latest twists and quirks in racketeering.

Luddy trusted me after a while, knowing that what information he gave me would be so disguised in my stories as to give no hint of my source of information.

I used to take him out to dinner down in his district and he would steer me to unusual and interesting places and secretly point out to me many a noted member of this or that gang.

One evening we were in Gorgi's place, where the patrons were tough and the steaks tender.

"Tough guy," I whispered, glancing at a stockily built man of around 30 who had slouched in.

Luddy's eyes clouded a little, as though he did not care so very much for this man.

"Hi, Luddy," he called, and went to the counter to sit on a stool in the corner where he could see all that was going on.

"Hello, Bloop," Luddy answered, but with no especial friendliness in his voice.

Dislikes Man

After a few moments' delay, in order not to arouse suspicion on the part of the tough young man, I said: "Did I understand you to call him 'Bloop'?"

Luddy glanced at the man cautiously and went on with his eating, telling me the story in a manner that would give the impression that he was merely chatting of this and that.

"Name's Mullins," Luddy said. "Always was a bad one from the time he was a kid. They say he croaked a cop when he was 16. Mullins never could handle a gat. They used to laugh at him. They said he couldn't hit a garage if he was shut inside. Mullins had plenty of nerve, and he's been picked to put more than one man on the spot."

Luddy shot a dark look at Bloop.

This was unusual. Luddy's philosophy was that if these young men preferred to be gangsters that was none of his affairs.

"You don't care much for him," I suggested.

"No," Luddy answered shortly.

"Don't tell me he's been trying to make you come across."

"No. The boys never bother me except Bloop, and that's a personal matter."

Luddy didn't want to go into more details. We prolonged our dinner. Bloop Mullins finished at the lunch counter, slid off the stool and went out, pausing to wave his hand at Luddy, who merely nodded.

I got a great deal of new stuff from Luddy at this time, material that would help me in what I was writing, a gangster serial. When we left Gorgi's place I walked around with Luddy, as there would be a better chance of getting a taxi there.

In front of Luddy's cobbler shop we saw two figures. Luddy walked faster when he saw them. As we came nearer I recognized them, Luddy's sister, a girl of around seventeen or eighteen, and Bloop Mullins.

Returns From Coast

"Come in now," I heard Luddy say to his sister.

"What's the rush?" growled Bloop Mullins.

"She's only a kid, Bloop, on your way," Luddy answered savagely.

"It's all right, Luddy," the girl protested.

A taxi drew up then and I got in. I could just make out the girl stepping in through the door held open by Luddy, before the taxi turned the corner.

So that was why Luddy hated Bloop Mullins. I couldn't blame him. Bloop Mullins was no sort of a person for any man's kid sister to know.

It was probably half a year later before I went down to see Luddy again. I had been to the coast long enough to see those Hollywood highbrows eliminate everything from my novel except the title.

He was pegging away at his bench when I dropped in.

"How's tricks, Luddy?" I greeted him.

"Been sick?"

"No."

This shortness and gruffness wasn't like Luddy. I suggested that he come out to Gorgi's with me for dinner. "I'll talk your arm off about Hollywood," I said.

"Sorry, can't make it some other night."

I knew Luddy and his stubbornness. No use to argue.

"I'm sorry, too, Luddy. Anything I can do, old man? If it's money—"

"I wish it was only money—for God's sake, leave me alone tonight, old man."

"Sure. See you later," and I went out, greatly disturbed.

I headed for Gorgi's. I was hungry. The customary crowd was in there. Gorgi knew me by sight, and Antoni, an old waiter, as well as a couple of the regular patrons.

"Nothing has changed since I went away, Antoni," I said.

"You been away?"

I laughed and nodded. "Say, it seems odd not to be here without Luddy Schmidt."

Antoni shot a keen glance at me.

"You see him lately?"

"Tonight. Listen, Antoni, he seems to be in trouble."

"Much troub."

"What is it? I'd like to help him."

"How can you help a man if hees sister go bad on him?" Antoni whispered.

He went to bring me the minestron. As he came back with it I ventured more questions.

"Just what did the girl do?" I asked.

Just then Bloop Mullins came in and stopped at the wet end of the lunch counter, for Gorgi sold other things than food.

"Say, Antoni, the last time I saw Luddy I came across his sister with Bloop—"

"Please no talk," Antoni whispered. He was white and actually trembling with fear.

No need to talk. I had guessed it. It was plain to me. Poor Luddy had been unable to keep Bloop away from his kid sister. No wonder he was crushed over it. My heart went out to him.

I stared hard at Bloop Mullins as he took three drinks in quick succession and glared around the room. He stared especially hard at me. I'm no hero. I shifted my gaze and pretended to be looking all around for someone. Bloop tossed down some money and walked out. I felt easier.

Bloop Murdered

But he hadn't been out of Gorgi's side door more than half a minute before we heard a terrific noise.

Antoni dropped a plate. Others leaped up.

My thought was of Luddy. I leaped up and ran out.

No one in sight; yes, a body in the dirty slush and snow of the alley. People were coming. Someone had a flashlight and knelt beside the body and a policeman came. I stared. Poor Luddy, I was thinking, but the flashlight revealed Bloop Mullins!

I went back, paid my check and walked around to Luddy's shop.

He was sitting at the bench, working away on a shoe, and singing merrily.

"Hello," he said heartily, "is it getting cold outside?"

"No," I said, glancing down at Luddy's feet. Snow and slush were clinging to his shoes.

"No, it's all right outside, Luddy."

"Good. I haven't been out all day, but I thought everything was all right outside."

I left him hammering away at the shoes, and singing.

GONE OUT. HE SPENT ALL AFTERNOON TELEPHONING UNTIL HE FOUND SOMEONE WHO WOULD INVITE THEM TO DINNER. THEY WAITED FOR YOU UNTIL ABOUT TEN MINUTES AGO SO YOU COULD TAXI THEM TO WHERE THEY'RE GOING.
SUCH CRUST! WHAT A TIGHT BABY HE IS. EVERY TIME HE GETS A DOLLAR BILL HE PUTS GLUE ON ONE SIDE OF IT AND PASTES IT TO THAT BIG ROLL HE CARRIES. LUCILLE IS DIFFERENT.
DIFFERENT? WHAT DO YOU MEAN? SHE'S BORROWED MY FACE POWDER AND LOTION AND WHEN I LOOKED TODAY I FOUND NEARLY HALF OF THAT EXPENSIVE HAIR TONIC I USE, GONE.
BEING MARRIED TO A MAN WHO PROBABLY SHOPS AROUND TO FOUR OR FIVE POSTOFFICES BEFORE HE BUYS A TWO CENT STAMP IS BOUND TO HAVE ITS INFLUENCE.
HE'S CERTAINLY VERY OPEN-HANDED WITH HER. SHE HAS A BIG FUR COAT THAT COST THREE OR FOUR TIMES AS MUCH AS THE ONE I'VE BEEN WEARING FOR SIX YEARS.
FUR COAT? YOU MEAN - OH YES, SHE HAS A FUR COAT. I WAS THINKING OF THE BLUE ONE WITH THE BIG FUR COLLAR SHE WORE WHEN SHE GOT HERE.
EXPENSIVE STOCKINGS. TWO BIG DIAMONDS. THEY'RE YELLOW BUT DIAMONDS JUST THE SAME. NOTHING TO DO BUT DOUSE HER FACE TWO OR THREE TIMES A DAY WITH SKIN FOOD. NO WONDER SHE LOOKS AT LEAST A YEAR OR TWO YOUNGER THAN I DO.

The authoress as she appeared during the flush of success.

By "ANONYMOUS"

Let us leave me dangling from the eightieth story of the Confessions Building long enough to say a word or two about myself.

I am what the world calls an attractive woman. I was brought up among the bees and the flowers and did not know what I was talking about until I was 21 years of age.

People would say to me, "Oh, but you take our breath away, with your matchless carriage, your proper enunciation, your rippling laughter. You are a zipper."

I paid little heed to these pretty compliments, but such things do get a girl to wondering, don't you think? I wonder!

Of course I never dreamed that time and tide would sweep me from my moorings, and make me so much riff raft upon the sea of life. No siree. I thought all men were to be trusted, and it never occurred to my innocent little mind that there are beasties in sheep's clothing who call themselves men. Men, indeed! From what I know now I could say a mouthful, and I do not mean perchance.

These thoughts were running through my head as I dangled from the window ledge of the Confessions Building, whence I had come to seek fame and fortune at the bidding of the confessions editor, and had it not been for something that happened the very next instant you would not have lived to read this story. So let us get to the part where—

Guards or Police?

Representative Musmanno Raises Important Questions In Connection With Proposed Legislation.

Representative Musmanno, staunch opponent of the barbarous coal and iron police system, questions the merit of certain features of Gov. Pinchot's tentative plan for a substitute system.

He points out that with an executive in the chair like Pinchot, friendly to labor and fair to the employers of labor, the plan to have coal and steel companies' property protected by state police, responsible only to the state but paid by the corporations, might prove satisfactory. But with a governor who was unfair to labor the police might be used as a strike-breaking organization and the state-wide jurisdiction of the officers would facilitate their use for oppression.

Mr. Musmanno points out also that people injured by these state police would have no redress as the corporations would not be responsible for their actions and the Commonwealth, which would be responsible, cannot be sued.

Mr. Musmanno does not like the idea of having policemen employed to protect the corporations' property. He believes all the protection that the companies require could be furnished by the system of property guards that he proposes, and that the dangers with which Pinchot's plan is fraught would thus be avoided.

The need for caution is suggested.

Gov. Pinchot is a reasonable man, and proposes to call a conference of operators, miners and the public to study the proposed legislation. It is to be hoped they will thoroughly weigh the considerations adduced by Mr. Musmanno and will set their faces against anything that in the hands of an unjust governor might be used for purposes of terrorism.

The Ventilation Problem

Engineers Meeting Here Have Been Discussing a Subject That Is Important to Everyone.

In thousands of homes, offices and factories every day someone finds the room stuffy or too warm, and raises a window—only to meet with a protest from another occupant of the room who fears or dislikes the draft.

How to be comfortably warm and at the same time have fresh air is a vexatious problem. A handsome reward should go to the person who finds a simple solution for it.

The American Society of Heating and Ventilating Engineers, which has been in convention in Pittsburgh this week, is grappling with the problem. There has been enlightenment in the engineers' discussion.

We have learned that air from outside the house is not necessarily pure, but may be as polluted, as vitiated as that inside.

The best air for breathing, we are told, is that which has been conditioned by engineers. With conditioned air, buildings will not require windows for ventilation.

Let the engineers develop the air-conditioning apparatus, then, until every home, no matter how humble, can be equipped with it.

Nature Trail

Superintendent Riis, of the County Parks, Has Commendable Plan to Teach Botany.

Nature lovers will applaud Supt. Paul B. Riis, of the County Bureau of Parks, for laying out in the North Park a "nature trail."

Flowers, ferns, shrubs and trees along the trail are to be carefully preserved. They will be marked with labels giving their correct names. It is a commendable plan for teaching botany.

The plan might well be carried farther, and lessons given along the trail in other branches of natural history. Here and there along the trail little exhibits of local wild life could be set up—mounted birds, or insects, or snakes, with the names shown and some interesting information about the creatures furnished.

That is the plan followed in Wheeling's fine Oglebay Park, which is doing splendid work in furthering nature study.

Complicated Documents

Deferred Consideration of World Court Treaties Will Afford Time to Expose Numerous Jokers.

All the pretenses of the Hoover administration that the new League Court treaties completely comply with all the conditions fixed by the Senate for American membership have been knocked into a cocked hat by no less a witness than Elihu Root himself.

Under cross-examination by members of the Committee on Foreign Relations, Mr. Root now admits that all these new treaties do to prevent the League Court from rendering an advisory opinion without the consent of the United States "IS RATHER VAGUELY DONE."

This absolutely contradicts the assurances of President Hoover and Secretary Stimson that the new League Court treaties FULFILL ALL THE REQUIREMENTS OF THE SENATE'S FIFTH RESERVATION.

George Wharton Pepper, who as a senator from Pennsylvania voted for the Senate's fifth reservation, told the truth about the spurious substitute in the new League treaties when he said that it is "an arrangement that substitutes the remedy of withdrawal from the Court after the mischief has been done for the salutary provision which prevents the mischief from arising."

This substitute is largely the work of Sir Cecil Hurst, one of the most astute of British diplomatists.

The League rejected Mr. Root's own formula for meeting the Senate's fifth reservation. He does not deny that.

But Mr. Root is the American stepfather of the League Court. He wants the United States to do what the Senate has refused to do—enter the League Court UPON THE LEAGUE'S TERMS.

If the administration had been able to jam the new League Court's treaties through at the present session as it tried to do, the jokers that lurk in every paragraph of these new engagements might not have been exposed.

But the Committee on Foreign Relations wisely and patriotically refused to serve the administration as a rubber stamp.

Thanks to the action of this committee further consideration of these treaties has been deferred until the next regular session of the new Congress.

Ample time will then be afforded to expose these "complicated and obscure documents" and to drag into the light the joker in their every paragraph.

And when they are thus exposed the American public will see that these new League treaties so "vaguely done" are only the latest and most subtle attempt on the part of Old World diplomats, aided and abetted by the tools and dupes of American international bankers, to tie the United States up with the League of Nations through the League Court.

Give Him Room!

In quarters cramped we try to train
Our West Point cadet corps
And give them little space to learn
The art of modern war.

Our Congress should provide the funds

For training soldiers in the way
Preparedness demands.

Marry-Go-Round

Trifles, Light as Love

Sometimes a husband is only an impressive monument on the tomb of a woman's dead illusions.

Before taking a man for life, every girl should have the opportunity of listening-in, at least once, when he is shaving in cold water on a cold morning, in a bad light.

When you fall in love, you cut your first mental wisdom tooth; when you go to a beauty parlor to have your double chin removed and your hair "touched up," you cut your last one.

Usually the man who wouldn't let a girl soil her little fingers with the dusty robe before marriage, will ask her to get the car out of the garage in her evening gown, after marriage.

Nowadays a man doesn't ask to be the life-tenant of a girl's heart; he's perfectly satisfied with a 30-day option or a few weeks' lease.

There will be more sweetness and light in matrimony when husbands and wives learn how to "drive home a point" in an argument without hitting at each other's vanity.

Sometimes the most illuminating thing in the world is the dying flame of a very light love-affair.

An unhappy marriage is seldom "broken off." It just gradually stretches and stretches — until "the ties that bind" give 'way.

Isn't It So?

An "eccentric" is an old man; a "nut" is a young man.

The worst thing about an obstacle is that it's always in the way.

A real sport is a man who can be cheerful when he has the toothache.

It takes more courage to admit that you are wrong than to insist that you are right.

It takes two to make a quarrel, but we never seem to have any difficulty in locating the other fellow.

THE EARTH'S ENVELOPE

By Archibald Henderson

One of the most remarkable features of the environmental influence affecting the earth is the envelope which surrounds it. Comparatively little is known about this blanket, or atmosphere, as it is called, which varies from 50 to 200 miles in thickness. Accurate scientific data regarding the atmosphere have been secured for only a comparatively short distance measured outward from the earth's surface.

The energy which streams out from the sun encounters our atmosphere and therein meets a formidable barrier to its further progress. A considerable portion never penetrates the atmosphere, but is reflected back into space and so is forever lost to us. Another part is absorbed and so diminished in effect upon us, in its passage through the atmosphere. A minute part of the energy finally overcomes all barriers and ultimately reaches the surface of the earth. The part absorbed by the atmosphere, singularly enough, must be counted, less as a gain, than as a loss from the store that is available for raising our air temperature. The really important and influential factor is the intensity of that part of the solar energy which actually reaches the earth's surface.

It is interesting to take account of the specific factors which impede the progress of the sun's rays. These factors, in the main, are particles of water and particles of dust. As Kendrew points out in his valuable work on climate, the water particles are the more effective obstacle. They are usually visible as cloud, and no instruments are necessary to tell us that clouds intercept the sun's heat. Even the finest film of cirrus cloud which is hardly visible has great effect, and often the sky is covered with masses of cloud which have a thickness of several miles. The passage of every cloud across the sun, especially on a bright summer day, causes a sensible fall in the air temperature.

Dust particles, and even salts in crystalline form, chiefly thrown up from the earth's surface, greatly impede the solar rays, causing a corresponding lowering of the temperature. These particles may be blown up from the earth by winds or flung into the air by volcanoes, or even condensed in the air above salt water areas, the sea-spray drying into fine salt. The heavier particles are suspended nearer the earth's surface; and the greatest amount of dust particles is found above arid lands and wind-swept deserts. Smoke, too, as well as water and dust particles, carries many solid impurities, especially over large cities and extensive grasslands which have been burned over.

LISTEN, WORLD

By Elsie Robinson

Dare to be human.

Dare to admit you're common clay, like other folk.

Dare to confess that you don't know everything—

That you sometimes make a fool of yourself—

That you fib now and then—

That you pull tantrums—

That you have a yellow streak—

That you're occasionally Just a Plain Old Meanie.

Dare to climb down from your pedestal and be regular.

You're only fooling yourself by this de luxe attitude.

Then stop putting on your act—

Hop down and get human.

You don't want to?

You're afraid that, if you admit your weaknesses,

People may despise you,

Or take advantage of you,

Or laugh at you?

Well, what if they do?

Being laughed at and despised and taken advantage of

Is part of life—

A very necessary part of life.

None of us can really grow up

Until these things happen to

And you need to have them happen to you—

As much as any other human.

So come down from that pedestal.

You know you don't like it up there anyway.

You know you're lonely and bewildered.

Come down!

Dare to admit that your silliness,

Your sorrow and your sin

Are all of a piece with the silliness

And the sorrow and sin of others.

Dare to admit that your fears are no sharper

And your dreams no lovelier,

Than the fears and the tears and the dreams

Of others.

Dare to admit that

AND YOU'LL BE SURPRISED!

For suddenly your loneliness will vanish.

And your tears will be less bitter.

In the widening joy of the new adventure.

And even the laughter you may meet,

And the jostling and jeers

Will seem warm and dear to you—

For there'll be a neighborliness in them.

They'll be a sign that you're accepted,

That you're part of the gang—

THAT YOU'VE COME HOME!

Come on!

Climb down!

GET REGULAR!

Wise Words

The afflictions to which we are accustomed do not disturb us.—Claudianus.

With books, as with companions, it is of more consequence to know which to avoid than which to choose. —Colton.

He that cannot forgive others breaks the bridge over which he must pass himself, for every man has need to be forgiven.—Herbert.

Multitude of jealousies and lack of some predominant desire that should marshal and put in order all the rest, maketh any man's heart hard to find or sound.—Bacon.

The blessings of fortune are the lowest; the next are the bodily advantages of strength and health; but the superlative blessings, in fine, are those of the mind.—L'Estrange.

Better the rudest work that tells a story or records a fact than the richest without meaning. There should not be a single ornament put upon great civic buildings without some intellectual intention.—Ruskin.

The Rhyming Optimist

By ALINE MICHAELIS

Infinity

The sailor for whom voyages are done,
Who knows that he will never ride again
Down the bright pathway of the setting sun
Across the restless hillocks of the main,
Dreams ever crouching here beside the door
Of the low cottage where his days are passed,
With dreams all timed to ocean's rhythmic roar
And set to music of the sea-wind's blast.

The sailor's fancies I have also dreamed,
I see that threat of storm across the bow,
That phosphorescence where the great ship streamed,
Those turquoise tints of sunset's afterglow;
With him I joy to think infinity
May some how wear the semblance of the sea.

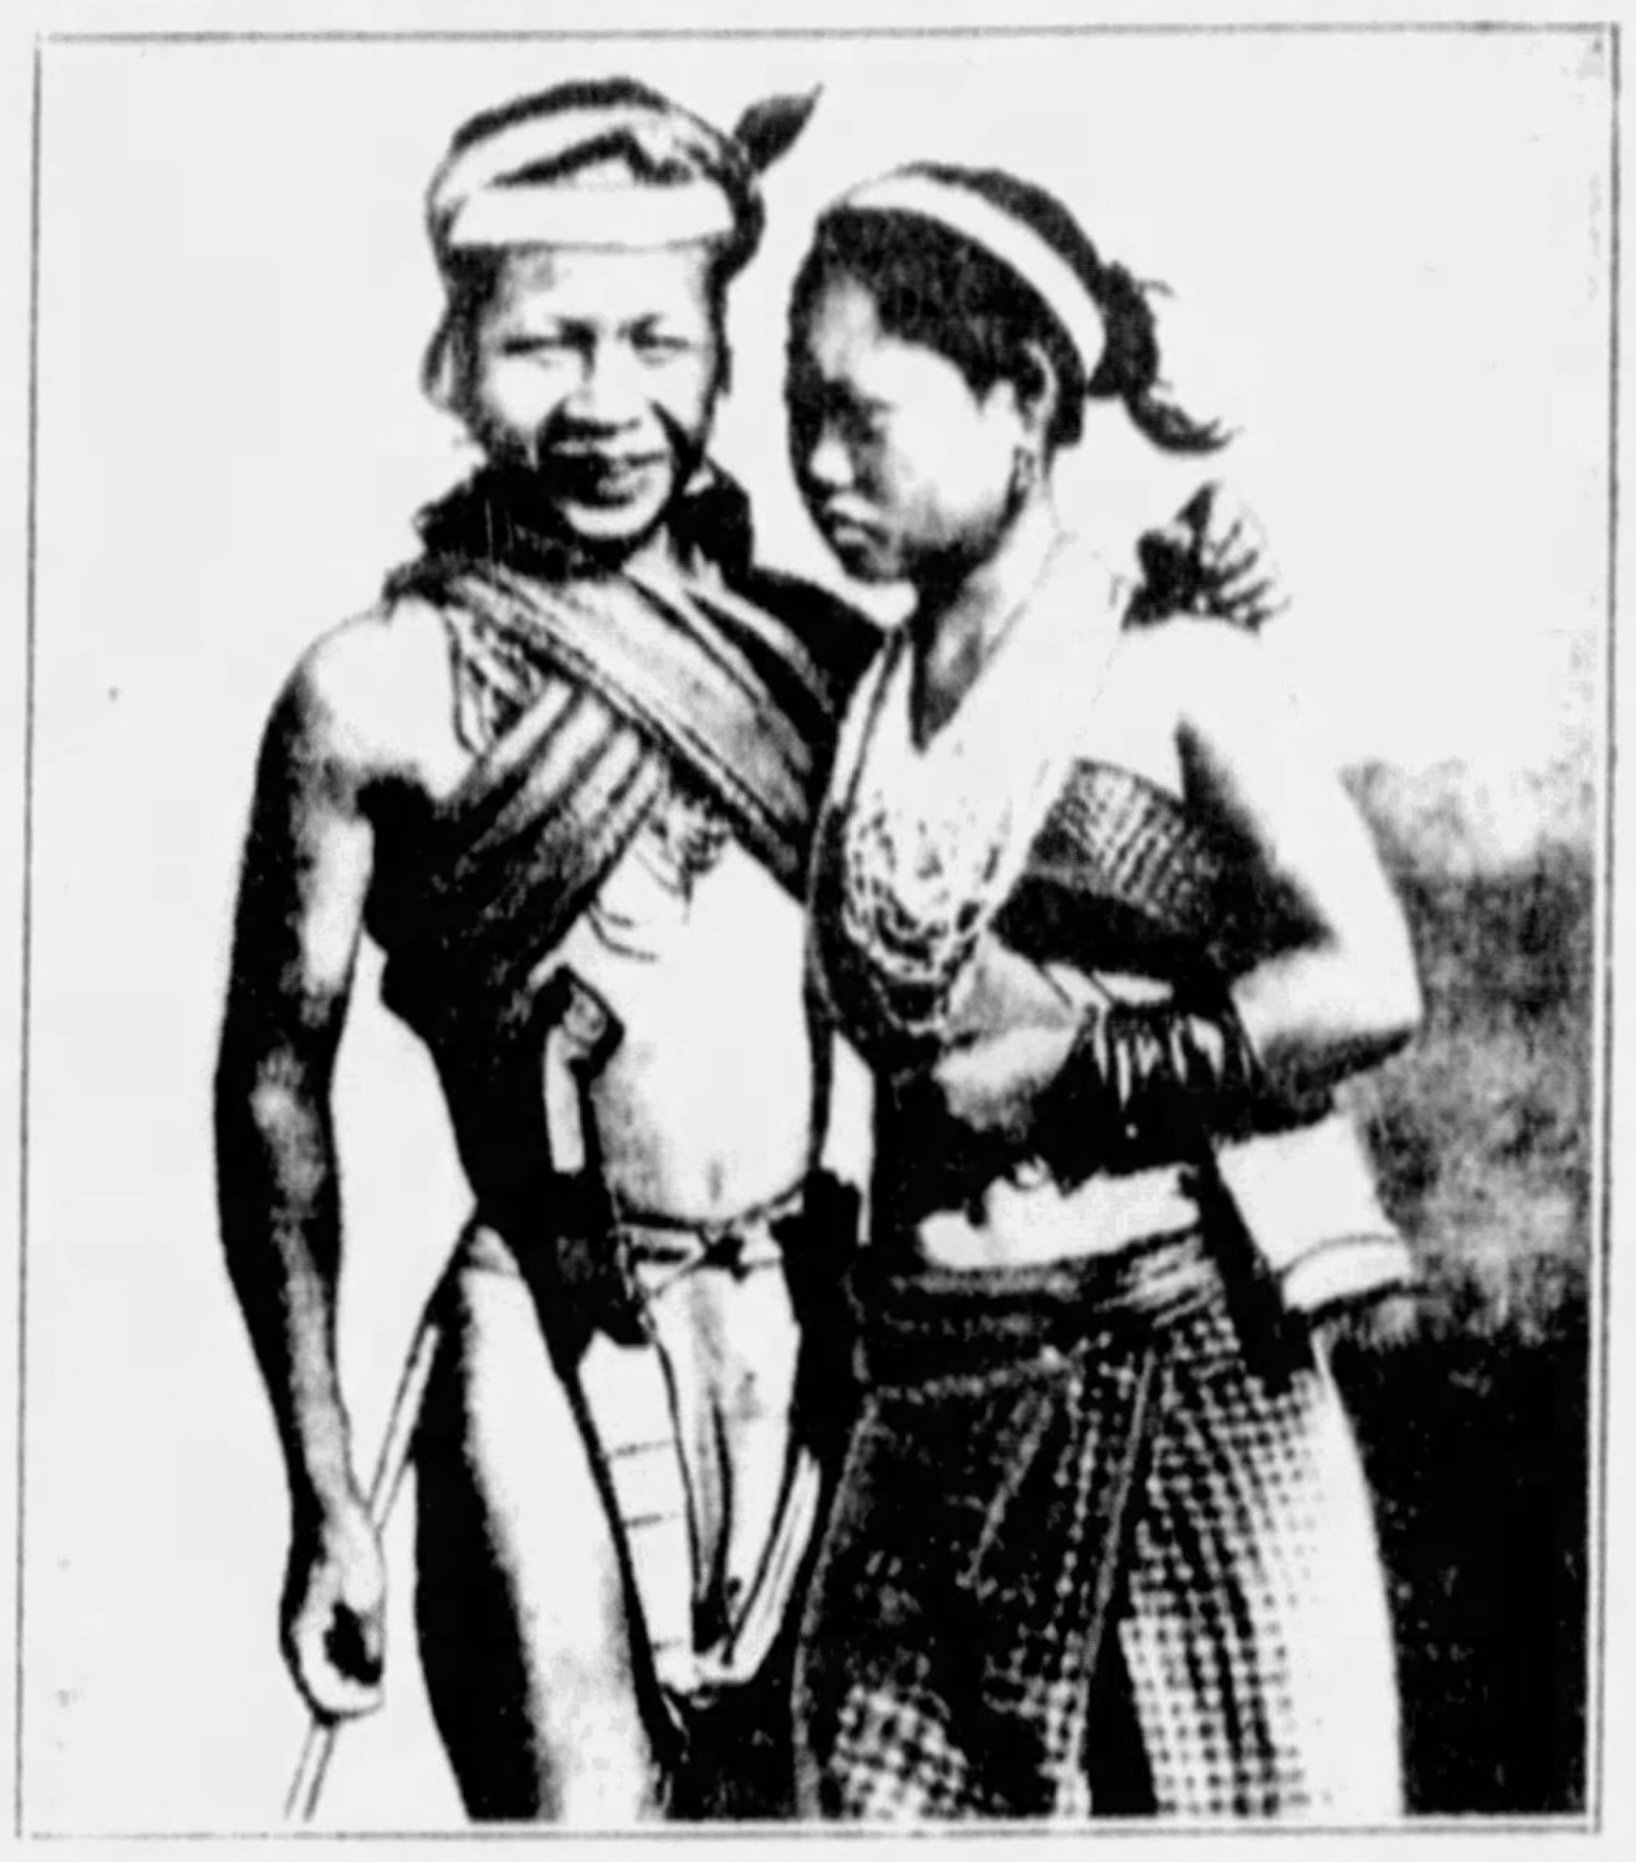
Happy Youth, Primitive Clothes

Is This What Our Youth Is Striving For?



A YOUNG COUPLE OF THE PHILIPPINES.

It is hard to believe, but these two are included among the children of Uncle Sam. They live in the Philippines, and their tribe, that of the Mangyans, is one of the most primitive in the islands.

This photograph, taken by an explorer for the National Geographic Magazine, shows a young Mangyan couple in holiday costume visiting one of Uncle Sam's flying fields, to see "the big birds" that make such a loud noise.

You notice the young man carrying in his belt a knife that looks as though it might be made useful if anybody should try to alienate the affection of the young girl beside him or any other property belonging to him.

Modern young people will be interested in these clothes, far removed from costumes that may be seen on the beaches of winter resorts. They are rather more elaborate than many costumes worn at the seashore in the summer time by us "highly civilized beings."

When we took over the Philippines we expected, of course, to "raise them to our degree of civilization," whatever that degree may be.

But, judging by modern costume, it looks as though our young people were hurrying downward toward the Mangyan style, instead of lifting the Mangyans up to old-fashioned American dress ideas.

The National Geographic Magazine renders public service in printing pictures of this kind. They make people think.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, Jan. 29.—Broadway slang of the moment is ancient verbiage to the tent showman as well as many of the underworld and lads who live by their wits. Odd phrases that pop out in musical comedy and swing from lip to lip among wise crackers are often a quarter century old.

Incidentally the term "wise crack" was coined by Chic Sale, the actor. Much modern slang is current too in the hobo jungles and among race track touts. It seeps up from the bogs and gradually flowers in the exclusive drawing rooms.

The "Main Stem" was heard in tramp camps as early as 1900 and is mentioned in a feature story in the Sunday Herald of the time. Beggars spawn many of the terms in effort to be picturesque yet conceal. The main stem was, as now, the term for a city's chief thoroughfare.

Mark is a word fattened by the prefix easy. Grifters with circuses would say in asides: "Nix cracking to the mark." They were saying: "Do not talk so the sucker can hear." Carnival showmen later on adopted pig-latin which a few years ago spangled Broadway's patter.

On the carnival lots the meaning would be obscured by making "Nix cracking" to sound "ixnay ackencray" to bewilder the yap or apjay. Old time shell workers are able to transpose obscure slang into pig-latin so adroitly it sounds like heathenish gibberish from the wilds of Borneo.

Broadway about 12 years ago discovered women were "broads." Yet the circus folk called them by that term during the creaking travail of wagon shows. Complimentary tickets were also "broads." Later skulls, signifying dead-heads. Still later "Annie Oakleys" because pierced with bullet like holes.

Thus urbane Broadway froths with the yokelisms at which it laughs. The Forty Niners called a suit of clothes "a set of threads" but used in a 1930 revue it convulses sophisticates. Many acts, too, that are vows on the Rialto were outmoded in the tent shows years ago.

The late Frank Bacon elaborated his sketch "Lightnin'," with which he knocked about in the kerosene lighted town halls for 20 years, into a play that ran on Broadway three years. * * *

In the carnival world a fortune teller is a mitt reader. A carnival was called a racket long before there were modern racketeers. A gambling game is gaffed to trim the sucker. Gaff comes from the sharp-pointed fish hook used to catch fish. * * *

Lousey, now fixed in Broadway actor jargon, is from small time troupers. A place was lousey in a literal sense and so became in the figurative. Lew Dockstader used to tell of the Maine tavern keeper who refused lodging to a repertoire company. In a querulous voice he explained: "The last troupe loused up the beddin'."

Darb, which is slang for something superior, is from the race tracks, an abbreviation of the English pronunciation of Derby. Buck was originally a circus term for a ten dollar bill but modernized means a single dollar. Century for a hundred and grand for a thousand are outdoor show terms. Acrobats used to be told to "get hot" as tap dancers are encouraged today. Fanny, mug, bozo and pansy are also out of a dimming decade, lingual caprices of the wagon circus.

In a sudden and futile burst of shopping fever last night I sought a pocket knife. Finally I tried a chain drug store. After repeating my desire to a bored clerk several times he looked up from a book and snapped: "We don't sell them!" I pivoted about slowly but half way through the door stopped. My mouth set in a cold straight line, my eyes became tiny points of steel and I screeched: "Well, you sell everything else, for land's sake!" That's talking back.

ONCE OVERS

By J. J. Mundy

You may be down and out, but don't advertise the fact.

It depresses those who hear as well as yourself and lessens your chances of persuading anyone that you are capable of carrying on in a successful way.

Who wants to employ a person who acts whipped and seems to have lost confidence in him?

Usually the first indication that a man has been beaten is his facial expression, his tones and the sagging of his shoulders.

It is usually a temporary affair.

Such a person is not likely to get an opening because the hiring agent believes that the job-seeker-sob-artist has lost his aggressiveness, ambition, initiative and confidence.

When it is necessary for you to apply for a job dress as suitably and as well as the position requires; hold your head up; get some life into your eyes.

Don't show over-confidence, but don't be hesitant about your ability to meet demands.

Do what you can to prove you are not a discouraged down and outer.
